THE TWENTY-FOURTH IN THE COUNTRY.

Pleasant Grove, July 28th, 1875.

Editor Deseret News:

The 24th was celebrated here after the usual manner. The stars were all in the sky and the moon was shining brightly. The day was a beautiful one, and the people were all in the streets. The exercises commenced at nine a.m. Hon. George Halliday, the first speaker, on "Fah as it was," was happy in his remarks. He said that the 24th was a day of great importance to the people of this country, and that it was a day of great joy and triumph. He said that the people of this country were all in the streets, and that they were all in the streets. He said that the people of this country were all in the streets, and that they were all in the streets.
