THE DEATH OF NAPOLEON. A Sketch of the Dead Prince.

Napoleon Eugene Louis Jean Joseph Bonaparte was the full name of the young and ambitious prince whose death has been announced. He was the youngest son of Napoleon and the Empress Eugenie, he was born in the Tuileries, March 16, 1816, and was therefore in the 23d year of his age.

He was a delicate child, and had to be nursed with the utmost care until he was 10 years old. His nurse was a German-Swiss valet. Both were enjoined to speak to him always in their respective tongues, while his mother addressed him in Spanish, so that the boy grew up to be a good linguist without any effort.

At the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War he accompanied his father to Metz, and went with him to Sedan, where he was captured. He was taken to England, where he remained until a few months ago, when he determined to join the English army in the war with the Zulus. He was recommended to Lord Chelmsford, commander-in-chief of the South African forces, and shortly afterwards he was promoted to the rank of captain. On February 27th he had a last farewell to his mother, who wept and struggled to hide her emotion, and then he sailed for Zululand.
