-A new counterfeit of the $100 treasury notes has appeared within a week. On the right end of the back of the bill, the "100" in the circles are inverted thus, "001." In the genuine, the "100" in the the circles on the left end reads thus: "001;" in the counterfeit they are thus: "100." The outside circle of the "100" in the lower left corner of the genuine, touches the lower border; in the counterfeit it does not come within one-sixteenth of an inch. On the right end of the bill, under the number, in the genuine bill, are the words "New Series." In the counterfeit the word "New" is omitted.
