The work of the professor of mining engineering was divided into two professorships created instead of the one, the professorship of mining engineering and the professorship of metallurgy and ore dressing. GRAFTERS GROW FAT IN CASSIA COUNTY

Special Correspondence.
OAKLEY, April 23.—Elders John J. Millard, Jr., Rome Adams and L. J. Robinson, Jr., have departed from here to fill missions to which they have recently been appointed. The two first named go to Europe, and the latter to the Central States.
Elders William T. Jack and William T. Harper of the stake presidency visited the Marion ward last Sunday in official capacity.
Cassia stake priesthood meeting will be held tomorrow and stake conference will convene Saturday and Sunday, May 9 and 10.
The health of the people of the Goose Creek valley is exceptionally good at present.
Cassia county seems to have been a fruitful field in the past for speculators. It is reported that, within six months, $100,000 has been secured from the people of these settlements for foreign speculations, and although a little late, a great many citizens are beginning to see the folly of such doings, and are hanging out this sign: "Grafters and confidence men need not apply here."

FAMOUS CLERMONT.

The Hudson river committee having charge of the Fulton memorial celebration for next year are anxious to reproduce a model of the famous Clermont, Fulton's first steamer. They are meeting difficulties which may prevent the building of the model for launching. Above water the arrangements are known, but the construction of the hull is a problem not easily overcome. The original plans have been lost, and duplicates of doubtful origin are in dispute.

DENOUNCE DUBOIS IN BITTER TERMS

Ada County Democrats Take Not Kindly to Latah County Method.
THE PARTY'S WORST ENEMY.
No Other Feature So Olfious as the Connection the Former Senator Would Try to Form.

Special Correspondence.
BOISE, April 23.—The Ada County Democratic club held another indignation meeting last evening, the purpose of which was to protest against the action of the central committee of Latah county in naming delegates to the Twin Falls convention without calling a county convention. It was shown that this action had been taken after the regular chairman had resigned, rather than participate in any such proceeding, and that the committee had appointed 13 delegates from that county, but the 13 delegates from that county, Dubois and his coterie were held responsible for this action, for which he was most bitterly denounced by the speakers, who expressed the unanimous sentiment of the meeting.
Those who spoke at the meeting were C. H. Libby, Frank Martin, Frank Kinyon, John F. Nugent, J. D. Flamer and Fred Flood. They all spoke along the same vein, denouncing "ism" in the party and "one-man-power politics," declaring that the party is to be an alien to the Democratic party, as he has done its salient principles into the ground in an attempt to push himself to the fore and satisfy his selfish ambition.
Atty. Martin declared that if Mormonism had done harm to the Democratic party, it had not done half the harm that Dubois had done; "and it is now up to his party," he continued, "to wrest itself from the shackles of the dictator who rules it."
It was stated that similar tactics would be attempted in this county, as in Latah, for the selection of delegates, but they gave the Dubois machine a warning word, "Do not attempt your little game here." Resolutions were also passed protesting against the action of the "machine" in Latah county and offering aid to the "standard-bearers."

POLITICS FROM THE VIEW POINT OF IDAHO EDITORS

Just at this period in the political campaign it is somewhat amusing to watch the movements of those who hold public positions by virtue of the votes of the people, or who aspire to hold such positions. What a spasm of righteousness seems to have overtaken the country all at once.

There is a Congress for example. Was that body ever busier at anything than it has been at making politics for the last few weeks? And isn't it a pity that some of the partisan energy now being expended to create new issues and put the opposition in a bad light can't be diverted into its proper channel so that some of the really important business of the country can be transacted? Senators and representatives who a few months ago seemed to have forgotten the very existence of the people now seem to be painfully conscious of the fact that their terms in office are not for life as they would wish. Posing as the champions of the individual voter, they rise in their places and solemnly declare that free government will be a thing of the past if their theories are not put into practice. Sympathy from surprising sources is being showered upon the town-trodden laboring man, while the misused colored man is being made to feel that the destiny of the nation hinges upon his wrongs.

Practical politicians all over the country are falling over themselves to assure the temperance worker that his cause is a just one and will no longer be neglected in the pressure of public affairs. In fact, every issue can not get a hearing and fair words, until the unsophisticated might be led to believe that after the next election the power to sway the Republican state convention as he wished, he sacrificed his personal ambition for the welfare of the party and gracefully stepped aside when he might have been elected United States senator. As state chairman Mr. Brady has won two hard battles in Idaho and he fairly merits the honor which the Republicans are about to confer upon him. Mr. Brady is a business man of conspicuous ability. He has been instrumental in introducing capital in Idaho and always has been one of the most consistent boosters in the state. The great American Falls power plant is one of his monuments and there are others. He will have the unanimous support of his party and his election is as certain as his nomination.—Twin Falls News.

TWO SURE WINNERS.
There is no doubt but that Hon. James H. Brady and Hon. B. L. French are the choice of the Republicans on side of the "alps." The writer is sure that it will be a difficult task to get delegates from this side who will endeavor to turn these two distinguished gentlemen down. They are too well known to be traded for men we know nothing about.—Preston News.

HOW FREMONT STANDS.
Those who attempted to couple James H. Brady's name with the scheme to run state candidates in this county to defeat Col. Hamer's opportunities, have been properly rebuked by the very many attitude of Mr. Brady. "You may quote me as saying," remarked Mr. Brady when he heard of this, "that the statement is absolutely false. I have not asked anyone from your community to come out for any state office, neither have I made the statement that it would be impossible for Mr. Hamer and myself to both be nominated from this part of the state. What I have asked for, is, that Fremont county endorse me and I surely expect Fremont to endorse Mr. Hamer also. As to the impossibility of nominating us both because we are from the south-east, that is absurd. Northern Idaho gave on an average, two years ago, about thirty-eight hundred majority to the Republican ticket, southeastern Idaho gave about eight thousand majority. We think the distribution of offices was about reversed."

All that know Mr. Brady, know that he is no hypocrite; he never tries to play two games at once. Another thing about Brady is, that he is never afraid to tell a man "where he is at." It is because of these sterling qualities, as well as his loyalty to his party and friends, that he is such a favorite all over the state, wherever he is known. His nomination in the state convention by acclamation is now a certainty, and none will be found more devoted to his cause than the Fremont county boosters.

There is no anti-Brady sentiment in grand old Fremont, and the man or men who attempt to create any will find themselves "all by their lonesome" when the band wagon rolls into camp next November to the tune of "See the Conquering Hero Comes"—Rexburg Standard.

THE MUSHROOM AND FROST.
The Southern Idaho Mail, a mushroom sheet published in the interest of Dubois and his municipal cohorts at Pocatello, has gone the road of all illegitimate business propositions. Conceived in hate and born in iniquity, it commenced a life of abuse which all decent people will be glad to reach all short-lived. It took delight in deliberately libeling good people, and men or newspapers who are guilty of such methods soon reach the end of their rope. Idaho journalism is better off without such barnacles.—Rexburg Standard.
