CATARRH

Sneezing Catarrh, Chronic Catarrh, Ulcerative Catarrh, permanently cured by

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is safe, certain, and permanent cure for Catarrh of every form, and is the most perfect remedy ever devised. It is purely a vegetable distillation, and is applied locally by inhalation, and constitutionally by internal administration. Locally applied, relief is instantaneous. It soothes, heals, and cleanses. It cures at once every feeling of heaviness, obstruction, dullness, or dizziness. Constitutionally administered it renovates the blood, purifies it of the acrid poison with which it is always charged in Catarrh, stimulates the stomach, liver, and kidneys, perfects digestion, makes new blood, and permits the formation of healthy tissue. In this way, locally obtaining complete control over the disease. The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it but can be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references. It is a great and good medicine, and worthy all the confidence reposed in it. Pamphlets, with notes on Catarrh and Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for its use in all cases. Price $1.

An Enthusiastic Friend of Sanford's Radical Cure.

McILVAINE, GRANT & BOWEN'S FIRE AND MARINE AGENCY, 703 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 7, 1877.

A. A. MELLIER, Washington Av., City.—Dear Mellier: I have for some years been troubled with Catarrh. Two years ago it became so bad as to affect seriously with it. Noticing your advertisement of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, I decided to try it. I have used two bottles, and, as a result, I feel so much relieved that I presume on our personal relations and write this to you and ask that you tell me if you know of any more genuine cases before the public, that others may have such relief as I have. I have recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have spoken to me of their high estimate of its value and good effects with them.

I really think it particularly adapted to wants of St. Louis people, and they all ought to know of it, and those who need it should try it. I will risk the result. I believe $1000 on it. Trial size is sample to be given away with each as many bottles.

Try sample first. Let the people have it if they need it. I believe I shall sell 5000 bottles of it—of course your count, largely increase this summer. Why not try it? Yours truly, WM. DOWEN.

LAME BACK AND RHEUMATISM

CURED BY

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,—One year ago I was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism in my right side, to which I was subject. I tried the various liniments and rheumatic cures, but without the least benefit, when I was induced, by the suggestions of your COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS. The effect was almost magical, for, to my great surprise, I was entirely relieved in a few hours, and was able to work upon my farm as usual, whereas, before the application of the Plasters, I could do nothing, and every step gave me pain. A few days since, the year from the first attack, the disease returned, but I am happy to say the second Plaster proved as efficacious as the first, and I acknowledge my wife was not to blame for my folly in not sending for them sooner. I am pleased to say that I have enjoyed her of a very long touch. To think there is nothing in the world of remedy equal to them, and with the COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS for Rheumatism and Lame Backs, and cheerfully recommend them to the afflicted. Yours truly, ORLAND, Me., June 6, 1876. ROBERT COTTON.

NOT A QUACK NOSTRUM.

Gentlemen,—I hereby certify that for several years past I have used the VOLTAIC PLASTERS in my family, and have never known them to fail in affording speedy relief in those cases for which they are recommended. They are not a quack nostrum, but a remedial agent of great value. Very truly yours, C. COLLINS, M. D. DUCKSPORT, Me., May 27, 1875.

PRICE 25 CENTS.

Be careful to obtain COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER, a combination of Electric and Voltaic Plates, with a highly Medicated Plaster, as pictured in the above cut. Sold by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists throughout the United States and Canadas, and by WEEKS & POTTER, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Infant Mortality.

[From the Prairie Farmer.]

Much has been said about the great mortality of infancy. Over one hundred thousand infants, who are less than five years of age, annually pass from these United States to the "city of pearly gates and golden streets." Intelligent physicians tell us that a large percentage of them are removed through the ignorance and carelessness of mothers; that over-feeding is the great cause of a large amount of this mortality and a much larger amount of infantile suffering. So we wish to say what we may to prevent this slaughtering of the innocents.

The reports of our larger cities show that one-third of all deaths are those of children under twelve months of life. Need this sad result occur? We think a work is yet to be done to prevent so much cruelty to infancy. The cause of all this cruelty to infancy is the kind of food these delicate creatures have and the way of giving it. The young mother is irresistibly inclined to stuff her little ones with food till illness and sufferings come, and she unwittingly thus causes her infant's death.

No food is so well adapted to the special needs of infancy in all the stages of its growth as the mother's milk. And it should be given till time and changes in its development may fit the organs of digestion for other means of nourishment. This natural food for the earliest years of human life is wisely changed in its composition from month to month, so as to supply the wants and meet the needs of its continuous growth and activities. Its various organs need development and strength. Its muscles are mostly water, and its bones are soft and pliable. Nature nearly always does her duties well unless art interferes and throws her off the track. The physician and the mother, then, should watch her ways and try to follow her directions. The mother should not be led astray by names—maternal milk does not always mean food that is reliable in quantity or quality. Prenatal influences may alter its constitution, may change the character of its constituents in quality and in proportions, so that it is no better for infancy than the milk of other animals. The mother may have germs of certain constitutional diseases. These may be such as to deteriorate the lactic fluid no less than other secretions of the body. The various organs or various systems are mutually so dependent upon each other; if one suffers from disease all suffer. The mother may be generally weak and feeble, and so all the tissues may fail to do their duty. The many glands, as the liver, kidneys, pancreas and countless others, may fail to purify the blood and so compel the mammaries to secrete milk from impure and vitiated sources. The infant may have impure blood coursing through its arteries. This is often increased and fostered by vitiated milk. Often the intelligent physician desires to eradicate the morbid tendencies in the mother and to instill into the pliable and susceptible frame of the infant, atoms of matter that may form better and purer tissues than its immediate ancestors possessed.

All physicians know, and all mothers should know, that the nutritious value of food depends upon its composition, upon its constituents and their absorbtion and assimilation. Regarding the quality of maternal milk, it varies greatly. The water may be in excess and so less nutritious, or it may be diminished; the caseine may be increased and so digested with difficulty. Watery milk from ilified and anaemic women lacks butter. The butter of milk is not dissolved as are the caseine, sugar and salts, but float in the mass as fat globules. Butter is an important constituent of milk and aids the digestion of caseine. Removing the butter from the milk produces the same result as if caseine were in excess. The milkman who skims his milk renders it less digestible and nutritious. The plastic materials from milk are converted into the tissues of the body by the aid of fat—or fat is essential to the forming of new cells. Fat nourishes growing infants. So that if the fat globules or the butter are removed, the infant who takes the milk grows thin. The sugar contributes largely to producing heat. The heating power of sugar is one-half that of fat. As it passes through the body it is partly changed to fat. Sugar is apt to ferment in the mouth and food canal if long retained, and there is changed to acids that irritate the mucous membrane. The sore mouth of infants may be often traced to the excess of sugar added to their food. Nurses sometimes give infants, as a drink, molasses and water. It soon ferments, induces acidity, and the sore mouth so common among those who have been unwisely fed. Sugar is often useful. But let infants have the purest and freest from the principle of fermentation.

We have been led into this train of thought by the fact that the season is now upon us when we must expect a universal mortality in infancy. Infants are but tender buds, unable to stem the many adverse circumstances by which they are encircled. Many a mother may ask, What can we do to prevent the diseases peculiar to this season of the year? We reply, Keep them cool by washing them, specially the brain and spine, three or more times a day, with cold or warm water, as their constitution may require. Keep the nursery cool by closing the windows early enough to keep out the heated air. Make no changes in their food unless absolutely necessary. Give them mucilages before they suck or feed. Barley water is an excellent form, and may add weak borax water or tea made from the blackberry root, or from the wild geranium. Be careful not to overfeed. Acidity and indigestion may be checked by the borax water. Stop the looseness of the bowels at once. Delays are dangerous. A coffee made from oats, to which add milk, sugar and beef tea. Oat coffee is made by burning the oats as we do common coffee. Grind it coarsely. Add water and let it boil. Scotch mothers have great confidence in its power of checking diarrhœa. Allow us to repeat, Do not over-feed. If a child eructates its food, give it less next time.
