The name of Rath is inseparably associated with gleaning. Ruth is the name of a man who has been gleaning about $80,000 of other people's money in Washington, Penngylvania.

"A party by the name o' Johnson" who attended the great Republican Convention at Chicago as delegate from Mississippi, turns out to have been the notorious and now dead desperado, Jes b James.

The barbarous treatment of the Jews in Russia still continues. The blame must attach to the government of the Czar, for if he were to Interpose there is little doubt that they would soon cease.

The name of the deputy-marshal from whom Captain Howgate escaped is Doing. He could not have been doing much when he allowed "heroic spirit" without a parallel his prisoner to slip away, but must except among the Jesuite! acknowledge that he was most effectually done.

Religion is at a low ebb in Chicago. The three men who draw big audiences there are heretics. They are Prof. Swing, Dr. Thomas and the Rev. Agnostic Milo. Heresy and corner lots go hand in hand in Chicago as paying investments.

The experiment is being tried of growing rice in California, Mr. Moulton, of Colusa County, is determined to give it a good trial and endeavor to make the Pacific Coast independent alike of China and South Carolina for a supply of this excellent article of food.

As compared with the population, there are more marriages in France than England. The percentage is given at 88 for the former, and 86 for the latter. is entitled "Fragments of Experience," because it contains grourings of intensely interesting events in we prefer to let the book speak for itself, for it should be in the hands of the children of every family in the Church.

But the books of this series with a aoble and special mission, are not merely attractive to the young, for people of every age only need to be filled, with an interest in the work of the Lord to be delighted and instructed by the perusal of the experiences through which different people have passed, especially in their connection with the Church.
