New York, Nov. 3 .- There is great rejoicing among the Utah residents of New York just now. The services of the Latter-day Saints from to-day on will be held in Har-lem at the Hawthorne building. 151 West 125th street. Naturally our all is a former pupil of the madame, Brooklyn friends are feeling very de- and in consequence was delightfully repressed over the change For nearly 25 years Williamsburg and Brooklyn chesi was full of praise and encouragehave been the headquarters of business ment for them and of the work done by Mrs. Croxall. and worship with us, and the move to New York is a most agreeable one. We send more of our people in one Sunday over there than they will send us in a month. New York and Harlem furnish our congregations the greatest number, and consequently we are pleased with President Burrow's de-cision to hold meetings here in future. Our conference begins two weeks from today

She gave them audience at her opera class—a rare courtesy with her, and Miss Morehead writes very interesting-ly of how cordially she introduced Mrs. Croxall to the class, saying that she was a former pupil and that her teaching had been most excellent, judging from what the two ladles had shown that morning in their singing; the class consisted of six young ladies, all so-pranos, accompanied by M. The letter goes on to say how glorously Alvaree goes on to say how gloriously Alvarez is singing in Paris. As we are to hear him this winter in Faust and Romeo, we are pleased to note how the Parisians are honoring him; in the absence of Jean de Reszke, Alvarez will be leading tenor at the Metropolitan for Young this last week to dinner. The visitors have not neglected the theaters during their stay and Irving and Terry came in for a large share of patronage. Mrs. Hyde and Miss Beatrice left for Chi-cago last evening, to Join Mr. Hyde, who has been there for several days. Colonel N. W. Clayton, who has been stopping at the Waldorf with Professor McClellan, also left for the West two days ago. A little plot was forming among the professor's friends, in the shape of an organ recital in one of the churches here, when without warning

The vegetarian and fruit dist restau-rants are springing up all over Man-hattan. As an experiment, we dined in one the other day, and after tasting of nearly everything on the bill of farg, concluded to go into a chop house next door and get our dinner. The butter was peanul paste and the bread like saw-dust. The proprietor with his fatt-ily were such sickly looking samples of this new fad that we quickly decided meat and white bread were more conmeat and white bread were more con-ducive to good looks than fruit diet.

Thursday being Hallowe'en and also Thursday being Hallowe'en and also the birthday of Miss Mary Young, her aunt, Mrs. R. C. Easton, gave a small party to her, and some of her young friends, Miss Hattle Young, Lulu Spence, Beatrice Hyde, Lucile Tay-lor and Ruth Wilson and Messrs. Mr. Harold Eldredge, who has been studying oratorio for some time, and is giving most particular attention to "Elijah," has nearly perfected himself in that great masterpiece. It is possi-ble he will be given an opportunity soon to sing it. M. I. Drug Dept.

Robert Bradford, of the University of Utah, and wife, are with us again for the winter. Mr. Bradford is still attending Columbia College.

"Arizona," which has been wandering all over the eastern coast, and may have been in the West also, found its way into the Academy of Music on Fourteenth street this autumn. It seems lost in that great building, the datas acreaming to make thermaly actors screaming to make themselves heard, and all the little fine points being entirely overlooked; only two or three of the original cast are seen. It is safe to say, it is the only theater that is not filled these fine days. The audience that assembles would crowd an ordinary theater, but is scarcely noticed in this manimoth playhouse.

It is no wonder companies dread to be transferred to its immense stage, with transferred to its immense stage, with its wilderness of orchestra seats and galleries. It is an historic old place. Patti and Nillson have bowed and kipsed their pretty hands over those foot.ights, as have many more great artists of whom its walls could tell fairy tales, over and over.
