THE INDEPENDENTS IN CONFERENCE.

THE PROHIBITIONIST CONCLAVE.

YELLOW FEVER STEADILY INCREASING.

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE QUEEN.

The Independents and Their Platform.

NEW YORK, 22.—No resolutions have been agreed upon, but it is understood several platforms, either in full or in part, have been prepared. These will be offered to the committee on resolutions, and that committee will prepare a platform which the convention will debate, and upon which it will act. Admission to the hall is by tickets, but any one signing the following form, furnished on printed slips to each applicant, is given admission without question.

"Disapproving of the nomination by the republican National convention at Chicago, as unworthy of support, and believing the interests of good government and public morals demand the defeat of the republican candidates for President and Vice-President, and being therefore resolved not to vote for Blaine and Logan, I desire to take part with other republican and independent voters in the conference to be held at the University Club Theatre, Madison avenue and Twenty-sixth street, New York, Tuesday, July 22d, at 11 o'clock."

George Wm. Curtis called the meeting to order. The attendance was largely made up of the delegates from Massachsetts. Chas. S. Codman was elected president. A list of vice-presidents and enrollment committee was read, including Carl Schurz, General Barlow and C. J Bonaparte of Maryland. The nominees were all elected. Col. Codman made an address, in which he said: "You confer great honor on me in choosing me to preside over the deliberations of, not a body of office holders, but of citizens whose only desire is for the good of the whole country. We have decided to cast aside party affiliations for the time being. The nomination of the Republican party for the presidency is an insult to American manhood. Blaine has not cleaned his record from the charges that he used his public office for private gain, and we fear he will continue his usual methods; that he will prove no dead-head in any enterprise he may embark in. We make no charges against his private character, but Blaine is not a fit man to be President of the United States. There is no great issue clearly defined between the two parties so we have to confine ourselves to the fitness of candidates." The speaker was frequently applauded. After concluding his address Codman declared that the issues of the war were closed, and said, "We want a man who is incorruptible, and if he is able and energetic, so much the better." He declared that the present Governor of the State of New York was such a person.

When Codman concluded Schurz moved that a committee be appointed to act on resolutions and address. Carried.

Theodore Lyman of Brooklyn, Mass., declared the people wanted an honorable and able man for the Presidency, and he believed Grover Cleveland was such a man.

Thomas Bacon of New Haven said the Independent movement had grown to enormous strength. It had twice defeated Blaine in convention, and he hoped it would now defeat him outside of the convention.

Col. Thomas W. Higginson said he had severed all allegiance for the time being to the party to which he had belonged since its birth, owing to the character of the nominee this year for President.

The committee on resolutions not being ready to report a recess was taken.

When the conference reassembled, the secretary made a statement in regard to letters received by the New York committee from citizens in various States from Maine to California.

Mr. Quimby, of New Jersey, said that to save the republican party Blaine must be beaten, and that for every democrat in New Jersey who would vote for Blaine, there were five republicans who would vote for Cleveland.

F. Claflin, of Illinois, said there was a very strong Cleveland element among the republicans of the West.

President Seeley, of Amherst said he was not prepared to join the democrats, but was in favor of having a separate candidate. He also made a plea for temperance principles.

The committee on permanent organization recommended that a National committee should be appointed, and the Chair appointed the following: From New York, Carl Schurz, Theo. Bacon, John H. Cowing, Chas. B. Miller, R. P. Bowker, Geo. Walton Green and Horace E. Deming; from Massachusetts, Wm. H. Forbes, Jos. Tucher, Jos. H. Walter, Samuel Hoar, Phineas Pearse, Geo. F. Leverett and Winslow Warren; from Connecticut, S. E. Baldwin, O. Armstrong and H. W. Farnam; from New Jersey, Daniel Drake Smith, Simon Huntington and W. G. Peckham; from Pennsylvania, F. B. Reeves, Stewart Wood and Jos. Parrish.

Chairman Codman and Mr. Claflin of Illinois were added to the committee.

Carl Schurz, on behalf of the committee on resolutions, said there was no intention to make a platform for a new party, but only an appeal for a government.

Geo. Wm. Curtis then read the address, which is as follows:

The Independent Platform.

The paramount issue of the presidential election of this year is moral rather than political. It concerns the national honor and character and honesty of the administration, rather than the general policies of the government, upon which the platform of the two parties do not essentially differ. No position taken by one platform is seriously traversed by the other. Both evidently contemplate a general agreement of public opinion upon the subjects which have long been in controversy, and indicate an unwillingness to declare upon the other and cardinal questions, views which in the present condition of opinion might seriously disturb the parties within themselves. The parties, indeed, now cohere mainly by habit and tradition, and since the great issues which have divided them have been largely settled, the most vital political activity has been an endeavor of good citizens to both parties to adjust them to the living issues and to make them effective agencies of political progress and reform. The indispensible necessity of this course has long been apparent, for in a time of profound peace at home and abroad, the most threatening national peril is insiduous political corruption of a mercenary and demoralized spirit and tendency, the result of which is well described by Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, as the "shameless doctrine that the true way by which power should be gained in the republic is to bribe the people with offices created for their service, and the true end for which it should be used, when gained, is the promoting of selfish ambition and the gratification of personal revenge." But this doctrine naturally has produced results which are still more alarming to patriot, and the tendency has so rapidly developed that there is political power, not only to grasp ambition and revenge, but to promote gain.

The platform then says the great party has habitually proclaimed it to be the duty of every citizen to support the party at elections without regard to the character of those whom it selects as its executive agents; that the tendency of such a policy is fatal to the public welfare, and that it is the duty of every patriotic citizen, rational and imperative, to defeat and defeat such demands. If the Republican convention had presented a candidate whose character and career were the pledge of a resolute contest with the tendencies above described, every republican voter would have gladly supported the nomination, but the candidate has shown by his own words and the acts of his official record, that he is unworthy of respect and confidence; that he has traded upon his official trust for his pecuniary gain, a representative of the men, methods and conduct which the public confidence condemns.

Upon the practical questions of tariff and finance and other questions upon which both parties are divided within themselves, we are also divided in opinion. We shall vote, therefore, on the choice of representatives, and on other officers according to our individual opinions. There is no distinctive issue upon public policy presented for the consideration of the country. The character of the candidate becomes of the highest importance to all citizens who do not hold that party victories should be secured at any cost. While the Republican nomination presents a party whom we cannot support, the Democratic party presents one whose name is a synonym of political courage and honesty and administrative reform.

The platform eulogizes Cleveland at considerable length, dwelling on his administrative ability and courage of conviction in the face of popular clamor as exhibited while Mayor and Governor, points out the fact, he has sprung into prominence since the war, and is not subject to the effect of the fierce animosities of that time, and predicts his administration would be to the honor of American citizenship at home and abroad. It then proceeds to declare that it is not the intention of its framers to leave the republican party or to merge themselves into any other party, but that they propose to assist in defeating the republican nominee as a duty they owe the country as citizens, in the interest of a pure and wise administration. They hold the ballot is a responsibility which no good citizen should seek to evade, and that he must answer to his private conscience for a right administration of that trust. The platform concludes by advising the independent voters to vote for electors who will vote for Grover Cleveland for President. The platform then says: "We are very proud of the great record and services of the republican party, but not with our consent or connivance shall the record be disgraced. Every party must be immediately renewed by the intelligence and independence of its own members, or it will sink from an agency to secure a good government into a remorseless despotism. It is with a profound conviction of its wisdom that republicans, faithful to their party, but holding, with the great republicans, that political morality of administration is more precious than the party, they are now constrained to oppose the republican presidential nomination in the interest of what they believe to be pure republicanism, of the public welfare, and of the honor of the American name.

Mr. Curtis, during the reading, was frequently interrupted by applause, and when he had finished the resolutions were adopted without a dissenting vote.

Mr. Williams, of Massachusetts, in a few remarks, criticized the action of ex-Governor Long, of Massachusetts, and Theo. Roosevelt, of New York, in endorsing Blaine, after having denounced him in the convention, and he denounced the rule of the convention which compelled the delegates to stand by the choice of the party.

Mr. Wm. Everett, of Massachusetts, offered a resolution naming Cleveland and Hendricks as the nominees of the conference; laid on the table, and soon after the conference adjourned, on motion of Mr. Lyman, of Massachusetts.

After the adjournment of the conference, the national committee went into session and discussed a plan for a permanent organization, but no definite action was taken and the matter was referred to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Deming and Miller of New York and Pears of Massachusetts to report a plan. It was also decided to have an executive committee of ten, who shall have power to increase their number. They will appoint committees in the various States and it was thought that the most efficient work could be done in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts, and strong efforts will we made to carry those States, where State committees will be organized, as also in Pennsylvania. The sentiment expressed shows that a majority of the members are in favor of conducting a campaign in an independent manner with perhaps occasional conferences with the Democrats to avoid a possible collision.

The Prohibitionists.

PITTSBURG, 22.—The prohibitionist delegates to the convention are nearly all on the ground. The total number is about 400. The National committee this afternoon met and selected Wm. Daniels, of Baltimore, for temporary chairman of the convention. It also adopted a resolution providing that all delegates shall be admitted to seats on the floor of the convention, but that only those who have regularly signed credentials shall be permitted to vote. The resolution will be opposed by many of the delegates, and will cause an animated debate. Daniels has drawn out of the contest for the Presidential nomination, and the chances of Dr. R. A. McDonald, of California, and Stephen B. Fisk, of New Jersey, instead of improving, have materially weakened the last 24 hours, owing to the efforts of the admirers of ex-Governor St. John. His letter declining to accept the nomination, which was mentioned last night, was addressed to T. Edgar Hunt, a delegate-at-large from New Jersey, and is as follows:

NORTH HECTOR, New York, July 22.

I am conditionally for the third party, and shall heartily support the candidate of the Pittsburg convention, but my work must be in the ranks with the people. I want no office, and could not accept any nomination. All I want is a chance to fight liquor, and all parties that are afraid to oppose it. May God bless you.

Yours,

JOHN P. ST. JOHNS.

The friends of St. Johns are now claiming his election on the first ballot, and assert that a careful canvass gives him 283. The National committee on credentials: A. J. Judkins and H. W. Nelson of Illinois; Geo. P. Rogers of Connecticut; J. B. Finch of Nebraska; F. D. Hastings of Wisconsin.

Boxburyport, 22.—Ex-Minister Sargent has received a dispatch asking him to run for Congress in one of the California districts.

PANAMA, via Galveston, 22.—The number of cases of yellow fever is increasing daily. The chief priest and two staff officers died from the disease last night. There are 176 cases of dysentery in the city. The hospitals are crowded here and in Colon. Seven deaths in the Canal hospital last night.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, 22.—The bricklayers have won an easy victory, and a multitude of workingmen would demand a reduction of their day's work to nine hours if they could obtain it as easily as did the masons. The Mail and Express thinks, however, the contractors may take their turn at reduction next season, and offer only $3.50 where now they pay $4 a day for bricklayers.

Secretary Lincoln had a conference with Gen. Hazen this morning as to the disposition of the bodies of the dead of the Greely expedition. It is probable they will be taken to Governor's Island, New York harbor, and placed in charge of Major Gen. Hancock until a decision shall be reached as to their final disposition.

Pittsburg, 22.—Jay-Eye-See attempted to beat Rarus' record on a half mile track. The track was fast but the horse was out of condition. The first quarter was trotted in 35¼, half in 1.08, mile in 2.18¼. He broke badly on the third quarter. The next attempt was done in 2.23¾. He will trot at Providence on the 30th to beat Maud S.'s record.

Jane Gray Swisshelm, the noted abolitionist and advocate of female rights died at her home in Sewickely, Pa. On Saturday, the 12th, she was taken ill, and since then has been growing steadily weaker, until last night, she lost consciousness, and shortly after died, aged 66 years.

ALLAN PINKERTON.

REMINISCENCES OF THE GREAT DETECTIVE.

"One trait in Allan Pinkerton's character," said Frank Warner, ex-superintendent of the Chicago branch of Pinkerton's detective agency, and for many years the associate of the great detective, "always reminded me strongly of the old Scotch Presbyterians. He would hunt down a criminal with the utmost bitterness so long as the man attempted to cover up his evil deeds. But if he showed repentance at any time Mr. Pinkerton would do all he could to help him. He had strong hates and friendships, and was always ready to give a man credit for any good piece of work he did. When he was in his prime he had personal supervision, as far as possible, of every important case which came to his agency. He never asked a man to go anywhere that he would not go himself. While he was a brave man there was nothing rash about him. He never took any chances which were not necessary. He gave away considerable sums of money to people who had no claim on him, and many of whom I did not consider deserving of charity. Apparently he could not refuse a request for money coming from any person in need.

"At the opening of the rebellion Mr. Pinkerton was in Jackson, Miss., working on a mysterious murder case. One day, while he was getting shaved in a barber shop, he heard two men who did not know him discussing the best way of arresting him as a spy. He left Jackson then, and worked his way up the Mississippi river to the north. Throughout this way he labored for the government at the head of the secret service department with the utmost earnestness. When Webster, one of his detectives, was arrested as a spy, Mr. Pinkerton did all in his power to save him. He ransomed Lewis and Scully, two others of his men who were captured by the rebels, with $50,000 of confederate money. The money, however, had been taken from the rebels and probably did not cost him $100. But he could not save Webster's life.

"After Mr. Pinkerton received a stroke of paralysis he was never able to take control of affairs after his old manner. He was sensitive about showing the infirmity of his mind by putting almost pecuniastic forward. At a time while he was always anxious to know the entire details of every affair which was entrusted to the agency, he was content to have all things done in his name.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known clergymen in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts supreme Court, writes as follows:

"28 E. 14th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

Messrs. J. C. AYER & Co., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from dyspepsia, catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results solely to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used in all less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

DRIVEN TO FRENZY.

The Royal Baking Powder Company are driven to frenzy in their efforts to extricate themselves from the charge made by the chemists of the nation against the fitness, the safety, and the cleanliness of the Powerful Drug AMMONIA in their powder.

Ridicule and abuse, bombastic statements, extravagant assertions, crying dirt and lime will not answer. Though they paint it an inch thick, to this complexion will it come at last, "if an evil drug" is the secret of the preparation so painted.

Dr. Charles A. Pauly, a well-known physician of Cincinnati, said to a reporter of the Commercial Gazette: "Ammonia is a drug of great and sometimes dangerous power." "Its use in the subsistence of mankind, in any of its forms, is dangerous and improper." The Royal Baking Powder contains Ammonia, and its manufacturers DARE NOT DENY IT.

For the purity, wholesomeness, and freedom from lime and Ammonia of

and the impurity and Ammonia in the Royal Baking Powder, we refer to the following chemists and physicians of the highest national recognition and authority.

PROTECTION.

Every housewife can try the "Royal" or any brand of Baking Powder, by placing the can, top down, on a hot stove till heated. Remove the cover, and if there, she will smell AMMONIA—HARTSHORN. After which she can change it for Price's, that has nothing base in it.
