

DEPUTATION OF WIVES AND WOMEN

Desperate Condition of London's Poor Brought to the Notice of Premier Balfour

THEY SANG "MARSEILLAISE."

First Time Ever Heard in England's Capital Under the Like Circumstances.

London, Nov. 6.—The desperate condition of the poor of London was brought to the notice of Premier Balfour today by a remarkable deputation of the wives and other women relatives of the unemployed, who did not hesitate to tell the premier unless something is speedily done to lessen their suffering there will be bloodshed.

"Don't forget that hungry men are desperate men," said one of the speakers, who all had the same tale to tell of husbands out of work and starving wives and children. The women, some of them having babies in their arms, bore eloquent testimony of the truth of their complaints.

Enormous crowds of women from all parts of London marched through the streets headed by a deputation which Mr. Balfour received at the office of the local government board.

The "Marseillaise" was heard as the procession advanced, for the first time it was ever heard under such circumstances in the streets of London.

Only 29 of the women were admitted in the presence of Mr. Balfour. The premier was very sympathetic. He acknowledged that the evil was very real, but he had little to suggest in the way of alleviation except an expression of hope that public charity would come to the aid of the unemployed. He deprecated the socialistic suggestion that the state should be started at the national expense for the benefit of the unemployed as calculated to destroy the springs of enterprise and energy of the nation.

At the close of Mr. Balfour's "speech of despair," as the delegates described it, Mrs. Crooks, wife of William Crooks, a labor party member of the house of commons, and several other women excitedly invited Mr. Balfour to come and live among them for a few months. The premier remarked that he was quite aware that nothing he had said could be other than disappointing. They had his genuine sympathy and he felt most acutely the magnitude of the evil from which they were suffering.

A mass meeting of the women was held in the afternoon to hear the report of the delegation. Mr. Crooks, M. P., and others made speeches. Mr. Crooks said that Mr. Balfour's reply to the delegation was unworthy of the premier of a great country. The mention of Mr. Balfour's name was greeted with a storm of hisses. Mr. Crooks added that they had started an agitation which would not cease until every man who wanted work was supplied with sufficient to support his wife and children. The speaker declared his belief to continue the agitation. He said that a revolution in England would not be behind the revolution in Russia in securing the demands of the people. The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution to continue the agitation for the employment of the unemployed and the meeting broke up amid uproarious scenes and the singing of the "Marseillaise."

CONSPIRACY TO SECURE LARGE SUMS OF MONEY

And Get Control of Western Life Indemnity Co. Charged Against Certain Attorneys Interested in Litigation.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Conspiracy to secure large sums of money and to gain control of the Western Life Indemnity company is charged against certain attorneys interested in pending litigation involving the indemnity company and its officials. The charge is made in an answer filed today by the Western Life company in the federal court here, in a suit brought by the company. In regard to the alleged conspiracy the bill recites:

"In September certain attorneys, some being solicitors of record herein for the complainant, and certain attorneys formerly in the employ of the defendant, confederated to make an attack upon the defendant either for the purpose of destroying its good will and reputation, or to secure the business and having a receiver appointed or to compel the defendant to pay such persons large sums of money to cause such attacks; that pursuant to said conspiracy the persons so confederated procured permission from complainants to commence proceedings in their names to prevent a proper transfer of the Western Life Indemnity company to another corporation."

It is charged that the attorneys accused are paying the costs of the suit and that an intervenor petition by Harvey B. Hicks, chairman of a policyholders' committee, is being filed in the suit. The answer declares that the company is solvent and has now in its credit balance in the reserve fund $1,025,816. But it is admitted that the assessments for the monetary funds are insufficient to meet aggregating death claims unless the reserve or emergency fund is used. There is now a deficit in the mortality fund of more than $357,767.

It is admitted that W. H. Gray had a contract with the company and that General Manager L. E. Rosenfeld later gained control of it, but not by fraud. It is denied that Rosenfeld received $200,000 from the company by fraud, but that this amount was paid for the membership of the Life Insurance company of Pennsylvania. As a result of this expenditure, the Western company received $39,957 over and above the purchase price.

It is admitted that General Manager Rosenfeld and President George M. Moulton of the Western Life Indemnity company are to be officials of the Security Life and Annuity company if the transfer is consummated, but it is denied that they have any personal interest in the security company or will be benefited financially other than by salaries. All the charges of fraud against President Moulton and General Manager Rosenfeld are characterized as malicious and false.

TREATY WITH GERMANY.

Negotiations Opened Simultaneously in Berlin and Washington

Berlin, Nov. 6.—The negotiations for a commercial agreement between the United States and Germany were opened simultaneously at Berlin and Washington on Saturday. It now appears that Ambassador Tower asked the foreign office for an exact statement of what was desired of the United States and the result was that the proposals were submitted. The foreign office awaits the United States response and it is hoped that an arrangement can be reached before March 1 so that there may be no interval between the expiration of the old agreement and the beginning of the new, thus avoiding a disturbance of the usual trade movements.

NORWEGIAN THRONE.

Chances Are Vote Will Be Prince Charles of Denmark.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Christian Hauger, chargé d'affaires, ad interim, of Norway, in an interview published today, discussed the coming election to the Norwegian throne by referendum vote.

"According to latest account, I think Prince Charles of Denmark will be elected to the throne and accept," said Mr. Hauger. "The election will be held Nov. 12, on which day voting will occur throughout the country, but as many places are remote, without wire connections, the vote will not be counted for perhaps a week afterwards." It probably would be about the first of December before the prince would ascend the throne and perhaps several days would elapse before the reorganization could be completed. The cabinet, you know, is the one that severed the ties between us and Sweden, while the members will likely resign formally, they probably would be appointed. One or two, I understand, are determined to leave public life, but I am not at liberty to mention which ones."

Mme. Modjeska's Farewell Tour.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 6.—Madame Modjeska, the famous Polish actress, began her farewell tour of the United States at the new Lyceum theater here this evening, presenting her masterpiece, "Merry Stuart."

The play was elaborately staged and the artist was supported by an especially strong cast.

PRINCE LUNCHES AT WHITE HOUSE

Was Not on Program and an Entirely Personal Compliment to Battenberg and Nephew

VISITED WASHINGTON'S TOMB

Presented With an Ivy Sprout From it—Highly Delighted With His Visit To the United States.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Honored by the president by an invitation to lunch informally at the White House, Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg kept his special train waiting three-quarters of an hour this afternoon while the president engaged him in a long personal conversation.

The White House luncheon was not on the program and was an entirely personal compliment to Admiral Prince Louis and his royal nephew, Prince Alexander, a middle-aged man in the drake. In the morning Prince Louis visited Mount Vernon, making the trip down the Potomac river on the United States dispatch boat Dolphin, commanded by Commander John O'Brien, who will soon go to the British capital as naval attaché of the American embassy. On board the Dolphin was a party of about 20 including Rear Admirals Evans and Brownson, Rear Admiral Carpe, chief construction of the navy, and the commanding officers of the British squadron.

Flying the pennants of Rear Admiral Prince Louis and Rear Admiral Evans, the Dolphin got under way promptly at 9 o'clock. At Mount Vernon the party was met at the landing by the superintendent of the grounds, who conducted them through the home of the first president. After they came to the tomb of George Washington, the prince and party were driven to the naval academy grounds, where they were received by a company of marines and the naval academy band. They were then the guests of the officers of the academy while the time for the dinner given by Admiral Sands, superintendent of the academy.

This was the most notable social event of the stay of the fleet in the harbor, the guests being limited to the admirals and captains of the fleet and one or two others. Gov. Warfield and Adjutant Clinton L. Riggs, were the only non-naval guests.
