

HERMANN NOT WELL INFORMED

Did Not Know That Some of Clerks in His Office Were in Employ of Benson.

HE DID KNOW ZABRISKIE.

Disclaimed Any Acquaintance With Various Individuals Connected With Land Frauds in the West.

Washington, April 5.—The third day of Bingor Hermann's testimony in his trial for the destruction of certain letter books while commissioner of the general land office was begun with a line of questions intended to show that Mr. Hermann had no knowledge of the interest in the Hyde-Benson-Diamond-Schneider combination. Mr. Hermann said he had never seen Benson after the stormy interview with him in San Francisco regarding which he testified yesterday. The witness had no recollection of ever having met Mr. Hyde. As to Messrs. Harlan and Vail, clerks in the land office, who have testified that they were at the same time in the employ of Benson, Mr. Hermann said he had no knowledge or suspicion of such a condition. He always had the utmost confidence in Harlan and Vail. The letter signed "Citizen of the United States," which described the operations of the Hyde-Benson combination, written in 1900, and placed in evidence by the prosecution, Mr. Hermann said that he had never seen nor heard of it until it was produced in the court. The endorsement of this letter in Mr. Vail's handwriting, "honorable commissioner has seen this twice," Mr. Hermann said was a mistake, as he had never seen the letter. The letters written by Zabriskie in 1902 to Mr. Hermann, in which the latter was informed of the Hyde-Benson operations, was the subject of extended testimony upon the part of the witness. He said he had known Zabriskie in California, and the facts disclosed in Zabriskie's letter were the first he had regarding the Hyde-Benson combination. He retained the Zabriskie letters for the purpose of preventing the "traitor" in the office, whoever he might be, from knowing of the steps being taken to run down the frauds. Mr. Hermann took V. J. Meeks into his confidence, Meeks being an old employee of the office, and through him directed Special Agent Holsinger to make an investigation of the Benson-Hyde operations. Mr. Hermann disclaimed acquaintance with the various individuals connected with the alleged fraudulent and conspiratorial in the west. He repeated his annual complaint against the operation of the lien land law, as contained in his annual reports, which was read to the jury by Atty. Worthington. The trial was adjourned until Monday.

JAPAN TO HAVE LARGEST BATTLESHIP IN THE WORLD

London, April 5.—It is reported here that the largest battleship in the world, to have a displacement of 25,000 tons, is to be built in England for the Japanese government, and that the commission already is on its way here from Japan for the purpose of placing a contract with one or another of the Great Britain shipbuilders. It has been believed that Japan would in the future build all her own warships, but it is now thought that a vessel of this size would be too great an undertaking for her, and it is known that the Japanese admiralty has a full program for the home yards. The cost of this new battleship will be about $12,500,000.

NEXT WEEK IN HISTORY.

- APRIL 7.
- 1770—William Wordsworth, English poet, born; died 1850. Wordsworth's genius was of the Bohemian type. He was averse to study and discipline, and fond of idle roving and roaming the fields and woodlands. His poems were composed in the open air.
- 1780—Dr. William Ellery Channing, Unitarian and abolition teacher, born at Newport, R. I.; died 1842.
- 1888—General Quincy Adonis Gilmore, Union commander on the Carolina coast, died; born 1825.
- 1906—Moroccan convention signed at Algeiras by the delegates to the international conference, on the southern slope of Mount Vesuvius, buried under lava and ash.
- APRIL 8.
- 1752—David Rittenhouse, eminent American mathematician and astronomer, born at Germantown, Pa.; died in Philadelphia, 1796. Rittenhouse began life as a farm boy and learned to make clocks without instruction. He worked at clockmaking and also turned out superior mathematical and astronomical instruments. Honor and success crowned his old age, and he was a philosopher and a juster than his second to Franklin alone.
- 1848—Gastano Donzelloni, composer of "Lacrimae Sanctae," "Don Pasquale" and many other popular operas, died at Bergamo, Italy.
- 1885—Richard Grant White, author and philologist, died in New York city; born there 1821.
- 1904—General Kuroki crossed the Yalu with the advance detachments of the Japanese army and took up positions in Manchuria.
- APRIL 9.
- 1826—Francis Lord Bacon, reorganizer of the British navy, died. Lord Bacon was a prodigy and in childhood began to investigate phenomena on his own account. In his teens he dissented from the - old philosophies as taught in the schools. He acquired great eminence as a lawyer and servant of the crown.
- 1758—Fisher Ames, statesman and orator, born in Dedham, Mass.; died there July 4, 1808.
- 1842—Adelina Maria Corinda Patti, the opera singer, born in Madrid.
- 1905—Sarah Chaucer Woolsey (Susan Coolidge), writer of children's stories, died at Newport, R. I.; born 1855.
- 1906—Continued destruction around the volcanic mountain, accompanied by earthquake shocks; many towns abandoned.
- APRIL 10.
- 1206—General Horatio Gates died in New York city; born in England 1726.
- 1852—John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," died in Tunis; born 1792. Payne never knew what it was to have a home after he was 13 years old, yet he produced the grandest home song ever written. He established himself in London, where he edited a theatrical journal, acted and wrote dramas. In one of these he introduced the song "Home, Sweet Home."
- 1892—General Manuel Gonzalez, who succeeded Benito Juarez as president of the Mexican republic, died in the city of Mexico; born 1826.
- 1906—Nathaniel Southgate Shaler, dean of the Lawrence Scientific school at Harvard, died in Cambridge, Mass.; born 1841.
- APRIL 11.
- 1713—Treaty of Utrecht and end of the war of the Spanish succession.
- 1814—Napoleon at Fontenoy signed the act of abdication.
- 1878—Major General Canby murdered by the Modocs in the lava beds of Oregon; born 1819. General Canby was killed on an errand of peace. Sent to the lava beds to subdue and punish Captain Jack's vicious band, he was suddenly ordered to stop hostilities and conduct negotiations for peace. Captain Jack asked for a "peace talk," specifying that General Canby and his second in command, with three civilian commissioners, meet an equal number of savage leaders between the lines. Although warned by friendly Modocs, who knew the secrets of the Indian councils, that it was a plot to massacre the leaders of the troops, Canby yielded to the wishes of the peace men and accompanied the party. He knew that if he stayed away Captain Jack would have an excuse not to "talk" and further stimulate his followers to resist by accusing the soldiers of bad faith. When he entered the circle he found the Modocs armed and also insolent in their demeanor, a sure sign of mischief afoot. With a wave of the hand to the army signal officer, who was watching the group, he might have summoned the troops to the spot. Yet he knew that the Indians would never sue for peace except when in awe of the government, and it was for the stronger party to display confidence and use forbearance in dealing with ignorant and misguided savages. He permitted the "talk" to go on. The work of slaughter, begun without warning, was instantaneous.

1884—Charles Reade, English novelist and dramatist, died; born 1814.

1902—General Wade Hampton, distinguished Confederate cavalry officer, died at Columbus, S. C.; born 1818.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

Not only is a medicine valuable for its ability to cure disease, but the way in which it affects the system is a very important factor. When the system is infected with the germs of disease as in Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., every particle of its recuperative strength is needed to assist in eliminating the poisons and impurities which are causing the trouble. It should not be dosed and treated with strong mineral mixtures and concoctions that further add to the burden, by disagreeably affecting the bowels, producing indigestion, or eating out the delicate linings and membranes of the stomach. The absolute vegetable purity of S. S. S. has always been one of the strongest points in its favor, and is one of the principal reasons for its being now the most widely known and universally used blood medicine on the market. It is made entirely of healing, purifying roots, herbs and barks of the forests and fields. These are selected for their well known curative properties, and are known at the same time to possess the qualities to build up and strengthen every part of the system by their fine tonic effect. Not only is S. S. S. the king of blood purifiers, but it is the one medicine that may be taken with absolute safety by young or old. We guarantee it non-injurious and offer a reward of $1.00 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral in any form. S. S. S. is a safe and reliable treatment for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and any and all diseases arising from a poisoned or impure state of the blood. It goes to the very bottom of these troubles, removes every trace of disease, enriches and builds up the blood and permanently cures where mineral medicines fail. If you are suffering with any form of blood disease write for our book on The Blood and ask for any medical advice you may desire, no charge for either. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

THE ELDERS' JOURNAL.

A MISSIONARY PAPER, PUBLISHED IN THE MISSIONARY FIELD.

It goes to every part of the world where Elders of the Church are laboring. It bears the Name selected by the Prophet Joseph Smith for a Missionary paper, who wrote the Prospectus for the Original Elders Journal himself. Read what he said about the Elders Journal in 1837, as follows:

"This paper is intended to be a vehicle of communication for all the Elders of the Church of Latter Day Saints, through which they can communicate to others, all things pertaining to their mission, and calling as servants of the living God, and as messengers of righteousness to the nations among whom they are sent. As there have been many desires expressed by the Elders of said Church to have a periodical of this kind published, it is hoped that the present proposals will meet with their unqualified approbation, and will find a patron and a friend in all those into whose hands it comes."

Its pages are filled with the best arguments written by those mighty defenders of the faith who wrote and spoke by the power of God's spirit, during the early days of the Church. The Journal is resurrecting from oblivion precious gems which are buried away in old volumes of Church literature, and is sending them out again on their second mission. These are the arguments which appealed so forcibly to our parents, showing them the way to the Gospel Light, and will be equally as valuable to us and our children.

By subscribing for the Elders' Journal you help a Missionary Paper, published in the Missionary field and you also place in your home, volume by volume A MORMON SCRAP BOOK of the choicest Church Literature.

It also contains able arguments in defense of the faith by the best writers of today, as well as in the years that have passed.

It tells you what is being done by the Elders in the field.

Price One Dollar a Year.

READ WHAT THEY ALL SAY ABOUT US:

The First Presidency.

The Southern States Mission is to be congratulated on having a paper like The Elders' Journal to present to our friends inside and outside of the Church. Its size is admirably adapted for binding; its articles are clear and crisp, its aim to defend the truth it pursues in a fearless manner, and it breathes the true spirit of the Gospel. The Journal is well worth preserving, and will add to the value of any man's library in which it is found. May it ever be a beacon light to its readers on their way to the mansions prepared for them by the Master, and may it be successful in filling its glorious mission. We look upon it as a great help to the missionaries, and we believe it will prove a true Gospel messenger wherever it is received. That the seed sown by the writers of this paper may find good soil and be vivified through the power of the Lord, is the sincere prayer of Yours for the truth.

JOSEPH F. SMITH,
JOHN R. WINDER,
ANTHONY H. LUND.

Quorum of the Twelve.

The Elders' Journal will be a good missionary in Zion, as well as in the Southern States. The publication of Gospel sermons and articles, published by leading Elders of the Church, who were in the missionary field many years ago, and whose writings are found in old volumes of Church records, will be very valuable to present generations, and will recall happy days to the aged as well. The reports of Elders now laboring in the missionary field will also be valuable reading to the members of the Church at home. Success to the Elders' Journal.

FRANCIS M. LYMAN.

I am much pleased with the Elders' Journal, and feel certain that it will be of great profit in aiding the good cause in that Southern land and in all the world. It must be a joy to both the Elders and Saints. It is with pleasure that I recommend its contents and wish it ample success in every field.

JOHN HENRY SMITH.

I esteem the Elders' Journal for the precious truths in the Everlasting Gospel that it advocates and the interesting account of the laborers in the vineyard who are valiant for the testimony of Jesus. To those who love the truth and the establishment of righteousness and who understand the signs of the times, the Elders' Journal will be a welcome visitor.

GEORGE TRASDALE.

I am pleased to know that you are enlarging the Elders' Journal. I wish you abundant success in increasing its usefulness and enlarging its circulation. I feel that there is abundant room to enlarge in the sphere of the Elders' Journal, and I hope that the many gems which you are from time to time publishing may bring you many new subscribers.

REEDER J. GRANT.

The Elders' Journal is a most welcome visitor to my home. It is a publication of merit, and is not only beneficial to the Elders and Saints in the mission field, but I am sure will prove interesting to all subscribers everywhere. I have a Scrap Book of Mormon Literature, and I feel that it is a publication of merit, and will enhance its value tenfold and make it a publication to be desired and appreciated by the Latter-day Saints. I heartily endorse your efforts and enterprise, and wish you an unqualified success in the coming years.

ROGER CLAWSON.

It gives me pleasure to make the profit and pleasure I have derived from reading the Elders' Journal. I have been passing this valuable little publication for the past three years, and have always found it entertaining and instructive. I want to commend the efforts of the editor in collecting such valuable material, and I hope that the Elders' Journal will continue to be a source of information and instruction to all who are interested in the Gospel. I have always thought it one of the best methods of improving the mind, that young men should fill their memories with strong, pure, inspiring sentences, expressed in words and sentences to the glory of God. May the blessings of the Lord attend those who have this publication in charge.

REED SMOOT.

The Journal has become an expected friend and a welcome visitor to my humble home. Its pages are read with interest and profit by the inmates thereof; as it keeps us in close touch with that great part of this dispensation, the missionary work, a work with which we are somewhat familiar and in deep sympathy. We congratulate the Journal upon its steady growth and its enlarged field of action. We wish it all the success that can come to it by the widest possible circulation. May its growth in the future be as marked and substantial as its development has been. May it prove—as it is designed that it shall—a power for good wherever it shall go, both as a blessing to the Saints, by strengthening their testimonies and increasing their faith, a valuable companion, lending encouragement to the traveling Elders in the field, and an instrument in the hands of the Lord to the bringing of many into the effulgent light and glorious knowledge of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

HYRUM M. SMITH.

The matter contained in the Elders' Journal is very interesting and makes delightful reading. In view of the reproduction of so many valuable discourses, long since out of print, it will be almost indispensable to Church members. It will, in fact, be a library in itself of choice Mormon literature. It will be a welcome visitor to the residences of Saints at home and abroad, and will fill a long list of friends.

GEORGE ALBERT SMITH.

I look upon the Elders' Journal as one of the needs of the Church, and I believe it will be a great blessing to the heretofore vacant, at least for many years. It is a revival of a magazine issued in the earliest days of the Latter-day work. It is, however, in better form than its predecessor, and can be bound in a shape which will fit it for any library, public or private. The improvement which has taken place in this publication since it was first issued in the Southern States is marked and commendable. The matter it contains is of the highest value. Not only are articles of moment reproduced in its columns, but discourses and contributions from the living oracles that have not heretofore been published appear in its pages. Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints it fills a place as worthy of record and highly interesting to all who desire to become acquainted with the progress of this great cause. The prospects for its enhanced value as time marches on are exceedingly promising. It presents a fine, attractive appearance, it is well printed on good paper; it is tastefully arranged and is published at a figure so moderate as to place it within the reach of everybody, almost, throughout the Church. I regard it as a most excellent publication and hope to see it grow and increase, for certainly it is the best thing that has ever been published for the servants of God in the last dispensation. I commend it to the Saints throughout the world, and to all lovers of truth of every sect and nation. May God bless and sanctify it to the dissemination of light and the guiding of many souls into eternal life.

CHARLES W. PENROSE.

In my opinion the Elders' Journal is one of the best magazines in the Church, and that means one of the best publications anywhere. On this statement I risk the reputation of my judgment. Read it and be convinced.

GEORGE F. RICHARDS.

As a publication, the Elders' Journal is in the front rank of periodicals issued in the interest of the Church; and as a repository of truth its moral and spiritual value is incalculable. I always read it with pleasure and profit, and it has my unqualified endorsement. It is a most valuable and interesting publication, and to lift the already high standard of its efficiency as a disseminator of Gospel light.

ORSON F. WHITNEY.

For several months past I have read the Elders' Journal and have found each issue not only interesting, but highly instructive. The Journal deals not only with various phases of missionary life, but with general topics of vital interest to all, and I think the Elders' Journal should be in every home, to be read for present development and kept for future reference.

DAVID O. M'KAY.

The Patriarch.

As for the Elders' Journal I can say I hold it as a paper of extraordinary value. It is a source of priceless information, not only to our people, but also to the world, and without question it will aid many preachers which exist against us by those who are not of the best. I think the Elders' Journal should be in every home, and especially to the Saints; and I pray the Father's blessings upon it that its great mission may be attended with multiplied success.

JOHN SMITH, Patriarch.

The Presiding Bishopric.

The Elders' Journal is a welcome visitor to our office. God bless its mission. We sincerely trust under your fostering care it may continue to grow in influence and that it may ever be a valuable educating factor among the Latter-day Saints and others.

WILLIAM B. PRESTON,
JOHN G. ELLISON,
ORIN P. MILLER.

The First Seven Presidents of Seventies.

I stamp my approval on your noble enterprise, the Elders' Journal. I will cheerfully do what I can to aid you in the very laudable undertaking.

SEYMOUR B. YOUNG.

So you propose to make of the Elders' Journal a "Scrap Book of Mormon Literature." It is your purpose to save from the oblivion of out-of-print volumes the gem thoughts of the leading minds that lived and thought their day's work in the formative period of the Church's existence. What have I to say respecting such an enterprise? What can any man say who believes the great Latter-day work to be of divine origin, except to wish you God-speed and success in your efforts? Unless he adds an expressed hope that you and your assistants in the work will overlook no seed truth in our literature, so that as a Scrap Book the Elders' Journal may be complete. By the way, it strikes me that there is something peculiarly fitting in the Elders' Journal publishing buried gems of thought from our out-of-print books and periodicals. As a title the Journal itself is a resurrection, rescued by your thought from the oblivion into which it had fallen. Why indeed should it not become the depository of the gem thoughts you propose to resurrect. I wish you success.

B. H. ROBERTS.

My heartiest congratulations to the Elders' Journal for its most excellent work in the Master's cause.

GEORGE REYNOLDS.

I am a subscriber and reader of the Journal. It affords me a great deal of pleasure to counsel and advise the Elders and Saints to contribute for the support of this most excellent paper. Every subscriber who aids in the support of the Journal is continuously spreading the truth among the children of men and performing missionary labor.

J. G. KIMBALL.

Success to the mission of the Elders' Journal in its desire to spread the truths of the Gospel at home and abroad.

RULON S. WELLS.

The republication of many of the precious articles which appeared in the early days of the Church will certainly bring gladness to the hearts of all lovers of Mormon literature, and should insure a heavy roll of subscribers to the Journal. The gems of thought illustrative of God's wonderful work, from the pens of prominent Elders, both past and present, published in convenient form for binding and preservation, will, I am sure, be warmly welcomed by Latter-day Saints everywhere. I wish you success in the splendid work you have undertaken.

JOSEPH W. M'CURRIN.

The Journal in addition to being almost a necessity to the Elders of your mission, and of intense interest to the thousands of converts scattered through the South, is of incalculable value to the Saints in general. The publication of gems of thought, history and doctrine, now almost buried in the oblivion of the past, makes your paper of special worth to all who are not fortunate enough to have a large library of the early publications of the Church.

CHARLES H. HART.

The Presidents of Missions.

In all my reading, extending over a period of fifty years, I do not remember a periodical of greater value to the missionary Elder than your excellent little Journal, nor one better calculated to inspire faith and purity of life in the hearts of the Latter-day Saints nor plain a desire in the hearts of investigators to receive the ordinances of the Gospel. This little Journal deserves almost first place in all our mission fields, and should be in the homes of the scattered Saints throughout the United States. We expect at once to commence a canvass through the Northwestern States Mission for subscribers to its columns. We always had its coming at headquarters with delight.

SEPH PRATT,
President Northwestern States Mission.

Now that your missionary magazine has commenced its circulation among our Elders we desire to express our appreciation of this messenger of truth. It has awakened in my mind a number of ideas which I hope will grow, blossom and bear fruit. We hail with delight the spirit of our early Church literature as we see it assuming definite shape under the old and familiar name, the "Elders' Journal."

JOHN G. M'QUARRIE,
President of the Eastern States Mission.

We have certainly appreciated your efforts in the publication of the Elders' Journal. It has been a means of gathering the truths before the people, and we have gained strength for our labors by reading its pages. I wish every member of the Church could be persuaded to read the Journal and every home be a subscriber. You would then be able to enlarge the paper and each subscriber would be assisting to preach the Gospel.

J. A. M'RAE,
President of the Colorado Mission.

For three years past I have watched the growth and development of the Elders' Journal with ever increasing interest and respect, until I feel that it has become an essential factor in the missionary work, not only for the Southern States, but for the entire system. In consonance with this view I have requested all the Elders of this Mission to subscribe for it.

JOSEPH E. ROBINSON,
President of the California Mission.

The object of the Elders' Journal is a very worthy one and every copy will be appreciated by all lovers of the great truths that have been revealed in these latter days and told so well by those great missionaries and preachers in the early days of the Church. So few of our present day Elders are blessed with these early day books that a collection of the best that has been produced in their time will be invaluable to our present and future day Elders. We consider the collection and classification as contemplated and as now in progress by the Elders' Journal more valuable than the noted Russian battleship, and believe that every Elder who is now preaching the Gospel and all who expect to defend the faith and the Prophets and Apostles of God, will find the Elders' Journal a repository of the gems of Church literature of this dispensation, that will serve as those of Peter and Paul have served for two thousand years.

GERMAN E. ELLSWORTH,
President of the Northern States Mission.

I consider the Elders' Journal a splendid missionary, and wish that every member of the Church would subscribe for it, because I realize the great amount of good that can be done by it in the mission field and in the different stakes of Zion.

JOHN J. BENNION,
President of the Central States Mission.

SANDWICH ISLANDS MISSION.

All of the Elders of the Hawaiian mission are subscribers to the Elders' Journal. Many encouraging words have been sent to us at different times by President S. E. Woolley, who visits long life to our missionary paper and recommends it to all seekers after truth.

THE SOCIETY ISLANDS MISSION.

President Edward S. Hall, of the Society Islands mission, recently renewed the subscription of all the Elders laboring in that field. He added: "Every one of our Elders has been a subscriber to the Journal for the past two volumes, and they are so well pleased with it that they do not want to be without it."

BRITISH INDIA.

Elder Robert W. Currie, who presides over a little branch of 15 souls, in distant India, says the Elders' Journal is a source of great benefit to him and that he reads it with much pleasure.

THE NETHERLANDS MISSION.

Elder Le Grande Richards, secretary of the Netherlands mission, a short time ago sent us the subscription for ten Elders laboring there. He gave us the following encouraging words: "I have read with interest the announcement in the September issue of the change that is to be made in your paper. I have secured a few names for you, and hope to be able to increase that number within the near future."

THE SCANDINAVIAN MISSION.

The following gratifying word comes from President J. M. Christensen, of the Scandinavian field: "The Journal is a real and useful addition to our office here, and its contents are read with much pleasure. I think its value is especially increased now that you are publishing the sermons of some of our brethren, preached when the work was not as firmly established as it is now."
