ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

To the Presidents, Councils and Saints the various Stakes of Zion:

It is thought advisable to hold our next Annual Conference in the city of lish a portion of an address on the his-Logan, Cache County. Meetings will commence on Saturday

April 4th, 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. Very respectfully, Your Brethren JOHN TAYLOR, GEORGE Q. CANNON, of the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

AN UGLY SCARECROW.

Is a late issue of the Utah Journal at editorial article appeared under the head of "Serving Legal Process." It contains a number of deductions from the law similar to those published in the NEWS a considerable time since. They are to the effect that an officer empowered to serve a warrant of arrest may resort to force, if necessary, in order to make service. On the contrary a subpagua is not authority to use force to perform service, nor to enter a building by violent means for the purpose of reaching the person for which the paper is intended. But in case admittance is refused to any place where the witness is supposed to be concealed. the offer empowered to serve Whe supprena can, by making affidavit to the effect that the witness is secreted and to the materiality of the witness contain from the court or officer wind issued the paper an order which will authorize him to make forcible entrance into the premises.

rollowing along in this train the veit of the article broadens until it takes the shape of a ghastly scarecrow calculated, from its grim and threatening aspect to more or less shake the nervous systems of timid, sensitive and delicate women. But the character of the ferocious goblin can best be estimated by presenting its picture, drawn by the editor of our northern contemporary:

"For the purpose of answering questions that have been put to us we will state, in this connection, that a woman who is the first wife of a man cannot be compelled to testify against him: but an alleged plural wife may be com-pelled to so testify unless it be proven but she is a first or lawful and not a According to the latter part of that paragraph, all that is necessary to render it compulsory on the part of a legal wife to testify against her husband is for it to be alleged that she is a plural wife, or she must resort to the alternative of proving that she is a hawful wife. This proposition carries its erroneous character upon 1's face The rule of law in all criminal procoordings is that the burden of making proof lies with the government or complainant, and not upon the person against whom an accusation or allegation is made. If a woman refuses o tostify against an accused uerson on the ground that she is his wife, and the prosecution altere on the contrary that she is not a lawful but plural wife, instead of it being obligatory upon the person wanted for a witness to prove that she is not a plural wife, it is for those who adlege to the contrary to prove that she 1s. Any other rule would be the reverse of the general principle in criminal back to Father Adam. proceedings; that it is for the complainant to prove guilt, there being no obligation upon the defendant to provthis innocence, the law holding his condition to be the latter pending proof to the contrary. So much for that part of the Journal's scarecrow. We quote further on:

"Owe no man anything" is a scripural injunction, equally applicable in his age as when the apostle uttered it. ndebtedness is a fruitful source of vil in many ways, and nothing is more abulated to destroy friendship than a failure to meet an obligation. The lack of confidence in man toward his fellow man is almost world-wide, and rarely is it that a man can be found tolay whose
