Today is "Derby day" down at the state fair. While the horse races are indeed as a special feature, there is a great deal of interesting things and events for the crowds which started gathering shortly after breakfast.

Now that trains have commenced to run in the conference crowds, the state is heavily represented by the wandering through the various exhibits. The many exhibits are all complete and demonstrative.

The activity and bustle made yesterday by mechanics adding the finishing touches to the exhibits is substituted today by the whirr and rattle of machinery in operation.

The afternoon was left open so the first arrival could spend until dinner time in the different buildings.

An entire morning or afternoon is needed to see half thoroughly. Needless to state, the women find the art and needle work departments on the balcony of Manufacturers' hall most interesting while the livestock barns and pens interest the men. Members of the family more often than not are there, there are other attractions for everything from pap to the babies.

MAY CLOTHE HIMSELF.

Now eating is an oft performed duty or pleasure—whatever you prefer—but there are other things in life demanding a person's time just as constantly.

Roosevelt is one of greatest trouble-makers if you insist. The Utah man can be clothed from hat to shoes—overshoes, too—in Utah made goods and so can each member of his family or if he is a young man, his father's family. The Parisian Tailoring company shows hats and shoes; the Z. C. M. L. have a street display of wovens and apparel for hours. C. Gless and Son show fur for the fair sex; the Salt Lake Knitting works show underwear, sweaters and all sorts of knit goods. There is apparently no limit to Utah manufacturers' ability to construct handsome wearing apparel for everything from pap to the babies.

Clothes must be kept clean, and so must the body. The Utah Soap company and A. M. Beck, washer manufacturer, offer the necessities and luxuries of the toilet and wash days. The Townsend and Irvine Chemical companies show toilet requisites and equities in the form of lotions, creams and similar products.

When trips are made trunks are necessary and should show all shapes of grip suit cases and trunks.

HARNESS FROM RICHFIELD.

For the "Dulby" the old gray mare or the new spick and span pair of blacks O. P. Borg shows harness. This firm is a Richfield concern.

Charles Peterson and J. A. Johnson show signs-electric, metal, all styles. For the home the Utah Fire Clay company shows bricks, sewer pipes and similar clay products.

On all sides on every exhibit with two or three exceptions are to be seen signs and placards announcing that the goods shown are made in Utah. The Salt Lake Mattress and Utah Bedding companies show downy things for sleep-hours. With these products being made in Utah, "insomnia" has an up-hill and almost hopeless fight here.

ON EVERY SIDE.

Made in Utah; Made in Utah; Made in Utah. It can be seen, read, heard on every side. M. J. Hewlett, supervisor of face, horns, hats, in his speed contest started. With the special program arranged, the crowd set to see the handsome animals try at the course filled the grand stand and bleachers until standing room was a premium. While the races were in progress, the grounds were not deserted by any means, however. Each car from up-town brings a load of visitors from the city and country.

Worthy of mention is the special car service arranged for the fair during the run. All cars crossing the viaduct over the Oregon Short Line yards on South Temple street come through to the fair grounds. Fourth North and the streets are getting an independent status while this is maintained.

At the street intersections, a two-minute schedule is being maintained and this eliminates the usual crowding and jamming which usually reduces the pleasure of fairing.

Yesterday's crowd is thought to have passed the 6,000 mark, but it is nothing to the attendance today; yesterday's was composed of city visitors; the outside crowds are just making their appearance.

Tomorrow the stores and banks close at 1 p.m. on the occasion of the Salt Lake County day.

GREAT DISPLAY IN UTAH MANUFACTURES.

Manufacturers' building was all in readiness for the arrival of the deaf and blind students of the Utah school for the Deaf and Blind. Seven pupils will give exhibitions of their ability in all sorts of handicrafts, domestic science and powers now realized by the deaf and blind now possible result of skillful training such as is offered in the Utah school. Prof. Frank M. Driggs was busy this morning getting everything in shape at the space allotted the school of Manufacturers' hall.

The teachers who will bring the children down from the school to the deaf and blind students of the Utah school are Miss Betty Bowles, Miss Emily Rosenberg and Miss Irene Shontz.

The pupils at Miss Jane MacClelland aged 19 and a third grade school pupil, Jessie Gatz, aged 8 and a second and grade pupil, Leah Johnson and Leah Cutler, aged 10, and a first year high school pupil, Joshua Wright, aged 12 and Katie Rose, aged 11, second grade pupil.

As the children are to be seen in the building a palace of light.

All exhibits are now in tip-top shape in this building and it is worth anyone's while to spend several hours examining the many booths. The floors have been swept as clean as a careful housewife keeps her home. The curtains and blinds and network of pillars and steel away overhead the exhibits are shown off in excellent shape.

HOME INDUSTRY.

"Home industry" is the watchword of Manufacturers' hall. To the person who knows only a smattering of what Utah does and can do an hour's visit will be a visit of many surprises.

He will learn that Utah produces and makes everything he or members of his family need to eat, drink, wear or use in everyday life.

For his work-days there are home-made Utah made overalls, jumpers, shoes, gloves and even toots. The Z. C. M. I. has a booth showing Utah made working clothes.

FLOUR AND FOODSTUFFS.

The staff of life is well represented by Manufacturers' hall.

The Kayne mill, flour and breakfast food; other grain, sugar, flour, etc., the Hustler, Salt Lake & Jordan, Layton companies. Now bread must be made tasty with butter and to constitute a tempting meal must be surrounded by the familiar delicacies and necessities of life. The Faust Creamery and Supply company shows all kinds of butter, eggs, milk and cheese. The Mount Pikes company shows all styles of pickles, jams, condiments and pickle products. The Utah Macaroni company shows vermicelli and macaroni that would more than please the palate of a son of sunny Italy.

Meats, of course, are not exhibited.

After eating, there is a craving for something good to drink. Hewlett Brothers show more than 57 varieties of spirits, race and coffee; they have a huge Japanese pagoda, made of cans filled with extracts, jellies and coffees.

An immense tea-pot is a unique addition to this exhibit—one of the largest in the pavilion—and pretty little girls dressed like daughters of the mikado play around on the lawn at the base of the pagoda.

There are many who do not care for tea nor coffee, but prefer the satisfying "soft drink" of dainty hue. For those of this taste there are soda waters galore shown by Denhafer.

CONDENSED MILK.

But if teas and coffees are used, a dash of fresh or condensed milk is an important addition to the beverage. The Cache Valley company of Logan and the Utah company of Richmond show condensed milks and creams.

Busy little bees are a part of the Superior Honey company's display.

McDONALD'S EXHIBIT.

Who hasn't a sweet tooth? Everybody! And everybody's sweet tooth gets a hungry feeling when its owner stands in the J. G. McDonald exhibit. A huge dutch windmill, whose arms turn and keep the wind in. Manufacturers' hall clear and fresh, has at its base a big cornucopia from which dainties fall into a mound of good things.

At the end of the hall there are waste-mills in the water color contest's contributions—sent in by Salt Lake schoolchildren. The Dutch subjects and scenes are neat and attract considerable favorable comment.

WEALTH ASKED INDULGENCE.

One way of exercising such control is through the laws of the land. Ours is a government of liberty, but it is also a government of that orderly liberty which comes by and through the honest.

COMMON CARRIERS.

During the last few years we of the United States have been forced to consider very seriously certain insurance problems.

We have made a beginning in the attempt to deal with the relations of the national government—that is, with the relations of the people of the country—to the huge and wealthy corporations, especially the most powerful among them, which are engaged in interstate business—especially the great railway corporations.

You know that I believe that the national government, in the interests of the people, should assume much the same supervision and control over the management of interstate common carriers that it now exercises over the state governments.

(Special to the "News.")

Iona, Ida., Oct. 1.—Wallace Simpson, 26 years of age, committed suicide at this place by hanging. His lifeless body was found suspended to a beam in the stable. At 6 a. m. he arose from his bed, told his wife that he was suffering from cramps, and went out of the house. He did not return, and a search revealed the facts as stated.

The deceased was well known here, and was highly respected. He had recently returned from a mission to the Central states, whence he went to Iowa, for health reasons.

Mr. Simpson leaves his wife and two children. His home life was very happy, and it is believed that nothing short of temporary insanity was the cause of the deplorable occurrence.

ROMAN REPUBLIC.

I am glad indeed to see you and to speak to you in this thriving city of your great and prosperous state. I believe with all my heart in the people of Iowa, for I think that you are good typical Americans, and that among you there has been developed to a very high degree that body of characteristics which we like to regard as distinctively American.
