

BREVITIES.

The £100 prize offered for the best managed farm in Oxfordshire, England, has been awarded to a woman.

Private Krause, the Prussian soldier who killed the first French soldier in the war, was himself killed at the battle of Saarbrücken.

An Illinois husband laments the loss of several bushels of apples, shaken prematurely from the tree on which his wife hanged herself.

The people of Kokomo, Indiana, know that the weather has moderated, as playing games of chance on the curbs stones has been resumed there.

A widower was recently rejected by a dame who didn't want affection that had been "warmed over."

At the Atlantic Garden, a German saloon on the Bowery, in New York, 1,422 kegs of lager were drawn one Saturday afternoon and evening.

Seventeen hyenas of the battle field—persons who rob the dead and wounded—were shot by the Germans on August 12, at Ehrenbreitstein.

Owen Skinner, from Janesville, fell down a precipice sixty feet high, into a stone quarry, near Wheeling, on Friday. It is thought he will recover, though nearly all the bones in his body were broken.

A quantity of tools in a hardware store, in East Saginaw, Mich., were recently so charged with magnetic properties, during the prevalence of a thunder storm, that they attracted nails, tacks and screws.

A young girl and a young man kneeling in a Catholic church at Liedberg, Germany, were lately struck by lightning and killed. They were five paces apart, and persons kneeling between the two were uninjured.

Louis Ayerand, recently Cuban representative at New York, captured in a schooner at Cayo Romano, Cuba, while attempting to return, was tried by court martial on Friday evening, and shot on Saturday morning.

Some Ohio parties have had the impudence to ask the Patent Office to patent a process for making "cheap butter," by adulterating it and working it over with various additions. It is not surprising that the application was rejected.

A Jerseyman was very sick and not expected to recover. His friends gathered around him, and one of them said: "John, do you feel willing to die?" John made an effort to give his views on the subject, and answered with a feeble voice: "I think—I'd rather stay—where I am—better acquainted."

It is reported that a prominent New York ship-owner has offered to bet $50,000 that he has a steamer which can beat by 26 hours any steamer which has yet crossed the Atlantic. Also, that the steamer is of American build and will be commanded by an American, and that if the bet should be accepted, it would enable him to show the world something new about American steamers.

An exchange says that the French General Faily, who was killed by a Prussian shell, and afterwards murdered by his own soldiers, and subsequently blew out his own brains, is now a prisoner at Mayence—whether dead or alive, the telegraph does not inform us.

A young Illinois gentleman, while conversing with the young lady to whom he was to be married, complained of feeling unwell, and asking to be excused for a moment politely stepped into the hall and blew his brains out.

Smith (who had forgetfully left his pocket book on the piano last night)—"Have you found anything this morning, Angelina?" Angelina—"O! yes, dear, thanks—and I've ordered a new piano stool, some lace curtains, and—such a love of a bonnet!"

We learn from the Chariton Democrat that whilst a number of ladies were visiting at Mr. Farris's, in Newbern, last Friday, and while they were sitting in the room, a double-barreled gun fell from its hangings on the wall, discharging one barrel, the contents of which entered the feet of two of the ladies, inflicting painful, though not serious wounds.

The Gazette says that a country merchant residing not thirty miles from Washington, got his pants wet during the late rain, and, on going to bed at night put them in the warm stove to dry. In the morning a fire was built in the stove, which fired the pants, and burnt a roll of over $100 in greenbacks in one of the pockets so badly that "Uncle Sam" could not identify them.

A gentleman residing at Utica declares that, on a recent occasion, while walking along the track of the New York Central Railroad, he was struck by the cow-catcher, thrown into the air, and caught in coming down by the fireman, who held him fast until the engine was stopped.

An immense siege train, the largest ever used, is being transported to the German army in front of Paris. Wonderful improvements have been made in the siege guns, and some of the engines of destruction are of such delicate construction that parts of them are being sent packed up carefully in tissue paper.

Faith and works were well illustrated by a venturesome little six-year-old boy, who ran into the forest after a team and rode home upon the load of wood. When asked by his mother if he was not frightened when the team came down a very steep hill, he said, "Yes, a little, but I asked the Lord to help me, and hung on like a bear."

The latest thing in ladies' dresses is the "Red Cloud." It is made by taking a Scotch plaid, or "pepper and salt" blanket shawl old and new, and forming it into an over dress, using the fringe for trimming the sleeves and the bottom of the skirt. It has been christened the "Red Cloud" on account of its likeness to the costume worn by the famous Indian chief of that name during his trip to the Eastern States last summer.
