A reward of 10,000 france has been given by a Belgian scientific jury to M. Melsens for an effectual remedy in mercury and lead poisoning. It is the iodide of potassium, which as said to change into soluble form the metallic deposit and eliminate it from the system. This ought to be known in every mining region in the world.

While the recent heavy rains in Wiscontin and Minnesota spolled the crops and thus injured the farmers, the lumbermen reaped the good results of the storm. (The rivers were so swelled in volume that log drivers were able to float as much lumber as in the early spring. This will cheapen building mrisrial, so the calamity has its compensations after all.
