The rapid transit of passengers in trains from one place to another makes a report of a lecture delivered before for the railroads, as well as for the in- Seeker: habitants of the city who destred to travel, as frequently there would be from two to six different times in the same city adopted by the railroads passing through in different directions; and as there is so great an amount of travel, it became the same city adopted by the railroads passing through in different directions; and as there is so great an amount of travel, it became the same city adopted by the most promising prospects to converts. Two young women of Mr. Gallagher's church at Salt Lake City told him that the missionary who brought them over from Europe related on in foreign countries by the grossest misrepresentations. The missionaries hold up the most promising prospects to converts. Two young women of Mr. Gallagher's church at Salt Lake City told him that the missionary who great an amount of travel, it became

The difference between the present plau, and the state of things that before existed is that whereas before confusion that has heretofore existed on this subject It would seem from accounts that the cities of Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Denver, and other prominent cities east have adopted the regulacalled the "Standard time" in contradistinction to local time, and that the 75th, 90th, 105th and 120th meridians west of Greenwich have selected as initial points which a to calculate the infidel serious tool night selftime. Each of these points are 16 degrees (or approximately 1,000 miles)

We have since then had instruments in the President's Office for the computation of time, and a gentleman appointed who was comtime and thus place us in harmony is with the nation in regard to this proposed change, and that time once being adjusted here can be telegraphed as di heretofore to the whole of the Terri-tory, and thus the same uniformity confusion be avoided, so that every part of the Territory will be governed by the same time, and no contusion of trouble exist; besides it will place us in harmony with the United States in this contemplated improvement. While the Tribune continues its vile assaults, upon small boys, innocent into two, one slower and the other faster, no greater change than 30 or 35 minutes can occur in the most extreme points, while in many places there will be very slight variations from their local times or meridians.

If this had been simply a railroad or telegraphic change for the accomplishment of their business transactions, it need not have affected the local time of any of the cities or towns of the United States or Territories. But as it has been found that it would be benewomen, and respectable men, it preserves the silence of the grave regarding the robbery of Mr. W. P. It is as rich a donation of from fate to the nine teenth century as the art of daguerrectyping. It shows the sylritual faces of the religious sects to one another, precisely as the daguerrectype shows our physical countenances—marred, malformed, and mangy as they may happen to be. Yes, let them try it on. Let them persecute the Mormons here and now, right in the brilliant focus of this luminous and progressive age. Every torch they light will kindle a fire in the roofs of their own edifices. Every blow they strike will recoil upon their own heads. The socialistic day of judgment is at hand. All parties must learn by some discipline or other to stand upon a basis of equal rights, and to leave to others the same freedom which they claim for themselves.

The discourse of to-night bas failed to place the subject upon any fundamental principle. It was assumed by the reverend orator, without any justification, that our American institutions rest upon monogamy, and that monogamy rests upon Caristianity. Neither rest upon monogamy, and that monogamy rests upon Christianity. Neither position is frue. Americanism to be true to the grandeur of its fundamental conception should be able to accommodate, to test, and impartially to al conception should be able to accommodate, to test, and impartially to compare every possible variety of the relation of the sexes, and all other social relations. It in no manner whatsoever rests upon monogamy any more than it rests upon old-bachelorhood, old-maidism.

Shakerism, or Oneida-perfectionism.
And in the next place this not true that monogamy itself rests in any proper sense upon Christianity. That has been a saumed and said by the Christian teachers, and generally believed in; but modern historical criticism is opening our eyes to new views of old facts. Polygamy prevailed throughout Southern Asia and Europe, including Judea, at the time of Christ. It was neither reproved nor reformed by him.
Monogamy came in chiefly through the Teuton or German influence from the north. It was thoroughly established there, and the complete equality of women with men practically realized by these people before Christianity rose to be a power in the world. The most that can be said for Christianity is that it adopted monogamy, and enforced it with a rigor which has made it, in turn, an intolorable tyranny, when united, as it was, with the religious spirit of bigotry and persecution.
