PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

Something new in the operatic line was introduced a few days ago in New York by F. Thompson, the Chicago publisher. It is an opera with a popular title, "The Merry Marmots." It was produced before a party of invited guests to the number of about one hundred.

The scenes are laid in Basle, Switzerland, Castle Graven and Salt Lake City. Brigham Young is, of course, caricatured in the story, in which he, like, Elders and Presidents of various countries figure. The man in the opera has to assume various disguises, in which he endeavors to "overthrow Mormonism," but historical accuracy is totally obscured under the protection of "operatic license."

A critic in the New York World says the libretto lacks dramatic consistency and is conventional in design and development; the humor is always convincing if sometimes commonplace, and the lyrics are polished and skillful in construction; the music evidences no striking originality; both author and composer have been too prodigal; Fred Emerson Brooks, the California poet, is responsible for the words and the music is by Charles Jerome Wilson. The piece is to be produced at a Broadway theater in two months.

From the information of the opera at hand, it would seem to be on a par with that early literature Mormonism which appeared in form of novels, in which facts were entirely disregarded for fiction. Mormonism, however, evinced those fanatical tendencies that had their brief time of existence, like a swarm of noxious insects. It will not be materially hurt by a extinction of it on the stage.

The opera may be regarded as another evidence of the premonitions which Mormonism has achieved in the world, since, as a matter of fact, works of that kind come with no trivial subjects. It is a testimony to the importance of the Church, of a similar nature as that of the outcome of the summer press relative to their subjects. But for all that, people who suppose they are legitimately earning money by publicly exposing to ridicule subjects that should be sacred, will some day find out that they are mistaken.

A TELEPHONE NEWSPAPER.

Electricity is driving out the horse, and is a strong competitor of steam, in the affairs of mankind. It is also going to supplant the printing press? "Going Backward," that strange, idealistic creation of Edward Bellamy, hints at the distribution of the news of the day by telephones instead of newspapers; and that this was not extravagantly fanciful is shown by recent news from Hungary, where it is really an accomplished fact. Various electrical journals last month had accounts of the arrangements now perfected and in operation in the Hungarian capital. The story reads enough like Jules Verne's work to be interesting, besides which it is absolutely true. The practical idea of diffusing unwritten news, it appears, was originated by the Hungarians. Theodor Albert Fischer, and the Telephone Herald, has now been working successfully for over two years. The 6,000 subscribers are served by one wire, measuring 486 miles in length, and running along the windows of the subscribers. Each subscriber forms a station, and a separate line is connected with each station by means of a special apparatus, so that the main line is unaffected. If there is a break at one of the stations, the telephone are suddenly cut off and arranged to an orderly program. The start is only from 7:30 in the morning until 8:30 in the evening, during which time twenty-eight editions are spoken into the transmitter. Ten men with strong voices and clear articulations act as speakers, and take turns in shifts of two at a time. One of these speaks a series of items, but for no longer than eight or ten minutes, and every new item is introduced by the word "new." Toward evening, when news is growing scarce, the subscribers are entertained with vocal and instrumental concerts. Concerts are made with the opera house, and made here, so that, as well as concertos, given in different parts of the town, are introduced to the subscribers, who are often lulled to sleep by the strains of some favorite melody.

The conclusion draws near, so that the air at present is suffering from somewhat condition which has the effect of diminishing its usual water supply. Flammability seems to suggest, we believe, that the appearance of Foy's comet might have that effect, but as he is an amateur of a pronounced type, his predictions do not carry much weight. The cause of all is imperious enough, but it is not entirely preceding us in the problem, to make a change does not specify our, we in what the dried-up states are going to do about it.

A KANSAS City columnist created some stir in a Louisville theater one evening last week, by rising in his place when the announcement was made from the stage that a local singer would sing "After the Ball," and threatening that if she did, he would "ring the house out." When tried to court next morning he was acquitted, presumably on the ground of irresponsibility, for no one man would feel the necessity of uttering such and threat the song never fails to "stun the house out!" itself.

As the advertised day for the encounter draws near, it is noticeable that Blingers Corkell and Valentine more divide more and more time in sepulchral talk than each other. It begins to look as though they are afraid they are really going to be allowed to fight, hence their fugitive.

A SPANISH paper in Mexico threats the bombardment of New York as soon as Spain shall have conquered the Cuban rebels. But at the rate of speed with which this is being done, there is no immediate cause of alarm.

WHATEVER YOUR position, the newspapers of the country appear to be united in withholding enthusiastic expression of the plans of the proposed peace.

A choice man is he who knows enough to avail himself of every proper opportunity to keep alive.

NOTES. Mr. A. L. Armstrong, an old druggist, and a prominent citizen of this interesting town, says: "I sell all sorts of very different kinds of drugs remedies, but have never had my experience and knowledge apply to any article I have ever sold. I have a special drug store. All that we buy it is the most perfect remedy for Cough, Cold, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, they have ever been known to cure. I have a special Whirling Couch. I will relieve a Coach in no instance. Contains no opium. Sold by Z. C. M. L. Drug Store.

NOTES. This wonderful location is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Lanes to the Gales. It is the most restorative location in the world. It is the cure of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Cutaneous Diseases, Wounds, Old Sores, Burns, Boil, Ulcers, Thrush, Sore Throat and all inflammation, after all others have failed. It will cure Barbed Wire Cuts, Gunshot Wounds, and all other injuries. It has no equal. It is equally efficient for men, women, and children. Try it and you will not be without it. Price $100 each. Sold by Z. C. M. L. Drug Store.

LAKES DRYING UP. Referring again to a subject treated in these columns a week or two ago, we note that the St. Paul Pioneer Press has now completed the publication of a series of reports from the various counties of Minnesota and North and South Dakota on the disappearance of the lakes and smaller streams in those states. From the reports it appears that the water system in all the states mentioned is gradually drying up. Minnesota, at one time, had something like seven thousand bodies of water, while many of these have entirely vanished, and farms and fields occupy their former sites. Others have diminished in volume and are slowly disappearing.

The Pioneer Press finds nothing to cause a change in the belief that the chief reason for this fact is that the breaking up of the soil for farming purposes has had the effect of cutting off the natural drainage, the water being absorbed by the sandy soil. For the smaller and shallower lakes the disappearance is supposed to be permanent, while the larger lakes may probably gradually be filled up again.

Commenting on this subject, the Deseret Journal calls attention to the fact that not only heated and cold water passed from the middle of August has been experienced in this country before. The magnificent Beaufort palaces that once plow the Illinois, Missouri and Mississippi rivers are gradually becoming dry. The Great Cane Canal is worth twenty-five per cent more than any other Water Canal.

To those who come a long distance, staying at a previous stage Callen mine, W. W. Cleary, Agent.

Mr. Lutin, of Le Roy, N. Y., says he has been troubled with indigestion and biliousness for years. Taken Tea cured him, says Dr. J. C. H. C. Co., and Nielsen Judson Drug Co. 2 New Dates in Salt Lake via the Cables.

For the required Deseret News Correspondent to be held at Salt Lake Tuesday Oct. 22nd, the Union Pacific announces a special rate of one fare for all water supplies, and round trip. Tickets good for three months.

The direct line to Kansas City, St. Louis and Atlantic seaboard, is via Ogden, Salt Lake, and the Western Railway. Through steamship, car, etc., and all connections made in Union Depot in the day time. If you are going East and care for a daylight ride through the grandest scenery of the West, take the Union Pacific.

On the arrival around Eastport, Mo., you will find all facilities.

Japan's power has unequalled, unparallelled, unparallelled, at Godie Pitt drug store.

Dr. Max has returned from San Francisco and has taken elegant dental office on 8th Street, Alameda.

In many cases, the best way of Ayer's Salve is to apply it directly to the other medicines that have been tried in vain. It would be a saving of time and money if I experimented with Ayer's Salve instead of Godie Pitt drug store.

The conclusion draws near, so that we state that Ayer's Pills, taken promptly, at the first symptoms of colds and fevers, arrest further progress of these disorders and speedily restore the stomach, liver and bowels, to their normal and regular action.

There is no excuse for any man to go to society with a grizzly beard except the introduction of Buckingham's Ointment, which colors natural brown or black.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, bilious headache, dyspepsia, heartburn, torpid liver, dizziness, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, loss of appetite, yellowish skin, etc., when caused by constipation, and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.
