HAY CROP DAMAGED BY RAIN.

Heavy Yield of Tomatoes—Ideal Growing Season.

Ogden, Oct. 18.—A very unexpected thunder and rain storm visited Ogden yesterday afternoon, wetting many who chanced to be out on the streets and driving. The storm also did considerable damage to the last cutting of hay. Many of the farmers took advantage of the beautiful warm weather of the past week to mow their hay. This time of the year with the heavy dews, it is always hard to get the hay well dried, and the storm of yesterday means a loss of many tons of third cutting lucern hay.

The beautiful warm days have been a boon to the tomato growers, as instead of tons of green tomatoes being left on the vines, as is usually the case, there will remain but very few when the frost commences. In speaking with one farmer of Riverdale, who raises many tomatoes every year, he said that the past summer has been one of the most ideal he ever remembers. Usually he gets about 35 tons from four acres, but this year he expects to almost double that amount, for which he received $10 per ton.

The canning factories are having no end of trouble this week, in securing sufficient labor to put up the crop. Older years they have employed many boys and girls to get out the crop before school started, but the weather remaining so good this year, the output is going to be enormous, some of the canneries are paying as high as $3 and $3.50 per day for young men and women to get the crop canned. At some of the factories there has been a shortage of cans, which has delayed the work of the factories very much.

Some time ago Daley was up on the charge of stealing hats, clothing, etc., from the railroad company, but was released then also on account of there being not enough evidence to convict him.

An automobile belonging to David C. Eccles was practically burned last evening. A party of boys went out hunting in the car, and the gasoline caught fire, exploding and setting fire to the machine.

The apple crop, that which was not killed by the spring frost, is very choice, and orchards that were not located in the frost belt are breaking down with the most excellent quality of fruit.

LAYTON.

CARNIVAL ATTRACTIONS.

Hon. John P. Meakin Gives Entertaining Lecture—Opera Co. Tonight.

Special Correspondence.

Layton, Davis Co., Oct. 16.—The people of Layton were very royally entertained at the carnival by the Hon. John P. Meakin. The large tent was well filled with people from Layton and surrounding sections. The lecture entertained in his usual happy manner moving his large and appreciative audience alternately from mirth to tears by his narratives of humor and pathos.

The carnival company was most fortunate in securing the services of such a versatile entertainer, to add to the success of the already popular carnival.

The carnival will continue for two nights. The beautiful Opera company will present the charming operetta "The Tyrolean Queen" tonight. Tomorrow night will be the closing event, which will consist of various kinds of entertainments.

GET A SMALL FARM.

The insatiable greed of the American people leads them to endeavor to accomplish many times more than their ability or strength will justify. This is more frequently seen among western farmers, says Ranch and Range. Many men who could do well on a 10, 20 or even 40 acre tract, will not be content until they are spreading their limited ability and strength over a 160-acre tract with the result that they either make a failure or only a partial success, whereas on a small tract they would have done well.

Instances like the following are common and as suggested by an exchange, could be told by the page:

"One old sow produced 2200 worth of pigs in a year. A man with 1,500 hogs made $2,000 clear last year.

"Two men in Freewater, one day last week, says the Pocatello Tribune, picked over 100 worth of strawberries each from two acres of ground. This was one day's work and strawberries ripen every day while the season lasts. Hood river strawberry growers expect to sell 15,000 crates, at from $2 to $3 per crate. Many orchards yield from $100 an acre a year up, occasionally one as high as $500 to $600 an acre. A garden of vegetables carefully cultivated anywhere around Portland will yield from $100 to $200 an acre clear of expenses. On good alfalfa land from four to seven tons an acre can be raised worth $7 to $12 per ton, or more if fed to stock, besides affording months of good pasturage.

"These instances might be indefinitely extended. What's the matter with people, that they don't get small tracts of land, cultivate them right, and get rich—or at least become comfortably well off? From 20 acres of right land, rightly used, a man in ten years can make enough to ride up to the bank in his own automobile to make his day.

His. A box of strawberries costs 25 cents. A good chicken costs from $1 to $1.50. A cow in good state costs $100 to $150. It takes from $5 to $10 apiece to buy cows. A good span of mules sold the other day for $100.

"Get a little farm and then nurse it, love it, tend it carefully, get all the good out of it without abusing it; and be one of the most independent men on earth."

His Way Home.

A nervous man on his lonely homeward way heard the sobbing of a woman behind him, and the sobs of a child-up men and women came through his brain. The man he walked the more the man behind increased his speed, and with a gasp he turned and one took the most tremendous and devoted course he could devise, still his tracker followed. At last he turned into a churchyard.

"If he follows me here," he decided, "where can he be so dumb about his intentions?"

"The man behind did follow, and, quivering with fear and rage, the nervous man turned and confronted him. "What do you want?" he demanded. "Why are you following me?"

"Do you always go home like this?" asked the stranger, "or are you giving yourself a treat tonight? I am going up to Mr. Brown's, and the porter at the station told me to follow you, as you lived next door. Excuse my asking, but are you going home at all tonight?"—London Opinion.
