

UTAH COLONY IN BERLIN.

How the American Students Work, Study and Play—
The Cost of Living and Studying—Wonderful German Teachers—An American Group Embarrassed.

Special Correspondence.

Berlin, March 27.—Our colony of students all seem to be working hard. It is in the air of Berlin! When one gets here he feels the spirit of it. The musical offerings of the kaiser stadt are so rich, and one hears and sees so many examples of what can be done by talent, properly trained, that he is immediately encouraged to buckle on his armor and go into the battle and work.

Operas and concerts are given every night, Sunday included, and the latter begins at almost any hour of the day; sometimes 11 a. m., or 12 o'clock noon, or 1 or 2 or 3 or 4 or 7:30 or 9 p. m. In fact the convenience of the public doesn't seem to be studied at all, and if one cannot conveniently attend he must do so incognito and stay away. It's immaterial to the artists.

Mr. H. S. Boddard has worked industriously since his arrival in Berlin, and has added several Wagnerian operas, some German Lieder and a couple of oratorios to his already extensive repertoire. He has been a regular attendant at the opera, and is a great lover of the Wagner music dramas.

Arvilla Clark is to sing the part of "Amneris" in Verdi's "Aida" at the performance shortly to be given by the Stern's conservatory at the theater des Westens. Her role is a wonderful woman! Almost in her 20th year, her voice is as fresh and her looks as elastic as a young girl's. Her illustrations are excellent, and her production is the best I have ever seen and I should advise voice teachers who desire to illustrate the physical workings of the vocal apparatus, to get it. Make sure, however, that the illustrations are the same as in the German edition.

Alexander Heinemann is another of the best artists to be heard in Germany, and is besides, a very successful teacher. I can advise any student coming here, to study with Herr Heinemann, if he can, for owing to his many public engagements, he takes only a few articles that had been hurriedly put there, and hand them very kindly to the ladies.

Let us draw the curtain.

HUGH DOUGALL

A Great Success.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure." Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price $6, and $1.00. Guaranteed by Z. C. M. I. Drug Store. Trial bottles free.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE SWEDISH FAMINE FUND

The Swedish famine fund is now completed and shows a total collected of $2,673.55, which represents $937 kronor in Swedish coin. The amount has been forwarded by Treasurer Carlson, and will doubtless do much to alleviate the condition of the sufferers from famine in both Sweden and Finland, to which sections it will be applied. Contributions not heretofore noted are as follows:

Acknowledged April 2, 1903, $2,100.70

Given by H. H. Hinman and

A. Gilbert at Winter Quartets,

Carbon county, as per list, $1.50

Collected by Theodore Way from

Preston, First ward, as per list,

Farm Relief Society, Clover ward,

and others, as per list, $2.35

Collected by L. P. Eikenman, Toc-

kle, as per list, $1.60

Collected by P. J. Sandberg, Western, Idaho, as per list, $2.40

Collected by Andreas Peterson

from Carbon county, as per list,

$1.00 and $0.15.

Collected by Anders A. Carlson

from Pratt ward, Teton Stake,

Wyoming, as per list, $5.15

Collected by John G. Smith

from Salt Lake City, $1.50

Collected by Fred W. Merrill

Maria Johnson, Salt Lake City, $2.17

Collected by Mrs. Lettie Edlefsen

Salt Lake City, $2.00

Collected by C. C. Jones

O. L. Packer, $1.00

John Gundersen, $1.00

John N. Nelson, $1.00

John Johnson, $1.00

Edward H. Anderson, Salt Lake

City, $1.00

J. D. Cummings, Wilford ward,

Granite stakes, $1.00

Charlotte Larson, Wilford ward,

Granite stakes, $1.00

George Lundberg, Wilford ward,

Granite stakes, $1.00

Petrea A. Andersen, Wilford ward,

Granite stakes, $1.00

Collected by P. Landwall Fairview, as per list, $12.67.55

The cost of music lessons varies, as in all large cities, the best teachers charging from $2.50 to $7.50 per lesson, usually of an hour. Fairly good instruction piano, violin, etc.,

etc., costs about $1.00 per lesson.

One can study in the best conservatory, the Stern's, for 600 marks per year, or about $145 for 10 months' instruction, and take either piano, violin,

etc., or voice as principal study, with several others which go with that particular course. For instance in the piano department one gets two 30-minute lessons per week in piano, and also gets instruction in harmony, sight reading, etc. In the "open course" one gets the same number of lessons, two per week in singing, and a course including pantomime mimicry, fencing, sight-

reading, physiology of the voice, stage practise and the study of ensemble

singing of opera.

I would advise studying singing privately and taking the other work, called the "dramatic course," in the conservatory. This costs about one-third as much as the "opera course"

and is as safe except that the pupils no singing.

The entire course is in German, all the operas being sung in that language.

Limited number of pupils. Arvilia Clark, Lila Joest and this writer are among his American pupils, and after nearly two years' study we feel safe in saying that he is an excellent teacher. A short time ago a jolly party of Americans (mostly from Salt Lake and vicinity) went from Berlin to Hamburg. The party consisted of two young ladies and four young gents, and as they sat chatting, preparatory to the train's departure, the conductor very politely told them they might have a chance to themselves if they would step back to the rear coach. They immediately began hurrying out, and one very gallant young chap reached for a telescope belonging to the ladies. Unfortunately it had been opened and not strapped again and a mass of ladies-wearing apparel came tumbling down into the aisle amid peals of laughter from the German occupants and spectators.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms and Richard Strauss. Many magnificent singers are constantly to be heard here, as for instance Klemm, the tenor, and Kneipper the basso, of the Royal opera.

Lille Lehmann also appears often both in opera and concert.

The German language is not the language of song. That is one thing which puzzles students singing here. But the music of the outside world, by the fact that the German musical literature, both instrumental and vocal, is the richest in the world. No thorough teacher or singer is perfectly equipped without some knowledge of the songs of Schubert