

Our Country Contemporaries.

Ogden Junction, April 7—

Mr. John Makin and others have run a tunnel 150 feet to tap a vein of coal a few miles north-east of Clarkston, and expect to reach the bed about fifty feet further, good anthracite, several feet thick. The surface coal specimens promise well.

Mr. Joseph Tyrrell exhibited to us yesterday a calf skin which he has lately tanned and dressed in this city, which looks and feels as well as if dressed in France or Philadelphia. Mr. T. has discovered a material, used in preparing the skin alluded to, which he thinks is admirably adapted to the purpose; the article exists in Utah in abundance.

Now that Judge Emerson has overruled the verdict of the jury in the Richmond Teresa mining suit, and rendered a judgment contrary to the finding of the jury, the lawyers, not content to await the action of the Supreme Court, are trying the case over again in the newspapers of Salt Lake City. Although we confess our inability to account for so erroneous a decision as we believe that of Judge Emerson to have been, we can see no special good growing out of a newspaper trial of the case. The lawyers have had their day in court, and good taste, it seems to us, would dictate the propriety of waiting until the case can be reached in its order, where it belongs, in the courts.

Beaver Enterprise, March 30—

By private telegram to Mr. Whitaker, we learn that the Salt Lake and Pioche stage was attacked and robbed last night within three miles of Pioche.

There has not been such a scarcity of tea, sugar, tobacco, and many other articles of merchandise in Beaver for several years, as there has been for the last few days. Bad roads has been the cause.

Mr. Joseph Field is proprietor of the Enterprise, and notwithstanding the recent retirement of Mr. S. A. Kenner from the position of editor, the proprietor designs to continue to enlarge the paper and procure the best talent available for it, as he may be warranted by public patronage.

Beaver Enterprise, April 1—

B. F. Brown and Wm. Stokes are deputy marshals for the Second Judicial District.

Turkish Women.

There is in fact, a great deal of misconception in England as to the status and treatment of women in Turkey. Most persons imagine that every Turk is more or less a Bluebeard, with four wives at least, and as many concubines to boot as he can afford, the whole of whom are the mere slaves of his caprice, jaded by eunuchs, and without domestic authority of any kind. Nothing could well be further from the reality.

The Kahnum is, in reality, as much mistress as in western wife of the day, and has, if anything, more than her fair share of authority in doors. Instead, therefore, of the harem being a prison guarded with bolts and bars, it is rather a sanctuary, from which care and trouble are excluded. The man alone is always the bread-winner; he alone bears the attendant anxieties of life, while the woman passes her days, if not in Arcadian innocence and calm, at least free from the frivolous and not always innocent amusement which sometimes make up the existence of her sisters in the west. The Turks are unfortunately, not free from evils, many introduced from this side of the Alps, but there is one evil—the social evil—which has no home among them. The yashmak, ferijie and shalwar, it is true, still hold their ground, but feminine coquetry has long since displaced the old opaque swathing, that hid everything except the eyes, for the diaphanous gossamer through which the whole battery of the wearer's charms now play as freely as if no single fold of muslin remained. The bright eyes flash and pearly teeth dazzle beneath the veil, which, from the fineness of its texture, no longer serves to conceal, but rather adds an additional charm to the beauties of the wearer. The yellow papoosh, too, as largely yielded to the elastic European boot, but the Louis Quatorze abomination and its "graceful Grecian bend" are as yet foreign to the precincts of Stamboul.—Belgravia.

A Brand New Religion.

A new thing in religion is the "Eclectic Church," of which A. Pickel, of Prairie City, Iowa, proclaims himself the Pope. We are much obliged to the Pope for a postal card containing a copy of the doctrines of his faith, and wish him a good time in their propagation. They are as follows:

1. One God and Father of all.
2. We are living in the dawn of a new dispensation—the Eclectic Church.
3. One man in a normal condition should be married to two women, and two only.
4. Jesus Christ will never come to this world at some future time.
5. Must have a visible head to the true Church of God.
6. Limited punishment in future life.—St. Louis Times.

WHERE WILL THE LIGHTNING STRIKE NEXT?—Patriotism, public spirit, fidelity to the interests of the people, integrity in office—such words and phrases as these have figured prodigally in American political literature ever since the first stump speech was made, and the first Presidential election held under the Federal Constitution. But do the things which these fine phrases stand for now exist in American politics? Every time the telegraph boy brings in a fresh dispatch the first editorial impulse is to ask what new name is to be added to the list of dishonored statesmen?—S. F. Chronicle.
