TANKTOWN, Delaware Co., O.,

March 20th, 1874.

To Dr. R. V. Pierce:

Your Discovery needs only a fair trial and it will do you more good than I can tell you. When I was fifteen I caught cold, and in twenty-eight years I have been a perfect wreck of disease, and all the medicines and doctors' bills have run up at times to four hundred dollars, and never any better but worse, when I give up all hope last spring of living the summer through. I received a copy of your Account Book and told my husband after reading it that it was too late to try further, but he said it was never too late. He went and I have used less medicine and I have used less money. Since 1841 I was troubled with Catarrh and Sore Throat, and more or less of both ever since. My liver was very bad. My skin was rough. When I put my hand on my body it was like fish scales. Now it is as smooth and soft as a child's. In conclusion I will say I have been well for three months. I am a wonder to myself and friends. This is but an imperfect statement, but has not been told.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THERMOMETER 64 degrees F. in the shade, at 1 p. m. to-day. Overcast, blustery.

Blustery—Does the blustery weather to-day indicate a stormy d1

Sabbath Meetings—Religious services will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening, at the usual hours, at the ward meeting houses.

Taken to Sandy—This morning constable B. Y. Hampton took C.

Hanks, who shot Mr. Mescal, to Sandy. Mescal is at St. Mark's

Hospital.

Most Disgraceful—Mr. Liddell was the victim of a most disgraceful outrage last night. While he was at the Theatre some contemptible wretches beset the fence, gate and paper-box with R.H. There is nothing too despicable low for persons to stoop to who would be guilty of such dirty, mean, not to say malignant, conduct. It is to be hoped that those who did it will be discovered, arrested and punished. He has been subjected to other annoyances which should be forever put an end to.

The Scandinavian Young Men's

Literary Society.—The meeting of this Society in the Seventies Hall, last night, was exceedingly well attended, and the exercises were highly entertaining. Short speeches were made by the members appointed to discuss the question of Marriage, that being the subject of the evening. Afterwards, poems and essays on different subjects, contributed by some of the male and female members of the society, were read, which were considered, if not the most interesting, at least a very noticeable feature of the evening's exercises. These meetings, which take place every Friday evening, are always well attended.

Farewell Benefit—As will be seen by the correspondence on the subject, published in another column, a farewell complimentary benefit will be given to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rea, on Monday evening. They are two good actors in their line of character, and during their engagement at the Theatre they have contributed materially and often to the success of the entertainments. Their friends will be sure to rally round them at their benefit on Monday evening, so that they may retire with a pleasing and substantial token of the regard in which they are held.

Theatre—A very large house greeted Mr. Vinson last evening, on the occasion of his benefit. The "Old Guard" and "Quits" were ably presented. The band of the Thirtieth Infantry and the orchestra played in an inspiring manner, and altogether there was a very satisfactory evening's entertainment.

In response to the emphatic call of the house, Mr. Vinson appeared before the curtain and expressed his acknowledgments.

This evening the sensational drama of "Caught in the Snare" and the burlesque of "Pocahontas" will constitute the evening's entertainment.

SALE LAKE THEATRE.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 10, 1874.

Gen. Geo. L. Woods, Gen. Geo. A.

Morrow, Hon. J. B. McLean, Major

M. H. Goodspeed, Messrs. Walker

Brothers, James Townsend, Esq. and others:

GENTLEMEN:

We are in receipt of your favor of yesterday, in which you express your admiration and appreciation of the histrionic abilities of Mr.

and Mrs. Frank Rea, and ask us to set aside a night for their farewell benefit, and pledge yourselves to use your best endeavors to insure them a liberal expression of the kindly feelings of the Salt Lake public.

Every ready to second the wishes of our patrons, and heartily conferring in your expression of good feeling towards Mr. and Mrs. Rea, we beg, your pardon, to express next, April 13th, as the most suitable time for their farewell benefit.

Hoping that the occasion may prove one of pleasure to you, and of profit to the beneficiaries.

We are,

Truly yours,

CLAWSON, CATNE &amp; WILLIAMS,

Managers.

BENDER PHYSIOLOGICALLY

CONSIDERED—HE GIVES WAY TO

DEJECTION.

It is a physiological theory, that the primary sentiment in an individual, whether organic or cultivated, show their impress on the countenance. If the bad passions be temporarily aroused the impress of anger, hate, etc., is plainly written on the face, and it is assumed that chronic moroseness or other quality will leave an imprint there that can only be removed by a restraint of the bad qualities and a cultivation of the noble side of human nature. Hence the countenances of people have been known to change either for better or for worse, according to the conduct of the individual. Virtuous as well as criminal deeds leave their impress on the individual, and their manifestations are opposite. It is also assumed that most men have resemblances to some types of the lower animals, and some to a number combined, and that, according to the strength of the resemblance, the similarity in the manifestations of character of those animals in the individual will be correspondingly marked. Without asserting or giving the negative to this assumption, let us glance at old Bender.

The face is strikingly peculiar.

The forehead is square, bulging outwards over the eyes, and retreating backwards to the hair, and there is a habitual squint, particularly marked, over the left eye. The eyes are somewhat piercing, and the eyebrows slant downwards at the outer corners, which latter signs are peculiar to the tiger species, while the slanting look from under the eyes is decidedly foxy. If a person examining the portrait of this man will cover the whole of the face, with a sheet of paper, from under the eyes downward, these peculiarities appear from the other features, will appear more strongly marked in the forehead and eyes. The trait of the fox is also evident in the long and rather pointed nose, and also by the width of the face at the cheek bones and the somewhat sudden inward sloping to the chin.

The mouth is large, coarse and ferocious looking, and would appear more so if it were not hidden by a profusion of grizzly hair. The features make the worst impression when he shoots his lips outward, in the act of speaking. His attitude is crouching and his gait and movements, although slow, are sweeping, measured, stealthy and noiseless. When he speaks the qualifies indicated seem to be concentrated in his voice, which is gruff and discordant, and its tone has almost as much of the growl of the tiger in it as the cadences of the human voice divine. All these marks of character may not be powerfully apparent to any but the close observer, but were the bad passions of that man aroused his appearance would be absolutely appalling. The present prevailing sentiments of his mind, and independency, and therefore the apparent evidences of the character of the man are only the traces remaining left placed on his countenance by a series of hereditary crimes which have fed and cultivated the worst side of his character. Let a man of clear conscience and correspondingly placed and benignant countenance be placed immediately alongside of Bender, and the impression produced by the contrast would be very strong. He is dependent.

Since he was identified yesterday by Mr. Kitchin he has appeared
