On Earth of All But Two of the Condemned Men in Chicago.

Michael Schwab's and Samuel Fielden's Sentence Commuted to Life Imprisonment.

A Story from New York that the Real Bomb Thrower is Found.

Dramatic Details of Lingg's Desperate Deed of Self-Destruction.

By Telegraph to the NEWS.]

SPRINGFIELD, Ill, Nov. 10.—Following is the governor's decision in full in the anarchist case:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE OFFICE, SPRINGFIELD,
November 10th, 1887.

On the 20th day of August, 1886, in the Cook County Criminal Court, August Spies, Albert R. Parsons, Samuel Fielden, Michael Schwab, Adolph Fischer, George Engel and Louis Lingg were found guilty by the jury and afterwards sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Matthias J. Degan. An appeal was taken from such finding and sentence, to the supreme court of the state, that court, upon a final hearing and after mature deliberation, unanimously affirmed the judgment of the court below. The case now comes before me, on petition by the defendants, for consideration, as governor of the state, that is, if the letters of Albert Parsons, Adolph Fischer, George Engel and Louis Lingg, demanding release, or as they express it, "liberty or death," and protesting in the strongest language against mercy or a commutation of the sentence pronounced against them, can be considered a petition. A pardon, should it be granted, which might imply any guilt whatever on the part of either of them, would not be such a vindication as they demand. Executive intervention upon the grounds claimed only by the four above-named persons could in no proper sense be deemed an exercise of constitutional power "to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons," unless used on the belief on my part of the entire innocence of the crime of which they stand convicted. After a careful consideration of the evidence in the record of the trial of the parties, as well as of all alleged and claimed for them outside of the record, it has failed to produce upon my mind any impression tending to impeach the verdict of the jury or the judgment of the trial court of the supreme court affirming the guilt of all these parties. Satisfied, therefore, as I am of their guilt, I am precluded from considering the question of commutation of the sentences of Albert R. Parsons, Adolph Fischer, George Engel and Louis Lingg to imprisonment in the penitentiary, as they emphatically declare they will not accept such commutation. Samuel Fielden, Michael Schwab and August Spies unite in a petition for "executive clemency." Fielden and Schwab, in addition, present separate and supplementary petitions for commutation of their sentences. While, as I said above, I am satisfied of the guilt of all the parties as found by the verdict of the jury, which was sustained by the judgment of the court, a most careful consideration of the whole subject leads me to the conclusion that the sentence of the law as to Samuel Fielden and Michael Schwab may be modified as to each of them in the interest of humanity and without doing violence to public justice. And as to said Samuel Fielden and Michael Schwab, the sentence is commuted to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life.

As to all the other above named defendants, I do not feel justified in interfering with the sentence of the court. While I would gladly have come to a different conclusion in regard to the sentence of the defendants August Spies, Adolph Fisher, George Engel, Albert R. Parsons and Louis Lingg, I regret to say that, under a solemn sense of the obligations of my office, I have been unable to do so.

(Signed) RICHARD J. OGLESBY,
Governor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Attorney A. P. Waguer, of No. 89, Second Avenue, sent a telegram to Captain Black in Chicago today, stating positively that the man who threw the bomb at the Haymarket riot was in New York City. Mr. Wagener was seen by a reporter at an early hour this (Friday) morning. He said:

Franz Mayhoff, who was convicted of attempting to defraud the Greenwich Insurance Company in October, and sentenced to Sing Sing for four and a half years, wrote to me some days ago. On November 2nd I went to Sing Sing, where he made an affidavit before a notary public that he knew the man who threw the bomb. Mayhoff said that early in January, 1887, he was introduced to a man named Kilman Scheutz by William Scharff. Scharff had often told Mayhoff that Scheutz knew all about anarchy. Two weeks later Scheutz, in talking to Mayhoff, spoke of anarchy, dynamite and arson, and of the bomb at the Haymarket. He told Mayhoff he had resided in Chicago at the time and had to make his escape because the police suspected he was concerned. The second conversation Mayhoff had with Scheutz was in February, when Scheutz wanted him to help kill a man who had $30,000. Mayhoff refused to have anything to do with him, whereupon Scheutz said, "You're no good; I have done worse than that. I threw the bomb in Chicago. Others are suffering for it, but that is none of my business."

He told Mayhoff he had three bombs in a satchel and that he had been behind the wagon at the riot. It had been agreed to throw them, when the police interfered, but the latter came too late. This practically is all there is to the story, although Mayhoff talked at some length about Scheutz showing the bombs at various times and asserting that if the condemned anarchists were hung Grinnell and the jury must hang, and also much incendiary talk of the Herr Most style which was indulged in by the self-accused bomb thrower.

Mr. Wagener says he has great faith in the statements made in the affidavit. From what he knew of the case before, he went to Supt. Murray and asked to have searched the premises occupied by Scheutz, but Murray refused to do it unless a warrant was gotten out. Scheutz has been employed in the repair shops of the Second Avenue railway, and is said to have an office with one of the foremost anarchists in the country. Wagener says he has no interest in the case except from common humanity.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Louis Lingg, the anarchist, will never speak again. Quick and awful as ever was an act of his Creator, the voice that cried "Noch die Anarchie," was turned to silence forever. What seemed to be a muffled horrible echo of the fearful bomb at the Haymarket came suddenly from his cell this morning. That instant the man's face which belieing his fiendlike deeds, has seemed beautiful as an archangel's, was made a revolting mass of blood and shreds of tangled flesh, and Louis Lingg was triumphant. Despite all human efforts he had effaced from even his countenance every trace of God's image. For a single instant, with his back against the bars of Lingg's cell door, the stairwart guard stood stupefied, while a puff of blue smoke from the dark recesses behind, unnoticed, crossed his shoulder. Then ensued a wild rush of deputies, the clanging of iron gates and above the confusion and din the hoarse shouting of a guard, "It's Lingg! It's Lingg! That came from Lingg!" A rapid, cautious movement by the turnkey flung the cell door open, and with an eager peer into the shadow the two excited deputies jumped pell mell in.

THEIR EJACULATIONS OF TERROR

brought other guards quickly within call. An age of agony and suspense was passed by the jail inmates in the cells above and around. There was a shuffling of feet on the stone floor and then hundreds of strained eyes watching down through the iron doors and bars saw a group of guards in their shirt sleeves struggling across the dimly lighted area bearing the legs and arms and the body of a man between them. The upturned face was a huge clot of blood, but the turnkey who supported the head had his fingers wound tightly into the unmistakable brown curling ringlets of the bomb maker, Louis Lingg.

The key of Jailor Folz, grating in the main lock, interrupted for a moment the sound of the pattering blood on the white stone pavement. There was a creaking of rusty hinges and the anarchists and common jail birds had gazed their last on Louis Lingg. A few steps brought the huddled up cortege to the bata room of the jail, a stuffy little apartment scarcely 10 feet square. Lingg was dumped on the floor with scant tenderness by the men who have been daily half expecting to meet their death at his hands. To all appearances the

ANARCHIST WAS STARK DEAD.

His lithe, athletic form was clothed only in a short tunic, and his brawny limbs seemed rigid. A small pool of gore was soon floating around his brown curls, surmounting his broad shoulders, and one glance showed how Lingg had striven with dynamite to blow off his own head. The entire lower half of his once handsome face was gone, including his upper lip and jaw, and under a fraction of his nose was a jagged, bloody gap, extending across to his ears and down to the Adam's apple.

"Open your eyes, Lingg," exclaimed the jail doctor, who had just reached the room. To the astonishment of the bystanders Lingg's eyes opened and he looked calmly about him. He was immediately raised to a table and propped up with pillows. He was washed hurriedly while the cloth bandages were passed around the top of the head, hiding all but the nose, eyes and forehead, all the loose dangling bones and flesh being first cut away. The gutta percha mouth of a fountain syringe was inserted in the great hole left by the dynamite. By this method water and brandy were administered. This was repeated at intervals, Lingg meanwhile gazing steadfastly about him,

WATCHING EVERY MOVE

Of those in the room, but apparently indifferent to what they did, and caring nothing about the almost ceaseless slamming of the door only a few feet distant. Every now and then, without any seeming cause, a fearful hollow groaning would sound through the bandages. The listeners aguast would abandon the room, only to give place to a new set not yet weakened by the horrors with the death chamber. Lingg moved his long sinewy arm easily. His left arm was torn by the dynamite, and without trouble he wrote in German simple directions as to raising him higher.

There was nothing to break the horrible agony of the six mortal hours' wait for death's approach. Rev. Dr. Bolton, the Methodist minister attending Fielden, went in but got no answering look from Lingg. The minister came out shaking his head hopelessly. Lingg's breathing gradually became slower, the pallor on his forehead deepened and a slight glaze was not ced in his now sunken eyes. Some said, "He is dying," and the reporters made ready for a rush to the nearest telegraph office. Lingg's big breast

HEAVED ONCE AND WAS STILL.

His eyes looked straight ahead, with something of their old brightness, but at a whisper from the doctor the reporters dashed to the telephones, falling one over another down the narrow stairway to the court-yard in their efforts to tell the news first. While the reporters were tumbling and running, the doctor raised Lingg's right arm. It fell back on the table limp, and an attendant's right and left forefingers were laid on Lingg's forehead and pushed the eyelids shut. In a moment the little room was empty of all but the ghastly corpse of the bomb-maker Louis Lingg.

A RESOLUTION

Granting a Franchise to, and Authorizing the Mayor and Recorder of Salt Lake City to sign a Contract with the Salt Lake and Fort Douglas Railway Company.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY Council of Salt Lake City: That the Salt Lake and Fort Douglas Railway Company, its successors and assigns, have a perpetual right of way, over and along the following described land and premises, to construct, maintain, and operate a two or three railed, steam railway from a point commencing on the west bank of said canal, about thirteen (13) rods east, and seventy-two (72) rods south of the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of section eight (8), township one (1), south range one (1), east Salt Lake Meridian in Salt Lake County, Utah Territory, and running thence southerly on and over the right of way of said canal, and on the westerly embankment thereof, through the east half (½) of section seventeen (17) said township and range, and thence along said canal into the northeast quarter of section twenty (20) of said township and range to a point about one thousand (1000) feet south of the Penitentiary Road, on the terms and conditions contained in the following agreement, to wit:

This agreement made and entered into on this —— day of —— in the —— year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-seven; by and between Salt Lake City, a Municipal Corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the Territory of Utah, and hereinafter designated as "Said City" party of the first part, and the Salt Lake and Fort Douglas Railway Company, a Railway Corporation of Utah Territory, hereinafter designated as "Said Railway Company," party of the second part, witnesseth:

That whereas, the said railway company is about to construct and operate a railway to carry passengers and freight for hire and for this purpose has applied to said city for a right of way over and along the west bank of the Jordan and Salt Lake City canal, and for the privilege of laying tracks and running cars thereon, and the said city has granted said application on the terms and conditions following, to-wit:

Now, therefore, in consideration of the sum of six thousand dollars ($6,000) in hand paid to said city by said railway company, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged and of the covenants and agreements made by the said railway company, and hereinafter contained, said city has, subject to the conditions and restrictions hereinafter provided, granted, sold and extended, and by these presents does grant, sell and convey, unto the said railway company, so far as it has the legal right so to do without forfeiting, or in any way impairing its title to any of the premises hereinafter described, or its right to the use thereof for the purposes for which they are now used by said city, the right of way for the construction and operation of a two or three railed steam railway, on and over the right of way for a canal owned by the said city, and on and over the westerly embankment of said city's canal, through the following lands, to-wit: commencing at a point on the west bank of said canal about thirteen (13) rods east, and seventy-two (72) rods south of the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of section eight (8), township one (1), south range one (1), east Salt Lake Meridian in Salt Lake County, Utah Territory and running thence southerly on and over the right of way of said canal and on the westerly embankment thereof, through the east half (½) of section seventeen (17) said township and range, and thence along said canal into the northeast quarter of section twenty (20) of said township and range to a point about one thousand (1000) feet south of the penitentiary road.

The right of way hereby granted is of sufficient width to construct, maintain and operate a railway, and for access to and along the same with
