PASSED WORTHLESS CHECKS.

Hymn Youngberg Arrested After Struggle With City Detective.

Confronted with the serious charge of passing bogus checks on the Huddart Floral company, Hymn Youngberg, aged 19 years, was arrested last night by Detective Wilson and lodged in the city jail.

It is alleged that the youth went to the floral company's place of business yesterday afternoon and ordered $4 worth of American Beauty roses and ordered them delivered at 8 o'clock at the Holiday drug store. In payment he tendered a check for $12. It was soon learned that the check was worthless and the police were notified. An attempt was made to force entry into the store and as Youngberg reached for the box, Wilson placed him under arrest. Youngberg put up a fight on the floor but was safely landed in jail. It was alleged by a friend of the young man that one of the officers abused him in Chief Pitt's office, but this statement is denied.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD.

Students and Faculty at University in Throes of Controversy.

The action of the faculty of the University of Utah in suspending seven students yesterday for maltreating a burglar of the engineers last Tuesday because he failed to obey the class decision declaring election day a holiday, will not end with the suspension of the seven involved. If the threats of the engineers and the firmness of the faculty are carried out, the engineering students claim that they are equally responsible for the episode. As the seven now suffering penalty were acting only as agents for them and the serious phase of the incident is that five of the suspended ones are members of the football team and when the sentence was passed were informed by the faculty that they were to take part in the game with the University of Wyoming, and that if the engineering school failed to stand behind them, they would not play the game with the University of Colorado, November 14.

The seven students who are suspended are H. C. Richardson, Benson Grant, William Home and Leland Walker of the sophomore class; and three freshmen, Seymour, Bennion and Darwin Richardson. John Lofthour was the first to be suspended for clipping Bozquist's hair as he was the only one recognized by the student and reported to the faculty. The other seven gave their names to the faculty as being equally worthy of reprimand with Lofthour. According to the students, the suspension of the seven will probably happen at the meeting to be held by the students today.

If the engineers stand by the suspended students the matter will resolve itself into whether the students or the faculty dominate the school.

Couch Maddock said that if the five students cannot play he would pick up enough representation to kick the ball around the field for the scheduled games.

JUDGE STARTLES WOMAN

After Rampant Trade Against Every-one in General, Mrs. Teen Shearner Gets Fifty Days.

There was an exciting and interesting incident in Judge Diehl's court yesterday afternoon, and the patience of his honor was sorely tried.

Mrs. Teen Shearner, residing at 124 north Second West street, was charged with violating the quarantine regulations, and before all the facts were brought out, there was a lively time in the old court room. Old-time spectators were roused from their slumber and even some of the policemen showed signs of life.

A few days ago, board of health officials learned that a woman and three children who had been living in a house where a case of smallpox existed, had left the place and visited the city.

"Yes, I tore the flag down, and I'll do it again," snapped the woman. "I told the man he could take the rug and his hat. There was nothing the matter there, and none of us had smallpox. Send your old doctor down and see. Do I look like I had smallpox?"

"You made trouble for me," she said, "and I am sure it was none of my business. I know darn well it was."

"You were fully ten minutes before Judge Diehl could get in a word edgewise, as the woman kept up a torrent of abuse and insulting remarks."

"Are you ready for sentence?" asked the court.

"You can sentence me all you want, but I will see that somebody else is sentenced."

"The sentence of the court is that you pay a fine of $50 and in default of payment you will be committed to the city jail for and during a period of 50 days."

"The woman flounced out of the court room, but was locked up pending payment of the fine. Her husband, who works at Bingham, will probably see that the fine is paid."
