PASSÉ BOUGUS CHECKS.

Strange Conduct of H. L. Seward While Seriously Ill.

A most unfortunate case came to the notice of the police this morning when Detective Bent arrested a man named H. L. Seward, aged 42 years, who had been living in the Union block.

The man had been ill for some time, and last evening when he was found to be in a very bad condition, he attempted to attend to his son, who was seriously ill.

He promptly disappeared over the roof of his house, and the police, who were sent to search for him, found him in a neighboring house, where he had been staying.

They found them all up together in a room on the second floor, with their hands in the air. After robbing them they locked them in the room, and breaking the telephone wires ran from the place. The two were joined by their companion in the street, and the three disappeared in an alley.

AN EXCITING MIXUP.

Horse Gets Gay and Creates Consternation on East Temple Street.

An ambitious horse attended to the operations of a milk wagon created considerable notice and attendant excitement along the corner of East Temple and First South late yesterday morning. He bolted from the wagon and, after running around the block, got into the McPherson block, then he made a straight line for a lady on the crossing and chased her behind a telephone pole. Across the street another horse was racing and the two animals met, and the two horses, one of whom was a gelding, got both hind legs in the spokes of the express wagon. They were unable to extricate themselves, and the owner of the gelding, a colored man, who gave the name of W. Hubbard, gazed suddenly at his own creation, which was jumping over his back and addressed a few remarks by way of a compliment to the endurance of the brute.
