FOUR HUNDRED TEACHERS.

Commissioner Leupp Said: "Don't Try
To Make the Indian Over, but to Make Him a Better Indian."

Los Angeles, Cal., July 2.—The national convention of the department of Indian education convened in the normal school building here today under the chairmanship of Harwood Hall, superintendent of the Sherman Indian Institute at Riverside, Cal. Miss Estelle Reel, the well known educator, who has had general supervision of Indian schools for nine years, and one of the highest salaried women employees of the United States government, acted as secretary. The meeting, which is open to the general public, is attended by a large number of the directors and employees of Indian schools of various parts of the country. Many Indian children have been brought to the city from the nearest schools, and will give demonstrations of the work in the different institutions. "Round Table Conferences," to be participated in by students and teachers, are expected to prove of large value in furthering the educational work of the government. Sessions will continue daily until July 12.

Over 400 teachers and others interested in the education of the Indian attended the opening session. Mayor Harper of Los Angeles welcomed the delegates in a brief speech, and Right Rev. Bishop Conaty of the Roman Catholic church delivered an invocation. Bishop Conaty appealed for equal rights for all religious denominations in co-operating with the educational department in the uplifting of the Indian race.

Francis E. Leupp, commissioner of Indian affairs, addressed the convention at length. "Don't try to make an Indian over, but to make a better Indian of him," was the keynote of his address.

E. C. Moore, superintendent of the Los Angeles city schools, spoke of the approaching equality of the white and Indian races, and complimented the latter upon their many admirable qualities. Miss Reel, secretary of the convention, also spoke at some length, promising the delegates that "we will show you from this platform tomorrow how to raise alfalfa and spell correctly at the same time."

STATEMENT BY JAPANESE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

San Francisco, July 2.—The Japanese Association of America has issued the following statement: "Five of the principal chambers of commerce in Japan recently addressed a communication to chambers of commerce in America setting forth the grievances of Japanese residents in San Francisco, and including among such grievances the denial of the right of education."

"The Japanese Association of America, which has its headquarters in San Francisco, believes that in justice to the people of California, and the whole country, this erroneous statement should be corrected, and false impressions removed. Japanese children in San Francisco are not now denied the right of education. On the contrary, there are as many Japanese scholars in the public schools as there were before the earthquake and fire of April 18, 1906, and they are receiving the same treatment and the same advantages that are given to the pupils of other nationalities, and are admitted to the same schools. "In making this correction, the Japanese Association of America wishes to show its desire for fairness, and it hopes that its efforts to bring about friendly relations between the Japanese and the people of San Francisco, and the state of California, will

AMELIA STAFFORD MURDER.

New York, July 3.—After a week's rigid investigation, the Queens county grand jury has refused to indict Henry Becker for the murder of 15-year-old Amelia Stafford of Flushing. Becker will be arraigned in Flushing this morning and discharged. The police are now working on new clues, and in addition to looking for a former close friend of the family, who is missing, are trying to locate the source of a number of "Black Hand" letters that have been received by Mrs. George Simenson, the chief witness against Becker.

Castling aside all other clues, the police settled on Becker as the perpetrator of the murder. He is about 22 years of age and did odd jobs for his livelihood in the neighborhood where the girl was killed while picking dandelions on Wednesday afternoon, March 22. She was stabbed behind the right ear by a

Feed Baby's Furnace

"The infant, like all small animals, has a large extent of surface in proportion to its bulk; thus it tends to lose heat rapidly and requires an abundant supply of the chief body fuel—fat. If the different (food) ingredients be not supplied in due proportion, disorder of health inevitably follows."

So says Dr. Hutchinson of the London Hospital—a world-wide authority.

He shows in his book about infant foods, that most of them contain too little fat—which should serve as fuel for protection against catarrh of lungs and bowels, keeping baby cozy and rosy. There must not be too much fat, or diarrhea will result. Mother's milk is the perfectly balanced baby food.

It was not until after he had been put through the "third degree" several times that Becker made a confession, and then he started in to confess to any and everybody who happened to ask him about the crime.

The grand jury, it is said, believed Becker was scared into making the confession.

WAS BIG YEAR FOR LIFE INSURANCE

Notwithstanding Unusual Agitation and Discussion, Companies Paid out $477,000,000.

MANY POLICIES SACRIFICED.

President Will G. Farrell of the Utah Association of Underwriters Talks On General Conditions.

The payments by life insurance organizations in the United States and Canada in 1906, that amounted to $227,576,199, according to compilations made by The Insurance Press, prove that one of the greatest systems of thrift ever devised was maintained successfully during a period of unusual agitation and discussion. Every dollar due justly under policy contracts was paid. Consideration of other payments—in foreign countries, surrender values, dividends and annuities—would increase the total amount to more than $477,000,000. Two regrettable features were that in many instances timid and impulsive persons dropped their insurance by lapsing premium payments and others surrendered their policies for cash premium payments and others surrendered their policies for cash values. Policies for hundreds of millions of insurance were thereby sacrificed.

PRESIDENT FARRELL TALKS.

Speaking of the situation, Mr. Will G. Farrell, president of the Utah Association of Life Underwriters, said that the shaping of events indicates that life insurance today can be bought on terms better than ever before offered and that business men, who have appreciated the values of life insurance, are providing for additional insurance. Life insurance, like fire insurance, sustains credit in many instances. Life insurance also enables a man of ability, without capital, to capitalize his ability and prepare to undertake important duties or obligations.
