LOCAL NEWS.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY, JAN. 15.

Fall and Fracture.—On Sunday morning a little girl named Rogers, aged about seven years, fell from a tree and dislocated her elbow. The accident occurred on the First Ward hill. The little patient was taken to the Deseret Hospital where she is doing well.

Coal Shipments.—The shipment of coal from the Pugsley mine, Pleasant Valley, commenced this morning. About fifty tons per day will be sent from there this week, and perhaps double that amount per day next week. This mine is the property of the Utah Central Company, and has been worked since the burning and closing up of the other.

Badly Gored.—Jens Peterson, while driving cattle in Castle Valley, Emery County, one day last week, was badly gored by one of the animals in the herd, and had to be brought to this city and placed in the Deseret Hospital. One of his shoulder joints was dislocated and fractured, and his head was badly injured. Mr. Jensen is a man over 60 years of age. He was progressing favorably at last accounts.

Case of Forgery.—Charles Everts of Beaver, was arrested by Sheriff Hutchins, on Wednesday last, charged with forgery in endorsing the name of P. T. Farnsworth on two separate notes said to have been given by Jos. Huntington, amounting to $51.25. He was examined before Justice Coombs on Thursday, at 11 a.m., admitted the forgery and was held under $200 to answer to the grand jury.

The Cause and Loss.—The fire at the Germania, mentioned in last evening's issue, had its origin in the gas furnace, and from there spread to the woodwork of the cylinders which are supplied with gas. From here the flames reached the roof and burned a portion of it and the ventilator. Some lead in the corroding process was also damaged. The loss will reach about $3,000.

A Coal Mine Cave.—An accident occurred on Wednesday, at the Pleasant Valley Coal mine, in which a miner named George W. Reese, a man about 60 years of age, had two of his ribs fractured and sustained other internal injuries. The accident referred to was the falling of three tons of coal from above. The injured man was brought to this city for treatment and is now at the Deseret Hospital.

Runaway.—A terrific runaway took place last evening on A Street, in the 18th Ward, and continued on South Temple Street, several blocks east of this office. A furious team attached to a heavy wagon descended the steep hill between Mr. Thomas Jennings' and Toronto's, and after leaping the embankment at the foot of the hill, were careering madly onward in a bee line for the Stringham house, when the wagon hit a tree and was swung round to the west and the horses went rushing along the sidewalk in that direction.

After tearing out patches of the picket fence as far as the Camp house, the animals were brought to a standstill, the wagon having caught in the fence and arrested their further flight. The tongue of the vehicle was splintered to pieces. The horses did not appear to be injured. No one was in the wagon, but the owner of the team came up afterwards. His name was not ascertained.

Hector Out-Hectored.—The Logan Journal says that Charles, the adopted son of Samuel Holt, of Millville, the lad who had his arm dragged out of the socket while leading a horse with its rope wound around his arm, is doing as well as Dr. Ormsby, his medical attendant, anticipated. Further particulars relating to the accident are as follows:

The youth was leading the horse with a short rope wound around his arm. The horse got frightened and dragged him around a five-acre lot at full speed. His description of how he was dragged over frozen ground, across ditches and over a two foot fence, the unshod feet of the animal striking at momentary intervals his head and breast, is a thrilling narrative that makes the listener shudder while wondering how he could possibly have escaped so well. The horse was eventually cornered and stopped by Mr. Holt, the rope cut and the sufferer released.

That boy could now read Homer's Iliad with a relish. The book descriptive of the death of Hector, and his subsequent dragging around the walls of Troy by the war-like brute Achilles, would have a realistic effect upon his mind if nothing else would.

The Burning Coal Mine.—A letter from Superintendent W. G. Sharp, at Scofield, Pleasant Valley, to his father Bishop John Sharp, in this city, states that the burning Utah Central mine was opened at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, pursuant to the anxious request of Mrs. McLean, wife of one of the men who was buried up, and the desire of the mine owners to ascertain the extent of damages and present state of the mine.

The letter says that after opening the air shaft considerable steam and gas came out, and after measuring the depth, it was concluded that the shaft was not closed. This was found to be the case when the prospect tunnel was opened, as a current of air went in and an increased amount of gas and steam came out of the shaft.

They followed the fresh air in as far as the coal, where fire was found on the floor of the tunnel. Only the slack and what had fallen from the roof and sides was burning. The walls were standing in good shape and there was good connection with the air shaft. Efforts were made to put out the fire with water from a pool in the mine, but after working at it for two hours, the water gave out and the idea was abandoned. At 1 o'clock p.m. everything was closed up again.

The bodies could not be recovered. Mrs. McLean was still feeling very badly, but was sitting up and in better health at the time of writing.

Suspected Crookedness.—Last evening's News stated that U. S. Postal Inspector, Thomas R. Bannaman, returned from Beaver on Sunday. The cause of his visit is explained by the latest issue of the Record, which says that ugly rumors had been rife there for several days concerning an alleged delinquency in the money order accounts of Mr. J. S. McMillan, the Beaver Postmaster. Inspector Bannaman arrived there last Wednesday evening, and upon going through the accounts, transferred the post-office for the time being, into the charge of Mr. C. C. Woodhouse.

Mr. McMillan left town over five weeks ago with a band of 100 horses, his destination being in the vicinity of Durango, Colorado, where he expected to sell the horses, and then return home. As, however, full five weeks had elapsed without any tidings being heard from him, his official bondsmen began to think that he had absconded and demanded an investigation into the accounts.

What the results of Mr. Bannaman's investigation really are, cannot be made known until other corresponding money-order offices are heard from. Mrs. McMillan asserts that there is some unexplained error and that although the delay in hearing from her husband is unaccountable, yet as soon as he is apprised of the nature of the charges, he will hasten back and straighten everything right up, satisfactorily to everybody.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY, JAN. 16.

Burned to Death.—By the accidental upsetting of a kerosene lamp, on Sunday last, a little girl in the Nineteenth Ward named Wahlquist was so badly burned that she died on Monday at midnight. The funeral took place to-day at 1 p.m. at the residence of the father, A. Wahlquist.

Overcoat Stolen.—About noon to-day a man drove his team into a public yard in the city and left in his wagon a long black overcoat. When he returned it had been stolen. The police were informed and are now on the look-out for the thief. The coat had a black velvet collar, and a pair of buckskin gloves in the pockets.

An Omission.—In noticing the members of the Legislature representing Weber and Box Elder in the House, their member for the Council, F. S. Richards, Esq., being now in Washington, the name of Hon. D. H. Peery was inadvertently omitted. He has had considerable experience in the lower House and will, as before, ably sustain the interests of his county as well as the general interests of the people of the Territory in the body to which he has been elected.

Leap Year Benefit Ball.—The Leap Year party given at the 15th Ward Mo-

sic Hall by the young ladies of that Ward, on the evening of the 10th inst., for the benefit of a deserving young lady, who has been very ill for some weeks, in St. Mary's Hospital, was quite an enjoyable affair. Sufficient funds were raised to cover all her expenses. Nothing happened to mar the pleasure of any who participated, except that one or two ladies failed to secure the partners of their heart's choice.

Delivering Lectures.—Elder B. H. Roberts, of Centerville, home on a brief visit from his field of labor—the Southern States Mission—has lately been delivering a couple of very interesting lectures in the different Wards of Davis Stake. One is entitled "The Divine Mission of Joseph Smith," and the other, "The Improvement of the Youth of Israel." Wherever he appears on the platform he is greeted by large and appreciative audiences. Bro. Roberts is making good use of his time.

Progress of the Young.—By invitation of Bishop Chester Call, Elder John Nicholson delivered an address in the East Bountiful Tabernacle last night. The drift of the discourse was in the nature of a lucid explanation of simple methods by means of which the young people can become familiar with the doctrines of the Gospel and at the same time acquire the power to express their views regarding them to others. The audience was large, the hall being well filled. It is intended to organize classes shortly under the system formulated and explained by Brother Nicholson.

Further Particulars.—The News mentioned night before last that a male passenger on the Central Pacific Railway died on the train Monday morning just as it rolled into Ogden. It was said then that it was supposed alcohol had something to do with his taking off, and that an inquest was being held over the body. The Herald of that city states that the man died a little this side of Corinne.

Ever since leaving San Francisco he had abstained from eating, but drank heavily all the way. His name was Samuel Meyer, and his age about 40 years. He had a second class ticket, was slimly built and poorly dressed. The coroner's verdict was death from delirium tremens.

Horse Thieves Caught.—Sheriff Rheinhardt of Beaverhead County, Montana, and Sheriff Rickard, of Humboldt County, Nevada, arrived in Ogden from the north on Monday afternoon and left for the West next morning, having in charge Kellogg, Bowdin and Ryan, three horse-thieves recently captured on the Yellowstone. Woods, a "pal" of the precious trio now in custody, is still at large. They have a long nefarious history, and have escaped once since first taken. Woods being the only one who was not recaptured. Sheriff Rheinhardt goes along to assist Rickard with his charge, and prevent further attempts of the "birds" to fly away.

The Iron Interest.—Bishop Thos. Taylor returned on Monday from a five weeks' visit to Iron City, Iron County. We learn from him that the works of the Iron Manufacturing Company of Utah are progressing. The building of the blast furnace has been suspended for the season, but other departments are being proceeded with. A large force of men are taking up the railroad that Brother Taylor purchased for the company in Nevada, ready for transportation to Utah. It will be laid between the coal and iron deposits and the furnace as soon as practicable. There are over 20 miles of rails, two locomotives, 25 cars, turntables, round-house, weigh-scales, tanks, section houses, tools and other appurtenances. Bishop Taylor thinks he has been exceedingly fortunate in securing such useful property for the ironworks, being exactly what was needed. It will place the ores and fuel cheaply at the furnace and enable the company to make iron at as low figures as it can be manufactured in any part of the United States.

Utah Artists.—The Busy Bee, the second number of which was reached us, contains the following list of artists, natives or residents of this Territory:

G. M. Ottinger, 20th Ward, Salt Lake City, historical and landscape.

D. Weggeand, portrait and landscape—Salt Lake City.

W. Arncliffe, Salt Lake City, figures and cartoons in black.

Alfred Lambornne, Salt Lake City, landscape and scenic.

John Tullidge, opposite Walker House, Salt Lake City, landscape and ornamental painting.

Lorus Pratt, opposite parent Co-op., Salt Lake City, portraits in oil.

John Haffen, Payson, landscape and portrait in oil and pastel.

Wm. C. Morris, Salt Lake City, ornamental, decorative and fresco painting.

Miss Kate Wells, photograph color-

Mr. Beard, Coalville, landscape.
Mr. Billing, 12th Ward, landscape (private).

Law and Architecture.—Last Monday evening a course of lectures on law, its elements, nature, sources and application, was commenced at the Deseret University, supplementing the course in civil government and political economy. The lectures are intended to be preliminary to a fuller course of study on the same subject in the future, and to lead finally to the establishment, in connection with the University, of a complete Law Department.

Mr. J. L. Rawlins, attorney, is the gentleman engaged to deliver the lectures, which will be given on each Monday night during the rest of the academic year. Mr. Rawlins, besides being an able lawyer, is an experienced school teacher and lecturer, in fact, just the man for this purpose.

A practical course in architecture has also been inaugurated, under the tuition of Mr. D. C. Young. The class commenced at 12.45 p.m. to-day, and will hold its sessions on Wednesdays and Fridays. A brief course of elementary instruction is all that is contemplated, at present, by the institution. At first, the history of architecture will be reviewed, and the characteristics of its different orders learned. Then, the general and most practical principles of construction will be taught, and some knowledge given of the relative values of building materials, together with their economic uses in reference to strength, durability, lightness and beauty of form.

Proper consideration will also be given to the subjects of ventilation, acoustics, sanitation, heating, and decoration, as important features in the structure of all public buildings. Building processes and the elements of composition and design will also receive a share of attention. The object of the course, at present, is not to make architects, but to awaken a spirit of investigation that shall tend to the improvement of taste, and lead to a higher appreciation of the art as an economic study.

FROM THURSDAY'S DAILY, JAN. 17.

The Wrong Hospital.—In an item last evening it was stated that the young lady for whom a benefit leap year ball was given in the 15th Ward Music Hall, had been very ill, for some weeks, at St. Mary's Hospital. The item was correct with the exception of the name of the institution. It should have been the Deseret Hospital.

Runaway.—A runaway team on Main Street this afternoon, collided with William Cooper's buggy in front of the Post Office, throwing Mr. Cooper and his wife out, and bruising them badly, besides breaking the wheel of the buggy. No bones were broken. A man who attempted to stop the runaway, was thrown down and the wagon passed over him, but he luckily escaped serious injury.

The Wrong Man.—A man named E. Taylor was arrested last evening by officers Thomas and Holdaway, at the Clift House, on suspicion of being the Taylor who escaped from the Penitentiary, in company with one Davis some time ago. The guard at the Penitentiary was notified and came down this morning to take a look at the suspected. It proved to be a mistake, this Taylor not being the one who broke jail, and he was accordingly set at liberty.

Thief Captured.—A man named George Smith was arrested by officers Sharp and Hilton this morning, as answering the description of the individual who yesterday sold at a second-hand store in this city the black overcoat mentioned in last night's News, as having been stolen from a wagon. Smith claims to have bought the coat for 75 cents, previous to selling it. An owner is now wanted for the coat, the police are pretty sure they have their hands on the thief.

Railway Aid Society.—The general meeting, for election of officers, of the Utah Central Railway Employees' Mutual Aid Society, will be held on Saturday next at 7 p.m. in the Fourteenth Ward meeting house. The society has had a prosperous year, having had a net income of about $1,400 and paid out for sickness in the neighborhood of $1,300. One thousand dollars surplus will be returned to the members, keeping back a reserve of $2,000, the custom in case of emergencies.

Death at Alpine.—Elsewhere will be found a notice of the death of Sister Sarah Ann McDaniel, wife of John R. McDaniel of Alpine, Utah County. A few weeks previous to her death she met with a fall which fractured her thigh, and in a short time she was taken with typhoid pneumonia which resulted in her death.

During her sickness her husband was away on a visit to Arizona. Being warned that something was wrong at home, he took the express train and arrived there the day before she was buried. She leaves her husband and three children, and was nearly 37 years of age.

Hung Himself.—This morning at half past 10 o'clock, an aged man named Thomas Morris, a resident of Farmers' Ward, was found hanging by a rope on his premises. He undoubtedly committed suicide, though full particulars have not yet reached us in relation to the matter. He was a native of Wales, a member of the Mormon Battalion, and was aged 85 years. He had been feeble all winter, but we have not heard as to whether his mind was affected. Many of the inhabitants of the city will remember the old man as a vender of bottled horse radish, which he raised in his garden on the Stat Road, and put upon the local market. An inquest is being held this evening.

Later.—The old man hung himself from a beam in the store-room adjoining the house he lived in. His wife had gone up town, leaving him in the care of two elderly ladies, the younger of whom discovered him hanging, about ten minutes after he had left the room. He was suffering under mental aberration.

Book of Mormon Panorama.—Reuben Kirkham, of Logan, an artist of well known reputation in Utah, has completed a panorama of scenes from the Book of Mormon, with which he intends traveling through the Territory. He will leave Logan some time next week and in due time will no doubt exhibit in this city. His list of pictures upon canvas include the following: Lehi's Prayer; The First Camp by the Red Sea; The Angel appears to Nephi and his Brethren; Nephi breaks his Bow; The Building of the Ship; The Storm on the Ocean; Morning in the Promised Land; Evening in the Promised Land; Lehi's last Address to his Sons and Daughters; The Workshop in which Nephi makes Swords to protect his people from his Brethren; The Death of Sherem the false Teacher; Anmon and his Brethren find the City of Nephi; Finding the Records of the Jaredites; The Surprise in the Field; The Martyrdom of Abinadi the Prophet; Alma Baptizing in the Waters of Mormon; The Daughters of the Nephites stand forth to plead with the Lamanites; The Daughters of the Lamanites surprised by the Priests of Noah; The Last Battle of the People of Linnhi.

A Fireman's Fortune.

The San Francisco (Cal.) Chronicle, in an article on the Fire Department of San Francisco, gives the following from Asst. Chief Engineer Matthew Brady: "I have been subject to an aggravating pain in my chest for over four years. I resorted to various modes of treatment to obtain relief. I have had my chest terribly blistered. No physician could tell what was the matter with me. Two weeks ago I commenced using St. Jacobs Oil. It has cured me."

At certain seasons of the year nearly every person suffers to a greater or less extent from impurity of the blood, biliousness, &c., &c. This should be remedied as soon as discovered, otherwise serious results may follow. Sherman's 'Prickly Ash Bitters' will effectually remove all taint of disease and restore you to health.

TIRED OUT.

ing feeling of weariness, of exhaustion without effort, which makes life a burden to so many people, is due to the fact that the blood is poor, and the vitality consequently feeble. If you are suffering from such feelings, is just what you need, and will do you incalculable good.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

No other preparation so concentrates and combines blood-purifying, vitalizing, cleansing, and invigorating qualities as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
