A Narrow Escape—Flames Turned by Faith—Lamentable Death, etc.

ROCKVILLE, Utah,
July 25th, 1883.

Editor Deseret News:

A short time ago a young man of this place experienced a very providential escape. John H. Stout was out hunting in the mountains about 40 miles north of this place, when he was set upon by a hungry she bear. Only about 30 yards separated the belligerents, a distance which doubtless the hunter would rather have increased than diminished. But Mrs. Bruin seemed determined on a closer acquaintance and came towards him with such ferocity that young Stout saw that flight was impossible, and having an old-fashioned Ballard rifle that could not be quickly reloaded, he held his fire with remarkable coolness till the immodest female was within 10 feet, when, instead of reciprocating the proffered embrace, he sent a ball crashing through her brain, and she fell dead at the feet of her intended breakfast. The hunter had the caution to send two more bullets into her body, and also the honesty to admit that had she made a move after falling, his legs were ready to transport him to safer climes. Other boys, who were soon on the spot, followed the back track of the bear and killed three cubs.

On the 19th ult. the barn and corral of Brother James P. Terry took fire by some unaccountable means, and soon his valuable residence was on the eve of being enveloped in the flames. The wind was driving the fire towards it so strongly that the tar cozed freely from the shingle roof of a large fruit shed that stood almost adjoining the house. At this critical moment a young son of Brother Terry's came out of the house and seeing the danger raised his hands towards heaven and bewought the Lord to turn the flames eastward. Many eye-witnesses testify that the prayer was answered instantly, some of whom are slow enough to acknowledge the hand of the Lord in all things. Brother Terry's well known generosity to those hitherto similarly unfortunate doubly entitles him to the favorable consideration of his brethren, but all are thankful that the devouring element was deprived of the power to work further mischief.

The 107th birthday of the nation was celebrated here after our usual modest style, and though some of our most exemplary citizens are deprived of the sacred rights wrought out for them by the events which this day foreshadowed, yet we are not forgetful of the fact that were not our liberties strongly guarded by the divinely inspired Constitution, we would not be safe from the scenes of lawlessness perpetrated upon the fathers of young Utah when under the mobocratic governors of Missouri and Illinois, which scenes their worthy prototypes would be pleased to re-enact.

Perhaps no event in history is so strongly suggestive of the truth of that terse saying, "The oppressed of to-day may become the oppressors of to-morrow," as the brief twenty days that divides the two eventful days that are alike cherished by the unloved sons of toil who have reclaimed the barren deserts of Utah. The one commemorating the emancipation of the patriot fathers from the oppression of a tyrannical king and ministry; the other the deliverance of a down-trodden religious body from the still more galling thralldom of the mobocratic yoke of the degenerate sons of the noble fathers who freely offered their lives to establish a government whose Constitution would guarantee religious liberty to all.

However, the latter event, i.e. the 24th, was duly remembered; but the enjoyments of the day were much clouded by the sad news of the untimely death of Hyrum Smith, a promising young man, the son of our worthy Bishop. The youth had been absent some six months in Arizona, and died suddenly in Mesa City of inflammation, brought on through exposure.

In the afternoon a political meeting was held to consider the labors of the late County convention. Every nominee set forth by that body was duly sustained, and the standardbearers of the People's Party will in due time be duly elected.

The Lord has blessed us with an abundant crop of fruit, and crops generally look promising. The health of the people here is vastly better than in former years, and the welcome absence of fever and ague has greatly lessened the quota of sorrow faces once so common in this region.

The man who was mistaken for a ghost and shot at five times in Milwaukee recently, has decided not to wander around the yard nights any more in his nightgown and slippers, looking for a cool place.

The London Times pronounces the death of Carey a public misfortune. Perhaps it is, but it is one of those misfortunes which the public can survive. In fact the public seems perfectly calm and resigned—and is even suspected of enjoying it.

Recent legislation in Kentucky is thought by some likely to have a discouraging effect upon church-going. A new law fixes the legal distance between a church and the nearest saloon at a mile. The effect will be to make many men late to church, even if it does not prevent their attendance.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says that there is an old threadbare, snuff-colored, thin-kneed, spindle-shanked, pepper-and-salt, weazened, rum-drinking fossil, hidden away somewhere in Washington, who has written more Congressional speeches than all the members of the present House put together.

A Christian church now marks the battlefield in Zululand where the prince imperial was killed. The church is a Gothic structure of white sandstone, and was very recently dedicated. Ritualism marked the ceremony. The bishop was vested in white cope and mitre, two tapers glimmered on the altar, and a large brass cross glistened above the vase of flowers.

Lord Aylesford and his wife have tried hard to get rid of each other. But there is in England a Queen's Proctor, who is a valuable officer. Whenever it comes to his ears that a divorce is by arrangement between husband and wife he declares that there is collusion, and the case collapses. Also, if it is patent that both husband and wife have been leading immoral lives, he prevents either from being divorced from the other. In the Aylesford case it was notorious that man and wife were in this condition, and no divorce can be obtained.

Strength for Mind and Body.
There is more strength restoring power in a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic than in a bushel of malt or a gallon of Milk. This explains why invalids find it such a wonderful invigorant for mind and body.

It Seems to Satisfy.
A family want, and I wonder how we ever got along without Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cured me of nervous prostration, and I have used it since for all sorts of complaints in our family. Mrs. Jines, Albany.

A Sketch of the Salmon Business on the Columbia River.

In 1864 Mr. Wm. Hume started a cannery on the Sacramento River at Washington, opposite Sacramento City, for the purpose of canning salmon. Nothing of the kind had ever been before thought of on the Pacific Coast, and Mr. Hume found it difficult to find a market for his goods. He, however, found a market in Australia taking nearly all the canned salmon he packed, getting $16 a case for his goods. After doing business on the Sacramento for two years he concluded to try the Columbia River, as it was rumored its waters furnished a better quality of fish. He came to Astoria, Oregon, in the summer of 1866 and satisfied himself the Columbia River salmon was the finest in the world. He immediately built another cannery on the Columbia at Oak Point where he has done business ever since and to-day is the oldest salmon packer in America. For the first three years the process of cooking was kept a secret, but later the secret was learned by outside parties, who immediately commenced to build canneries. In 1864 there was but one salmon cannery on the Pacific Coast; to-day there are at least 100. Mr. Hume has always employed all white men in his cannery, being the only cannery who employs all white men. Mr. Hume and his nephew, J. W. Hume take extra care and precaution in packing the goods, and never allow a can of salmon to leave their factory without their personal inspection. Mr. Hume is the original Columbia River salmon packer, and his brand stands ahead in all markets. Mr. Geo. F. Brooks is sole agent for Utah Territory for this well known brand of salmon, and is ready to give his customers the best trade that can be had in this city.

Read What the Farmers of Utah Say of the Osborne No. 11 Twine Binder

SANDY, Utah, July 31st, 1883.

Messrs. D. M. Osborne & Co.,

Gentlemen:—Last year I bought a Marsh-Whitney Low Down Binder and fooled away the entire season trying to harvest my crop. This year the agent gave me their improved Binder, but like the first, it was a failure and I, together with all my neighboring farmers have become disgusted with the kind of work it does.

Knowing that the Osborne No. 11 Twine Binder was running all around me and doing good work, I went to town yesterday and purchased one. To-day it was set in motion and after thoroughly testing it in short and tall grain alike, I feel like recommending the Osborne to the farmers of Utah, as a machine that will give entire satisfaction.

J. HARDCASTLE.

Mr. Hardcastle is my neighbor, and after witnessing the working of both Binders above referred to, I heartily endorse all he has said.

JAMES C. BROWN.

WALES, Utah, August 1st, 1883.

We, the undersigned, farmers of Sanpete County, this day witnessed the cutting and binding of an Osborne No. 11 Twine Binder, and hereby certify that it did excellent work—the best we ever saw.

We would confidently recommend it to any farmer wishing a Binder and say, buy no other.

D. M. Osborne & Co., Salt Lake City,

Gentlemen:—My No. 11 Osborne Twine Binder was started to-day, and it gives me pleasure to state that it works to my entire satisfaction. Consider it the best Binder in market. Yours truly

WM. C. CLARK.

KAY'S CREEK, Utah, July 7th, 1883.

We, the undersigned, farmers of Kaysville, Davis County, Utah, present at an exhibition of the Osborne No. 11 Twine Binder, on the farm of Thomas Sandall, Jr., Esq., of this place, do hereby certify that the machine exceeded our expectations in every respect, binding a good sized bundle, trim and tight; we consider it a grain and labor-saving machine, in short it works to perfection and we recommend it to our farmer friends.

Signed,
JAMES KING, HENRY THORNLEY, T. H. HODSON,
THOMAS SANDALL, JR., MARK E. BEAZER, HYRUM LAYTON, WILLIAM SANDALL, JOHN WATSON, DAVID HIGGS.

PAYSON, Utah, July 2nd, 1883.

D. M. Osborne & Co., Salt Lake City,

Gentlemen:—My Osborne No. 11 was started to-day, and I wish to say that I can heartily recommend it to my farmer friends. It is light draft, easily managed, and its binding is perfectly tight and uniform.

Yours truly, O. H. WARNER.

NEPHI, Utah, July 18th, 1883.

D. M. Osborne & Co., Salt Lake City,

Gentlemen:—To-day my Binder was started, and its perfect work pleases us very much. We consider the Osborne the only machine that is a perfect success in all conditions of grain. We can recommend it as the "Boss" Binder.

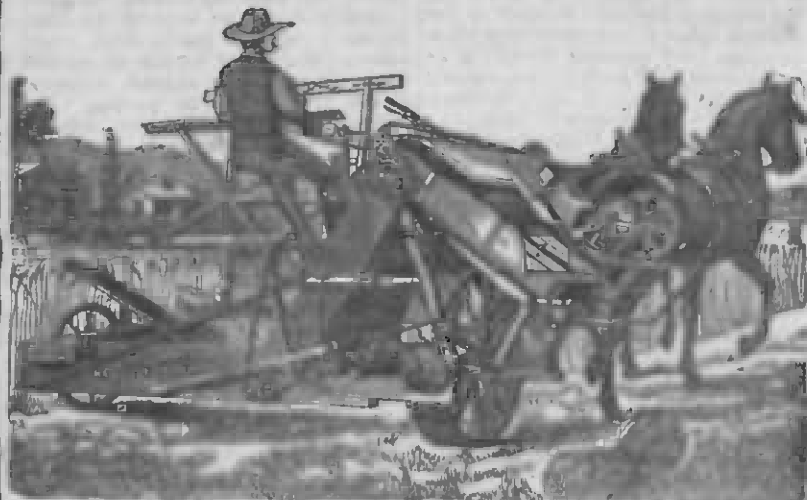

Yours truly,
JOHN KIENKE, HYRUM KIENKE
