

SATURDAY SERMONS.

(Written for the Deseret News by Elbert Hubbard.)

The man who is worthy of being a leader of men will never complain of the stupidity of his people, of their inappreciation of the truth, of their indifference to the great game of life, and to meet them and not go down before them in discouragement and defeat is the final proof of power.

There are two qualities that are the property of only strong men: confidence and resignation. What is lost today cannot fall to bring the best results tomorrow.

In case you have thoughts and emotions speak your mind, blot out for you is not far away.

We believe a thing fast and skilful for our proofs afterward.

It is only in our prosperity that we show our friends overboard.

Prayer is an emotional exercise; an endeavor to bring the will into a state of harmony with the Divine will; a rest and composure that gives strength by putting us in position to partake of the strength of the universal.

If your life is to be a genuine consecration, you must be free. Only the free man is faithful; only the heart that is free is pure.

All success consists in this: you are doing something for somebody—benefiting humanity; and the feeling of success comes from the consciousness of this.

I wish that all parents knew that love is better than a cut-of-nine-tails, and that sympathy saves more souls than threats do.

We do what we do and are what we are on account of impulses given us by previous training, previous acts and conditions under which we live and have lived.

The charm of reading is in the recognition of what we know.

You better learn to accept all the small misdeeds and trivial annoyances of life as a matter of course. To allow them to receive attention beyond their due is to wear the web of your life to the warp. Be on the lookout for the great joys and never let mosquitoes worry you into a passion.

I expect to see the day when the conversational method will be supreme, and teaching will be done practically without books—by object lessons, thinking things out, talking about them and doing things.

Love, that curious life-stuff, which holds within itself the store of all possibilities; that makes alive dull eyes, gives the coward heart and warms into being the sudden senses; that gives joy and gratitude, and rest and hope and peace; shall we not call this Divine?

If love is life and hate is death, how can spite benefit?

When we realize that we are a part of all that we see, or hear, or feel, we are not lonely. But to feel a sense of separation is to feel the chill of death.

The true work of all governments is to do away with the necessity of any government.

It is a great man who, when he finds that he has come out at the little end of the horn, simply appropriates the horn and blows it forevermore.

He who will not accept orders has no right to give them; he who will not serve has no right to command; he who cannot keep silence has no right to speak.

Love is the great enlightener.

Take my word for it, Charlie, the man pushing a wheelbarrow is just as happy as the man riding in an automobile—he has just as good a digestion, sleeps as well, and will live as long. God equalizes all things, and if you get off a way so as to get the perspective, you will see everything is of one size.

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

The matter in this column is edited and prepared by ladies of Ogden interested in temperance work.

High license or low license does not change the effect of whiskey.

To license wrong is to sanction wrong, and to sanction wrong is to assume responsibility for that wrong.

What does it mean that the most desperate criminals today are mere boys? Stop and think!

Heavenly parents throw their children to the concubines! License voters throw theirs and their neighbor's to the saloons.

A young man drunk is often his father's vote walking around.

How much money is the saloonkeeper who makes his living by running men than the town which votes to let him do so if he will only divide the money.

FACTS WORTH QUOTING.

Edward Cook of Ladies' Home Journal fame, having traveled the road to success, out of his experience states the following for the benefit of young men still on the way: "No young man," he says, "will ever find that the principle of total abstinence from liquor is a barrier to any success—social, commercial or otherwise."

Fifteen thousand physicians in Great Britain have signed a petition in favor of compulsory scientific education. Dr. Frank Payne, vice president London Pathological society, asserts, "Alcohol is a fundamental and tissue poison, and there is no escape or necessary use for it as a medicine."

Bishop Hartzell says that the white man's rum is responsible for the death of 20,000 black men in Africa every year. For how many more deaths is it responsible, through the strife and murder which it incites, no one can estimate.

JAMAICA GINGER.

Emma Graves Dietrich.

"I am tired and cold, aren't you?" said one lady to another, as they were shopping one cold winter day.

"Yes," replied her friend; "then let's come in here and get a hot ginger," answered the first, and the two quiet cultured women took their places with others at the counter of a fashionable drug store and ordered each a "hot Jamaica Ginger."

They and others slipped and talked, and after a time passed out, but the proprietor said to a bystander, "those women would soon go to a bar and get a hot whiskey sling, but they've taken on their ginger for just the same reason the toper takes his dram, because it braces them up, and they have taken it for the alcohol in it, too, though perhaps they do not know that part of it." "Is it so strong of liquor as that?" questioned the druggist. "Certainly," replied the druggist, "it contains about twice as much alcohol as whiskey, and a 'ginger tipple' is getting to be a common thing with women."

After a moment he added thoughtfully, "I am not at all sure that the drink habit of many young men and women today may not have been cultivated by the ease with which the Jamaica ginger bottle is opened and used in the home."

"This may seem a harsh statement, but any one who will pour a little Jamaica ginger in a small dish and touch a match to it, will see that it is almost pure alcohol." Said a mother one day to a friend, who had thus proved to her the alcohol in her ginger. "I wonder if that is why my boy loves ginger tea made of this kind of ginger and will not touch the old-fashioned kind."

A little effort proved this to be the case, and the mother was horrified to find her 12-year-old boy had already developed a love for liquor.

It took the combined effort of the mother and the boy, aided by a skilled physician to conquer the awakened appetite.

In these days when so much is being said of the danger and harmfulness of

MRS. PECKHAM AGREES TO ANSWER QUESTIONS.

This is Mrs. Sarah Peckham, who was mentioned prominently in connection with the recent cotton-leak scandal. She is also interested in the Sarah De Faye & Co's case in Chicago, and up to the present time has refused to answer any questions, but when threatened with prison she said she would tell all she knew about Faye & Co., but nothing touching on her private life. Mrs. Peckham said: "This picture will express my feelings while answering Mr. Mark's questions at the hearing in the Sarah De Faye & Co. case."

patent medicines, let us not forget that one of the most insidious is found in the bottle of Jamaica ginger to be found on so many pantry shelves.

DEBARRED.

It is well to note the remarkable change and advance in the attitude of business men, firms and corporations as to the use of strong drink by their employees.

The drinking young man is now excluded and debarrd—

From employment in the army of millions of railroad employees.

From employment in manufacturing establishments.

From employment in department and other stores.

From employment in the profession of law.

From employment in medicine, teaching and the like.

From the immense army attending the colleges and professional schools.

From the innumerable host who are members in our different churches.

From employment by and association with all men in responsible positions.

From even being barkeepers in saloons.

From the best society and the best homes.

But the drinking young man is admitted—

To every saloon and brothel in the land as a patron.

To every insane asylum and infirmary in the land, as a patient and patron, but not as helper, clerk or manager.

To jails, prisons and penitentiaries, as criminals to pay penalty for that which was the result of temperance.

There is only one logical conclusion: The young man who desires the best development physically, morally and spiritually; the best society; the best business opportunities, in a word, the best success in life, must be a total abstainer.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."
