I was sitting in the front office when the blaze broke out. How it started is more than I can tell. I had a small bottle of gasoline in the back a small obtaine of gasonne in the back room but I am satisfied that it did not cause the blaze. The fire started so quickly that I could not tell just where it came from. The place was all affame before I could turn in an alarm. I valued my samples at $2,500 and the

AMUSEMENTS.

The continued popularity of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" is something astonishing. With last night's blizzard coming up just at theater time, there was still a crowded house when the curtain rose. While some may object to the exuberant not to say bolaterous methods of Miss Knott in the role of Mary Tudor, there is no denying the fact that the delineation pleased the audience who saw vastly

The shortest written ophilon ever handed down by the supreme court was that handed down this afternoon in the case of Elizabeth Brereton, ex-ecutrix of the estate of Richard Brere ox. ton, deceased, appellant, vs James K. The case was brought to foreclose a mortgage on certain real estate. The lower on certain real estate. The lower court found that the note for which the mortgage was given as security had been paid and rendered judgment in favor of defendants. The point was raised on appeal that the evidence did not justify the findings and decree rendered by the lower court but the su ourt holds that the evidence was sufficient and affirms the judgment. The opinion was written by Justice Straup and concurred in by Chief Justice Barteh and Justice Mc-
