TWO NEW SUGAR FACTORIES.

The starting up of the sugar factory at Idaho Falls, details of which have been printed in the "News," marks another era in the development of our sister state on the north. Idaho has long held a proud place in the roll of western states, for her record in mining, farming, fruitgrowing, and stock raising. Now, with the beet sugar factory in operation, and others in contempla notice. tion, she adds another great industry to her list and one, we do not doubt that will contribute as much to her prosperity as it has done to that of Utah, Colorado and other states. The peculiar richness of the soils in the Snake River valley, the exhaustless supply of water, and the skill of the farmers in that section, all made it an ideal spot for the location of a sugar factory. The liberality and public spirit of the Idaho legislature, too, in encouraging capitalists to start in industry in the state, by offering a bounty on al sugar produced for two years, has borne good fruit, since the state secures in return for its two years' outlay, a great industry, which will remain for all time, constantly expanding and adding to the revenues of the state. We congatulate alike the promoters of the new enterprise and the people of Idaho, on the successful inauguration of their first sugar factory. We have received a small sample of the sugar manufactured at the Knight Sugar company's plant, in operation at Raymond, Canada. Our readers will have noticed the letter on the subject from Prof. Brimhall of Provo. This sugar is a little finer in its particles than the Lehi product, but is of excellent quality, clear and white, and should stand first-class in the market. This factory in Canada has been established by Utah capital, Mr. Jesse Knight of Utah county being one of its chief promoters. It is very gratifying to learn of its success. It will be num bered among the prosperous beet sugar institutions of the country, and although placed over the border will stand as a mark of American industry and enterprise. We congratulated all parties concerned in the success of the Utah venture in the Canadian Domion, Christianize the people is not the poor woman missionary whose life is placed in jeopardy, but a portion of the United States army well backed by cannon, was one of her statements in telling of the work that has been tried among the people. She also told of the treat-ment that had been accorded her prement that had been accorded her pre-decessors. One had been driven from home in her night dress, another had been outraged and later had to be placed in an asylum, and three others barely escaped death at a burning stake. Awful indeed were the pic-tures that she painted of the inhuman-ity perpetrated under the system."

The only bit of truth in her whole tissue of falsehood is the statement that she once taught school in a town in Utah. That was in Hyrum, Cache county, where she was never molested in any way whatever, and where other teachers belonging to the Presbyterian church have followed that vocation with more or less success for years, and have not been interfered with, as they have freely testified. The story about the flag which she has told in several places with as many variations, is not only absolutely untrue but is positively absurd, because the Stars and Stripes form a prominent and indispensible feature of public entertain. ments in Hyrum as well as other parts of the State of Utah, and the flag of our country was flung to the breeze by the "Mormons" when they first put foot in these valleys, which were then part of the domain of Mexico, and has al-vays been honored and respected. Mrs. De Vore was never mobbed in Hyrum; the flag she exhibits was not mutilated by "Mormons;" the stories she tells about her predecessors are fables; she is simply lying for pay, being sent about the country to tell her terrible tales of woe by sectarian societies, in order to arouse anger against the Latter-day Saints. The Deseret News has published affidavits from the Mayor and other prominent citizens of Hyrum, and statements from ministers of the society to which she professes to, belong, denying her assertions and protesting against her charges, and anybody who wants to know the truth of the matter can earn it, by writing to Hyrum, Cache ounty, Utah, asking for particulars, We would not have noticed the woman's ravings again if it had not been for the request of the Elders now in Ohio, who probably have forgotten our full and complete exposure of the whole affair some time ago, and which we do not care just now to reproduce.

To those persons who want sensational stuff about the "Mormons," the romances of semi-lunatics of the De Vore kind will be acceptable. To rational people who desire facts and who weigh statements in the scales of common sense, such lurid tales will be viewed with laughter or pity, but be utterly rejected as too ridiculous for serious

COLOMBIA AWAKENING.

Recent dispatches from Bogota Indicate that the Colombian government is awakening to a realization of its blunder in rejecting the canal treaty, and that it is turning its impotent rage many. against this country, instead of against its own short-seeing statesmen. The minister of foreign affairs, Senor Carlos Ricos, has now threatened to send an armed force against Panama and break off diplomatic relations with us, unless our government withdraw its recognition of the new republic. Of course any Colombian statesman who, at pres ent, desires popularity, must break out against the United States, and it is quite possible that Senor Rico's 'ultimatum" is no more than a bid for popularity at home; but it is also possible that the Colombians fancy that their national honor bids them to draw the sword, though they know that to do so, may mean annihilation. Spain's honor, it seems, was not satisfied, until after the battles of Manila and Santiago, and Colombian honor may yearn for some similar satisfaction. If that is not the explanation of Colombia's sudden warlike attitude, then some European power is behind the little republic, encouraging it to go ahead, and it would be to the interest of this country to know just which power it is, on which the Colombians lean. In this country, part of the press is till assailing the government, because t refused to compel Panama to remain department of Colombia and accept financial ruin with thankful heart. The foolish attitude on the part of these cre. ators of public sentiment, may have something to do with the feverish fancies of the Colombians. Similar attacks certainly encouraged the Filipino rebels to prolonged hostilities. They may have the same effect in Colombia If so, their criminal nature should be evident to all. Colombia lost Panama through the shortsightedness of its statesmen, who did not care for the interests of the Panamans, but hoped to obtain a larger sum than that offered. to divide between themselves. It is not the first time in the history of the world that the foolishness, or greed, of statesmen has cost a country territory, nay even national existence. The duty of the American press now is, not to stir up the passions of the people, but to counsel moderation and peace. Panama as a country never was worth a great deal to Colombia, except for the prospective canal. But that canal propositions the Colombians rejected. The loss of the neglected department cannot be serious, if the canal question is elim-Inated.

boycott of divorced people, and to this the following reply was received; "His Eminence would say that Catholic ladies can not well take upon them. ole ladies can not well take upon them-selves to regulate the customs of so-ciety, situated as they are in this country. Therefore he would not say that they should not meet married di-vorced people in general gatherings. But he would advise them neither to invite such people to their social func-tions por to accent any invitations tions, nor to accept any invitations from them to attend theirs." It is worth while quoting this, at this particular time, because it proves that in the view of prominent teachers of morality, this country is face to face with a problem of evil of vast impor-The opinion expressed can be tance. recommended especially to that large class of people which is ever ready to swallow a camel, while making great fuss about a gnat. And that it is an important question, we need not say. States are founded upon families. A house whose foundations are loosely joined is always in peril. A community or a people which holds the marriage obligation lightly is bound to be socially weak and corrupt. The purity, integrity and security of the state as well as the happiness of individual lives are dependent largely on the purity and the stability of the home. Bourke Cochran in an address at Car. negie Hall, New York, last month, also took occasion to say a word upon this subject. He said he saw no real danger in the accumulation of wealth. nor in the labor problems, "but," he said.

"The blot I see upon our civilization "The blot I see upon our civilization is the increasing number of divorces. In the ancient state the supreme im-portance of life was to increase the importance of the state. Today the end of life is the individual good. But the in-dividual good lies in the prosperity of the family and it is at this that the divorce strikes. If not checked it will destroy the family. The remedy to this, a loss it is to readize that matimony cestroy the family. The remedy to this, as I see it, is to realize that matrimony is a state, not a contract, and divorce must be stopped. Divorce strikes at the virtue of our women, and this vir-tue is what preserves the state. Divorce is the one foul growth upon our soil, and upon its riddance depends the fate of our future. 'If we are to choose between divorce and polygamy, give us polygamy.'" polygamy.' That is the way the problem looks to a great many. Concerning the remedy for the evil, there are many opinions

The Catholic church forbids divorce, and other churches seem to incline more and more to that view. The Canadian laws are so stringent that there is, practically, no divorce problems to meet there. In Canada there is but one ground for divorce recognized by the law, and the remarriage of the innocent party is permitted only on consent of the senate. As the legal fees amount to $1,200, it is practically impossible except to the rich, which, of course, is unfair in the extreme. There can be no remedy except the application of the Gospel to the family circle. But it will be admitted that legislation should surround the family with safeguards that cannot be easily broken through. The law should forbid the trifling with an institution that is, in its essence sacred, but which seems to be turned into a burlesque by too a little spectral, though still a beautiful | a interspectra, though still a baaddha specter, with the making of several live voices in it. It is not, however, as a "wandering voice" that Patti comes among us. It is as a sentiment, a pres-ence of beauty, a triumph of nature and art, a power over mind and sense that she attracts an audience now.

New York Times. New York Times. It stands to reason that Adelina Pat-tl can no longer sing, that her vocal efforts would not be acceptable as those of a debutante, much less as those of the acknowledged "Queen of Song," which she so long was. Ten years, nay, twenty years ago, "Pattl's fare-wells" were already a joke. They have long been past a joke. Now her reap-pearance at an age which her very fame renders it impossible to forget, is simply an appeal of the crudest kind is simply an appeal of the crudest kind is simply an appeal of the curlosity, on to mere curlosity, to the curlosity, on the one hand, of the aged who beard her in her glorious prime, and who valuly seek to recall the past in the present, and to the youthful who desire to know what it was over which their manufa and their grandparents rayed. parents and their grandparents raved, and whose curlosity the facts change to bewilderment.

St. Paul Globe.

It is not probable that the diva will commit herself. For though Art cried "Commercialism!" when Patti's most recent farewell tour was announced, something more potent than a love of gain has brought back the singer to the scene of her triumph. It is the old, old story of the individual's fulle pro-test against the world's forgetfulness. Pattl, like all the others, desires to be-lieve that the world has not forgetful lieve that the world has not forgotten. To all evidences that it has forgotten or, at least, that it no longer cayes, she will, womanlike, close her eyes.

Kansas City World.

Another nice thing about Patti is that she has always tried to please the pub-lic. She has differed with Mr. Vander-bilt in his opinion of the great un-washed, and she has always been keenly alive to the fact that her audiences were the geese who owned the golden eggs and that it was to her interest to make them keep on laying. So the dear Patti will "farewell" once more, and revive her engaging personality and her soulful songs for the benefit of the younger generation, as she did — years ago for their fathers and grand. fathers.

Kansas City Star.

Manager Robert Grau, who is con-ducting the tour of Mme, Adelina Patti, declared the other day that in order to insure reasonable profits on his enterprise he must "take in" $12,000 at each concert. There is surely some mistake about these figures. In her best days Patti never received more than $4,500 per night for a concert tour. It is in-conceivable that any impressario would be foolish enough to give her work be foolish enough to give her more than that, or even that sum, at this time. It is quite as impossible to un-derstand how the expenses, over and above Patti's share of the gross receipts, could be great enough to war-rant the statement made by Mr. Grau.

THE DE VORE STORY AGAIN. It seems that the half-crazy woman known as Mrs. De Vore has broken out again as an anti-"Mormon" lecturer. Some Elders laboring as missionaries in Ohjo have written to us asking for information about her, as she has made some most remarkable statements which are published in Ohlo papers. We have neither space nor inclination to reproduce much of her ravings and we have given to the public, more than once, the most positive and convincing proofs of her faisity and foolishness. But we will quote a small portion of the report of her speech at East Liverpool After repeating her old fable about the "Mormons" "insulting the flag," with the variation that this time she pictured it as "floating over the building in Utah where she taught school," which is different from her former story, the report says:

"The warning first given her that she must haul the beautiful symbol of republicanism down from its position on the building came as a distinct sur-prise, but she refused to believe that prise, but she refused to believe that they would dare to carry out their threats to tear it down. Taking it down herself was not to be thought of, and she defied the bitterness of the people and stuck bravely to her colors. enduring insults which were more than man could stand 'let alone a woman.'
