THE OPENING DAY.

1 p. m.--Vice President J. G. McDonald will declare the official opening of the fair.
1:30 p. m.--Live open air performances.
2 p. m.--Horse Races.
2:30 p. m.--J. S. Mangel's 50-foot high dive into a tank of water 2 feet 6 inches deep.
3:00 p. m.--Dr. Carver in rifle shooting on race track.
3:15 p. m.--Austin Sisters in their great aerial act.
4:15 p. m.--Famous living horses that drop 50 feet into a tank of water.
5 p. m.--Phil D. Green's Great globe act (with fireworks at night).
In the evening these features will be repeated with the exception of the horse races and the addition of the electric fountain at 10 p. m.
Throughout the day Held's band will render stirring music.

For a strenuous representation of a live industry the drone is respectfully referred to the fair grounds. It is the bees that the army of people of both sexes who have been at work there all day will not cease their work until the last car leaves the grounds and also will be on hand bright and early tomorrow morning to put finishing touches on the numerous exhibits that form the feature of the Twentieth anniversary exhibition of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO FAIR.
Bright and early this morning it seemed as though all roads led to the Agricultural park and everyone traveling those roads was loaded down with mysterious packages while tack horses and monkey wrenches protruded from his pockets in a most suggestive manner. The streets were turned into veritable freight rolling stock and the procession of delivery wagons and assorted vehicles bearing anything from bottled goods to a Berkshire sow, seemed the retreat of Kropotkin's commissary wagons to Mukden. Over on the "Y" that has been put in to the fair gates by the Salt Lake & Los Angeles railroad, a gang of men were busy at work unloading massive kine and all manner of impedimenta associated with a state fair in all its glory. It would be hard to estimate the number of men at work on the grounds. The "News" endeavored to get an idea from the officials, but they threw up their hands instantly. Everybody was busy.

JUST WORKED TO DEATH.
Early in the day Sney, Bateman was regretting that he lacked an extra pair of hands and ears, while Vice President J. G. McDonald made a very laudable attempt to be in three places at once. W. H. Strepper was completely motionless under the waiting line of those desirous of entering exhibits. These are just samples of what the rest were doing. Above all sounded the following of gentleman Durhams, the whinnying of horses, the aggressive crowing of the Plymouth Rocks and the omnipresent terrible tap of the tack hammer.

BETTER THAN LAST YEAR.
From a cursory glance over the grounds it is safe to say that this year's fair will be ahead of that held last October. Already the entries, with the possible exception of the live stock, exceed in number those of 12 months ago. The free attractions and the Midway shows are also distinctly ahead of the fairs of last year. The fact that the fairs have entered also adds materially to the general exhibit.

Given fine weather this week the state fair which opens tomorrow will undoubtedly be the most successful ever held in the Beehive state.

GOOD RACES.
The lovers of good horse racing are destined to be pleased with the bill of fare that has been arranged for their delectation by Supervisor Bransford and his assistants. The horses are of an excellent condition. This morning there was a very little room left on the course and the drivers trying on their smooth down the slightly rough places.

FIXING THEIR TOILETS.
Throughout the live stock department men and boys are giving the animals washbaths. Helers with combs and them that looked as though they had been treated with a steam roller were energetic chewing their cud while their horns and scullies were getting done up in artistic braids, while swine weighing in the neighborhood of half a ton were being coaxed into their pens at an imminent peril of getting their tails screwed off in the process. Then there were constantly arriving consignments of sheep, clad in heavy wool winnies, mastodontic pumpkins, and things that are associated with the annual exhibit.

FIRST EXHIBIT IN PLACE.
To John H. Bach is ascribed the honor of being the first exhibitor to have his display in place in the main building.

ing: this consists of a very unique collection of honey, wax and by-products. Following close on the heels of the such show come Hewlett Bros. and Evans' floral display. Both will be completed by tonight, and both bid fair to be the features of the building. Hewlett's exhibit this year takes the form of a big Eiffel tower of essences and scents around the base of which run through unique tunnels "The first train of the San Pedro road." The wagon loads of palms and choice plants that have already arrived and the space that has been set apart for the show indicates that the florists are going to spread themselves this year which will be necessary the fruit and vegetable display is the most backward at this time on the grounds. Owing to the perishable nature of the exhibit it will not be taken from cold storage until the last moment, but Supervisor V. G. Cragan promises that there will be no disappointment when it is forthcoming. The great strong card of this year's exhibit, however, is the good measure, pressed down and running over, that the officials in charge of the grounds have provided. Nothing need be said as to the horse racing, as it is in Mr. Bransford's hands--and said that the Midway and outdoor attractions, however, are somewhat of a departure, which will make a great hit with city folk and country visitors alike. The wonderful diving horses alone should be worth the price of admission if all that is promised is lived up to.

Here are a few of the attractions. Free, the diving horses, Austin sisters in their human fly act; revolving trap, electric fountain, globe act on spirit tower and wonderful shooting with a rifle by Dr. Carver between heats at the races.

On the Midway the following shows will be in order: The Electric show, Old Plantation, Statue Turned to Life, the Giant Octopus, Snake Charming, in the Stadium will be exhibited the thrilling loop-the-loop, Jump-the-Gap and the high dive of J. S. Mangel from an 80-foot platform into a tank of water two feet six inches deep.

HORSE RACES TOMORROW.

First Days Events of Five Days Meet at State Fair.
Beginning tomorrow afternoon, lovers of horse racing will be given a treat which will last five days. Harness and running events will be the order of things at Agricultural park track until Saturday afternoon. Liberal purses have been hung up for the fast ones, and the program for each day is all that could reasonably be expected. The opening card, tomorrow, is as follows:
No. 1--Trotting, 2:30 class, $400.
No. 2--Trotting, 2:30 class, $400.
No. 3--Running, 3-mile dash, $200.
No. 4--Running, 3-mile dash, $200.

NOTES.
Z. C. M. I. threatens to surpass itself on this occasion and additional space has been secured for the purpose.

Every fence and stall within the grounds this year has received a liberal coat of whitewash, much to the improvement of things generally.

Joseph A. Silver, the new director of the D. A. & M. society, was on the grounds bright and early this morning "catching on" the ropes.

An extremely fat man with a young litter which arrived this morning will be sure to be one of the centers of attraction for the youngsters.

Superintendent Christensen, Samuel Doxey and A. S. Martin gave first class exhibitions of real busy men in the educational department this morning.

A sign, conspicuously posted in the main building, informs the public that the fair is a state fair, not a county fair, and that the fair is a state fair, not a county fair, and that the fair is a state fair, not a county fair.

Complacent cows clad in blankets and frisky calves with a penchant for butting in where they are not wanted were conspicuous all day today along the southwest boulevard.

Among the new exhibitors this year is the National Biscuit company, which promises to have a very attractive display of toothsome crackers and confections.

Several hundred loads of gravel have been hauled on to the grounds so that if the worst comes to the worst and it rains there will be no distressing mud that marked previous exhibitions.

The restaurant this year promises to have something more on the bill of fare than the usual fare of the fair. It will give better service than the never-to-be-forgotten layout of last October.

Mrs. Priscilla J. Ritter, H. L. A. Culmer and others were hard at work today receiving the art exhibits. Needless to say, the hanging committee has its hands full trying to please everybody.

The big new main building which is being erected on the grounds, is coming up in great shape and will be a very handsome structure and is a credit to the state.

The Agricultural college students from Logan this morning were a very busy gang in the main building as they unpacked their exhibits, drove nails galore. This exhibit occupies an enclosed space in one corner of the building.

Salt Lake public schools have a very fine display, the educational exhibit occupying one-half of one side of the building. In addition to the extra space secured this year, there is a big show case of new work turned out by the scholars.

Vice President J. G. McDonald has fitted up very snug quarters for the members of the press at the entrance to the Midway, with paper on the walls bright enough to cure ophthalmia. Incidentally the rooms are furnished with a "refrigerator" and a stove, both hot numbers.

In anticipation of the big crowds which are expected from all parts of the state on the opening day tomorrow, to say nothing of the thousands who will take advantage of the public half-holiday in the city, the management has put on an extra lot of experienced game men.

One of the features of the live stock department this year will be an exhibit of prime Herefords from Idaho. A carload of pedigree cattle arrived this morning from the Gem State for exhibition. While they are not eligible for immediate supervision of the fair, they will nevertheless be the center of attraction among the breeders.

While moving a safe from a truck into the secretary's office this afternoon the heavy affair got away from the men and bore down on one of the helpers, who endeavored to stem the avalanche. Fortunately the safe caught on the corner of the door, smashing things in great shape and causing a lively scattering among some ladies inside the building.

The Midway attractions which are under the management of Phil D. Green, an old-time showman, are under the immediate supervision of Vice President J. G. McDonald who gives the assurances that all the shows are a decided improvement on those of last October on the same site, and that at the same time there is nothing to offend the most fastidious, while loud, boisterous or unsightly behavior will not be tolerated on the Midway, or, for that matter, on any part of the fair grounds.

SERMON PREACHED BY MISS BIGGART.

Speaks Before the Students of
L. D. S. University This Morning.

SIMON THE CROSS BEARER.

Tonight at 8 o'clock "Adam Bede"
Dramatized Will be Presented.

At the Latter-day Saints' University this morning, before the assembled students and a number of visitors, Miss Mabelle Biggart, B. A., of New York City, preached an interesting sermon. After the usual devotional exercises, Mr. Thomas Ashworth sang the sacred solo, "Just for Today," and Trust, Paul introduced the speaker, who said, in part:

"We shall find our text this morning in the 23rd chapter of St. Luke, 26th verse. And as they led him away, they laid him upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross that he might bear it after Jesus." And in St. Mark the 15th chapter, 21st verse, you will find the words, "And they compelled one Simon, a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, to bear the cross." And who are they who compelled the multitude? The people and the multitude crying out began to desire him, Pilate, to do as he had done unto them. And Pilate willing, to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus when he had scourged him to be crucified.

Three kinds of friendship are displayed in this greatest of tragedies of religious history. Pilate had the power and the heart to see, but the weakness not to reject the voice of the people, or to declare himself superior in his station and follow the dictates of his conscience. Pilate did not condemn, neither did he prevent rabbi from crucifying him. He did not actually commit one of the most brutal of deeds in the history of man, but was a party to it, because he leaned on the people. Herod was another of Jesus' friends. Herod was curious to see the Galilean, and being a man of great worldly possessions, unable to count his hoarded gold, he was able, through cruelty and power, to inspire fear and to defy all earthly and heavenly power. The friendship between Herod and Pilate which followed, I think is interesting. These men were allies. Both followed the people.

A third friend of Jesus on the way to Golgotha was a true friend in need. It was Simon the cross bearer. Who was he? Perhaps he was a black man. He happened to be coming into the city from the country, and met the fearful procession to Calvary. Just at that moment Jesus, who had been carrying His cross, stumbled and fell. His executors, seeing His strength was exhausted and seeing the stalwart countryman, Simon, looking on, laid hold on him and compelled him to carry the cross the rest of the way. That one word "after" changes the whole meaning.

I am not of your faith, yet I stand before you and stand with you so far as you take Jesus Christ as your Savior, and life everlasting and the basis. Would it not be well if Christians of 1904 should cling together on this basis, and offer themselves Christians in deed as well as in name?"

The speaker stated that there are only two classes of people in the world--lifters and leavers; and illustrated this thesis by many examples. Just at a fine poem from Ella Wheeler Wilcox, speaking of lifters and leavers, Miss Biggart said:

"No church, no nation, can exist without friendship. Blessed are the peace-makers. The one called King Edward, shortly after he ascended the throne he went over to old Ireland, and came back with a title which I think is the grandest of titles ever given to a monarch. It was Edward the Peace-maker. War today, young men and young women, should be a thing of the past, a relic of barbarism. As long as war of the men exist in this great humanity, there must be cross-bearers. I can call your attention this morning to something you all know about. Will you follow me into Port Arthur, into the army? Step over to Germany on the other side. Take the train from Berlin going to Moscow; or in Russia into the army; then start across the Russian plains, meet them with the enemy, where men and women are following by the thousands. In all these places there is need of cross-bearers; of helpers; and it is so every-where."

TONIGHT'S RECITAL.
The recital tonight of "Adam Bede," condensed and dramatized by Miss Biggart, was announced as a powerful argument for social purity, and the public was invited to attend.

ALPINE POSTOFFICE.
That and Summer One at Castilla Ordered Discontinued.

(Special to the "News.")
Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.--Rural free delivery route No. 1 has been ordered discontinued. No. 1, at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. Population to be served, 60; houses on route, 16.

The postoffice at Alpine, Utah county, and the summer postoffice at Castilla, Utah county, have been ordered discontinued.

SWING IN OR OUT.
Mr. Dooley Has Referred Building Inspector to Federal Officials.

In regard to changing the doors at the postoffice so as to swing outward in compliance with the city building ordinances, a letter was received today by City Building Inspector Lewis from John E. Dooley, the owner of the building, who says that plans for the office were prepared under the direction of the postoffice department at Washington and the doors were swung inward in compliance with instructions from that department. Under the terms of the lease Mr. Dooley says that he cannot change the doors unless directed to do so by the postal authorities. He therefore notifies Mr. Lewis that he will have to look to such authorities for any change in the doors. Mr. Lewis today wrote the proper officials at Washington concerning the change required in the doors.

NOW MAKING SUGAR.

Idaho Falls Factory Started on Second Season's Run This Morning.
(Special to the "News.")
Idaho Falls, Oct. 3.--The second season's run of the factory of the Utah Sugar company at this place started at 8 o'clock this morning. The machinery has been overhauled and everything ran as smoothly as clock work. It is expected that the mill will run to its full capacity of 600 tons in the first 12 hours.

The beets are arriving steadily and from the present outlook the mill will run for the next 30 days, working in all 40,000 to 50,000 tons.

MR. CROSBY IN TOWN.

He Confirms the Report of His Resignation as Elector.
Among the early conference visitors who have thus far arrived is a delegation of 72 people from the Big Horn country, Wyo., among them President Jesse W. Crosby. He states that in all about 100 people will be here from that section. The season has been unusually prosperous with plenty of water and good crops. The population of Big Horn county is 5,000, of which about one-third is "Mormon."

Mr. Crosby, when asked regarding his resignation as an elector on the Wyoming Republican ticket, stated that the report was true. His friends had named him entirely without his solicitation or consent, and as soon as he had learned that there was any objection he had withdrawn in the interests of peace. The Tribune statement that his action would result in his friends voting against the ticket he said was all rubbish. Big Horn county was normally Republican and he believed it would continue so. There is a fair sprinkling of Democrats there and he believed they would vote their ticket, as the Republicans would vote theirs.

WILL BRING HIM BACK.

Davis County Officer to Go After Utah Prisoner Now in California.
Gov. Wells today issued requisition papers upon the governor of California for the return to this state of William O'Connors who is wanted in Davis county for grand larceny. O'Connors stole a large quantity of copper wire from the Utah Independent Telephone company and was out on bail when he left the state. His trial was set for last Friday and he was captured last Thursday at Stockton, Cal. Sheriff Pierce of Farmington will go after the prisoner.

BOTTLE AS A WEAPON.

Impatient Guest Knocked Down by Indignant Waiter--Latter Arrested.
Roy Hansen, 50 years old, a waiter employed in the Acme cafe, was arrested at 9 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Bush, who charged Hansen with having assaulted F. G. Hefferman with a deadly weapon. The arrest is the result of a quarrel which occurred between the two men in the restaurant at an early hour this morning.

Hansen says that Hefferman went into the restaurant and gave an order. In a few minutes he insisted that he be served at once, and Hansen claims to have said that Hefferman would have to wait until the order was cooked. Hefferman is then alleged to have arisen and called Hansen a vile name, and to have made a threatening motion. Hansen struck Hefferman over the head with a Worcestershire sauce bottle, felling him to the floor.

Patrolman Bush, who was on that beat, was sent for and Hansen was arrested. Hefferman is being held as a witness.

P. M. GEN. PAYNE'S END NOT FAR OFF.

Latest Bulletin Says He is Losing Ground, Being Sustained by Artificial Life.

PHYSICIANS HAVE LITTLE HOPE.

President Was a Caller at His Apartments This Morning--Felt Encouraged Then.

Washington, Oct. 3.--Postmaster General Payne's condition again is critical. Up to 3 o'clock this morning Mr. Payne was doing well, but at that hour he had a sinking spell and from 3 to 7 he was kept alive only by the application of powerful stimulants. In fact it required the use of greater quantity of heart remedies than at any previous time. There was a weak response to the treatment. Dr. Magruder was sent for early this morning by Dr. Grayson, who remained with Mr. Payne during the latter part of the night and at 8:45 they were joined by Dr. Rixey.

Dr. Osier came over from Baltimore this morning and joined doctors Magruder, Rixey and Grayson in a consultation. The following bulletin in Mr. Payne's condition was subsequently issued:

"3:30 a. m.--Since 3 o'clock this morning he has not been so well. The heart's action is again weaker. Condition not so favorable."
(Signed)
MAGRUDER,
OSLER,
RIXEY,
GRAYSON."

President Roosevelt left Mr. Payne's apartments at 10:05, having made a longer stay than usual. The president said that Mr. Payne had taken a turn for the better in the last 20 minutes.

It got the impression that the physicians believe that if they can pull the patient through for another 24-hours he would have a chance for life.

The following bulletin was issued at 11:50 a. m.:
"There has been some improvement since the morning consultation. Retained all nourishment. Now resting easily."
(Signed)
MAGRUDER,
GRAYSON."

Dr. Osier returned to Baltimore immediately after the morning consultation.

At 1:45 p. m. one of the physicians in attendance upon Mr. Payne made the following statement to a representative of the Associated Press:

"Postmaster General Payne is rapidly losing ground. He is sustained now only by artificial life. He is distinctly worse than at any time during his illness and the end is not far off."

STORY OF ST. LOUIS BOODLE COMBINE.

Charles F. Kelly, Ex-Speaker of
The House of Delegates, Makes A Written Confession.

CONSCIENCE MADE HIM MAKE IT

Scarcely a Bill Passed During Last Quarter of a Century but Was Paid For.

THREATS OF AN ASSASSINATION.

Against Circuit Atty. Folk--"Among Ourselves, Understand, We Had a High Code of Morals."

St. Louis, Oct. 3.--In a written confession today, Charles F. Kelly, speaker of the house of delegates during a period in the life of the boodle combine, relates the story of that combine. Kelly is under conviction for perjury in connection with "boodle" cases, and his trial on the charge of bribing in connection with the suburban franchise deal will be called Monday. He is now out on bond.

He declares that a prominent local politician promised himself and others implicated that the next circuit attorney would be "all right," and promised if they would remain firm he would secure for them either continuances until the new circuit attorney took office, or pardons afterwards. He declares that this man said the new circuit attorney, for which office nominations are to be made by the Democrats today, would be "his man."

Kelly declared that a prominent politician paid him $15,000 of $50,000 promised to keep away from the grand jury before which he had been subpoenaed to appear after John K. Murrell returned from Mexico and turned states' evidence in the city lighting deal. He went to Europe by way of Canada, taking the name of James Hogan. It was the intention of the politician, Kelly said, to have him remain away until after the statute of limitations had run out on the lighting deal. By a mis-calculation, Kelly said, he came back too soon and was arrested.

Kelly declares he refused this offer and that he makes this confession to satisfy the pangs of an accusing conscience, to obey the requests of his wife and to do what he can to make atonement to the public and prevent other young men, from following the path which he declares has led him to ruin.

In the course of his confession, Kelly details the story of the city lighting deal, for which a boodle fund of $47,500 was divided between the nineteen members of the combine at Julius Lehmann's birthday party. He declares that the prominent politician aforesaid gave him the boodle fund, that he took it to Lehmann's house and that he there divided it.
