A KIND WORD.

A tear may attest the deep ardor of love!
And calm asking eyes may entrance,
But how oft we mortality's fickleness prove—
Affection is govern'd by chance.
There's a far deeper proof of a true honest heart
Than beauty doth ever afford,
That bids admiration and gratitude start!
Sincerity's voice—a kind word.
'Tis a balm to the soul of misfortune and grief,
And it cheers the lone heart of despair,
Its accents are laden with joy and relief
Which brighten the dark hour of care.
'Tis the victor of hatred—of envy and scorn!
How oft hath its pleading debar'd?
Resentments impulsive and wreaking return!—
Sincerity's voice—a kind word.
Deception may seek to entice with its strain,
But ah!—in his voice thou wilt find,
His words they will never the candor contain
As those from the "heart-gushing kind."
The healer of sorrow! The calmer of grief!—
Hopes cherishing minstrel ador'd!
O'er to the heart-stricken yield this relief
Sincerity's voice—a kind word.
When anger would burn for "a slash" or "a frown"
O'er-repress every pang and forgive,
To the merciful only is promised a crown
That will with eternity live.
Resentment 'twere folly and never can claim
Heavens promised and deathless reward,
Then stoop not to censure—derision or blame
But breathe unto all—a kind word.
To one—and to all let thy words be good cheer,
Perfection is found not on earth;
And often life's pathway is gloomy and drear
Respite the wild echoes of mirth;
Then meet with a smile frail, erring mankind,
'Twill stay inhumanities sword;
And ever in life esteem thou wilt find
My breathing to all—a kind word.

JOSIAH ROGERSON.

PAROWAN, Iron county, May 14, 1864.

THE LAST WILL OF JOHN C. RIVES.—The late John C. Rives, the publisher of the famous Congressional Globe in Washington, left a will which excites considerable interest, on account of containing some apparently very eccentric features. It is dated April 4th (a few days before his death). The Congressional Globe printing office, with all the appurtenances excepting bound volumes of the Globe and the stereotype plates of the work, is left to Franklin and Jefferson Rives, his second and third sons; and the rest of the estate, consisting of money, property in this city, lands in Prince George's county, Maryland, and $50,000 in Missouri State bonds, to the other five children. It is provided that the family mansion and lands (50 acres), in Prince George's county, Md., shall not be sold out of the family. Any one of the heirs may purchase the rights of others; but when it happens that a blood relation of the deceased no longer resides upon the place, then the house and land is to revert to the Government then having dominion over them. The will provides for the gradual emancipation of all slaves belonging to the estate. It ends by expressing the desire of the deceased that the remains of himself and wife be placed in marble coffins and interred in a fire-proof vault, in the Congressional Cemetery, where the stereotype plates of the Congressional Globe are also to be deposited.

—We see it stated that Brigadier-General Montgomery, of Jayhawking memory, and more recently in command of a colored regiment in Florida, has been dismissed the service.
