Deputy City Recorder J. O. Nystrom received a letter today from Recorder Raymond C. Naylor. It is dated London, October 9th, but contains no reference to the resignation rumor. He says he has "done Lannon," and describes it as being an extremely large place.

The youthful associates of John McKee, the unfortunate fifteen-year-old boy who met death on Saturday afternoon by coming in contact with a "live wire," paid a pretty compliment to the deceased today by clubbing together and ordering $10 worth of flowers for his funeral, which took place this afternoon.

A. W. Logan, auditor of the Armour & Co. packing house, is in the city with his bride. While Mr. Logan's presence in the city is necessitated, being called to testify against Harry C. Wertz, charged with embezzling funds of the Armour company while in their employ, he is making the most of it, and has succeeded in having an enjoyable time so far.

It is thought that the forty packers who are wanted in the Philippines on a salary of $20 per month and board, will be ready to leave Fort Douglas for San Francisco on the first of the month. Twenty have been enlisted. Corp. R. P. Tient of I company, Twenty-third Infantry, who will be discharged next Saturday, will re-enlist as one of the packers.

The club will hold monthly meetings, and the members will have charge of the meetings.

A meeting of the building committee of the Relief Society was held on Saturday afternoon, and discussed plans for the new building to be erected for the Relief Society, Y. L. M. T. and Primary associations. The building will be erected on the corner of East Temple street and Temple avenue, and will have a frontage of 40 feet on the former and six or eight rods back. The cost of the structure will be from twelve to fifteen thousand dollars.

Fred J. Luce, a stone cutter who lives at 815 East Seventh street, was out driving with his wife and three children on First South street last evening when his horse was frightened by a rattling piece of paper. The animal broke into a dead run and the stone cutter and his family were thrown from the vehicle. The horse was killed and the family was injured.

Best Fielding, a boy who lives on Sixth North and Third West streets, was almost drowned at the Warm Springs yesterday morning, and would have drowned had not George E. Carpenter, of the News staff, rendered timely assistance. The boy had been splashing about in the water for some time. He got beyond his depth and although his movements were more frantic still, he made no outcry, and everyone thought that he was playing. But he sank under the water three times, and when Carpenter reached him he was standing upon the bottom. If he had been left a few more moments longer he would have been gone.

DIVINE HEALER AN IMPOSTOR.

The Real Schlatter Died in Mexico After Leaving Denver.

WAS POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Entered the Sierra Madre Mountains Never to Emerge Alive—Died of Starvation.

Special Correspondence.

Colonia Juarez, Mexico, Oct. 17.—In a recent issue of the "News" I notice the statement that an "individual" staying at the Cullen hotel claims to be Schlatter, the so-called "divine healer," who created so great a sensation in Colorado a few years ago by healing many sick and afflicted by what he claimed to be a natural gift of faith.

I see, also, that he claims that it was not his body that was found in Mexico, but that of some other person, and that he himself, at that time was "fasting in the mountains."

It is a pity he did not continue to fast a few years longer, instead of trying to deceive the public by a lying imposture. The true Schlatter did die, as represented at the time, may be positively proved by indisputable evidence here in Mexico, where his remains were found and buried.

After leaving Denver and passing through New Mexico he entered Mexico and was last seen alive at the Willow Springs in Chihuahua, about 70 miles northwesterly from Colonia Juarez, from which point he entered the eastern branch of the Sierra Madre, never to emerge alive, his skeleton, still partially clothed, being found by Mr. Charles Whipple about twelve miles above here. From all appearances, his death was caused by hunger or by sudden illness, as he had made his bed and lay upon it when found, had unassisted his horse and turned him loose, taking off his picket rope and pin, that the animal might not die of starvation, should he himself pass away. Had he expected to continue his journey next day, he would naturally have picketed his horse that he might not be left alone in the wilderness, good feed being abundant everywhere.

With his remains were found his magic copper wand used by him in healing, as he waved it and applied it to the afflicted spot of his patient, this wand being nearly three feet long by nearly two inches in diameter, as measured by your correspondent, and very heavy; also his Bible, note book and other works found in his saddle pockets, in which was inscribed his name as is usual, also lines inscribed upon the fly leaves by half a dozen of his admirers in Colorado, dedicated to him and eulogizing his heavenly work as a healer. All these articles I saw, and copied some of the tributes of respect his friends had written in his books.

After his burial, his horse, saddle, books and papers, the copper rod and other things were delivered to the judge of this district as required by law, and an inventory made of them.

In making this statement of facts my only object is to alert the public from a base imposture. If the man now claiming to be Schlatter has the power of healing and can use it for the good of the afflicted who desire his services, let him do so, but do it honestly and not under a false pretense.

BURGLARY LAST NIGHT.

Thief Breaks Into the Freeze Mercantile Store and Secures About $10.

Last night a burglar got in his work at the Freeze Mercantile establishment and got away with about $10 in nickels and dimes.

Entrance was made by smashing a pane of glass in the rear door and then opening the door. When the store was opened this morning the rear door was found open. The cash till had been forced open and the contents taken. It was at first thought that some shoes had been stolen, but when an investigation was made none were missed.

SUNDAY SERMONS AT TABERNACLE.

Elder Ben E. Rich Delivers a Doctrinal Gospel Discourse.

ELDER TAYLOR'S ADDRESS.

The World, While Professing to Believe in the Dead Prophets, Rejects the Living Ones.

The services in the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by Stake President Angus M. Cannon. They were opened by the choir singing the hymn commencing "We're not ashamed to own our Lord."

Prayer was offered by Elder A. Milton Musser, after which the services were continued by the choir singing the hymn, "O, My Father."

ELDER FROM GERMANY.

Elder Archie T. Hill, recently returned from a mission to Germany, was the first speaker. When the servants of God go out into the world, said he, they have only one object, and that is to preach righteousness, and testify to the world that the same Gospel that Jesus taught has been restored to the earth. The speaker testified that God had helped him in the missionary field, particularly in learning the German language. He labored in the city of Munich for several months, but much difficulty was experienced in holding meetings. He was later sent into a new field, in the kingdom of Wurtemberg, where the Elders enjoy as much freedom as the preachers of other churches. In the section there is a branch of the Church comprising something over thirty Saints. Elder Hill concluded by bearing his testimony in the German language.

The choir then sang the anthem, "Sweet is Thy Name, O Father," being artistically given by Miss Edie Barrow.

ELDER BEN E. RICH.

President Ben E. Rich of the Southern States mission, was the next speaker. He said that he supposed it was the will of God that all of his servants should feel timid when addressing a congregation of the Saints or the people of the world. If it were not so they would not be humble; they would rely upon their own strength, and lose the inspiration that comes from the Spirit of God.

The speaker said that he had been engaged in missionary work for several years, and that he never saw the day that he doubted the Gospel as preached by the Latter-day Saints, but he had sometimes doubted the sincerity of those who opposed the Latter-day Saints. He had on several occasions had thrust into his hands a pamphlet written by ministers in Salt Lake City, setting forth reasons why the Latter-day Saints could not be accepted in Christian fellowship. The speaker said that he would state for the benefit of those that had never before attended a meeting of the Latter-day Saints that we believe in God the Father, in His Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost. That the Latter-day Saints believe in the doctrine of Christ just as it was advocated by the Master Himself, who He sent His Apostles forth into all the world, saying that they who believed and were baptized should be saved, and they who did not should be damned; and signs were to follow them that believed. The Apostles went forth calling men to repentance, and laying their hands upon them; and signs did follow them that believed. "This," said the speaker, "was the good old fashioned Gospel, before it became so much Christianized, it is now in the Nineteenth century."

Elder Rich went on to state that the world always rejected its living prophets, while it professed to believe in the dead prophets. The people rejected Noah, but when the Master came, they believed in Noah, but slew their Savior. The same condition prevails today. The Bible says, "To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word there is no light in them." "Why do the ministers go to the testimony," asked the speaker, "Simply because some of their associates have tried it, and they don't care to try it again." The speaker said that the Latter-day Saints are trying to make God into a man, and they therefore are not Christians. This is only one of the many arguments that are used. Their arguments are those of hate, and they therefore do not emanate from the Spirit of God. The humble "Mormon" Elder no leaves all that is near and dear to him, and goes out into foreign nations and preaches without purse or scrip, is doing more for Christianity, thought the speaker, than the man who will not budge without a salary.

ELDER TAYLOR'S REMARKS.

President Joseph E. Taylor was the concluding speaker. He mentioned the responsibility of the Latter-day Saints to carry the Gospel to the nations of the earth. The usefulness that is exhibited by the Elders of the Church in leaving all going abroad and consecrating themselves and their all to God cannot be found in any other part of the world. Some Elders feel concerned when they see no immediate response to their labors. They sometimes labor assiduously for months before any results are achieved. Father Noah preaches for a hundred years, and the people, warning them of an impending judgment, though there were no seeming satisfactory results from that great labor. The rains and floods finally came, and the people were lost in one common deluge. In fulfilling the words of Noah, the Latter-day Saints have a similar message for the world. They testify that the judgments of God are at hand. The Lord never spoke too late or too soon, and we must be prepared to live according to some law that has been given, but it was not given too soon.

The world seems satisfied with the conditions that exist. No matter what psychic utterances are made the people are tulling themselves to sleep, and they will some day wake up and find destruction upon them. The speaker said that he should never forget the impression that was made upon him the first time he heard a "Mormon" Elder. The Elders used the text, "Come out of her my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins and receive not of her plagues." etc.

The speaker went on to explain what true happiness is, and stated that it is a happiness felt by the Latter-day Saints even in the midst of their hardest drivings and persecutions, because they had their eyes upon the other world; they looked upon another life, and saw that they were being prepared to live according to some law that has been given, but it was not given too soon.

Royal Bread.
Everybody eats it. Nothing beats it. Look for the label and ask your grocer for it every day. Health follows.

He announced the fact, "I have seen God." He also saw Moses, Elias, Elisha, and others of the ancient Apostles and Prophets.

The speaker called attention to the prophecy upon the civil war made by Joseph Smith, which he said was not all fulfilled yet. The nations must all be at war one with another, and the only way of safety and of peace will be in Zion, and this who will not be cut down by their neighbors must flee to Zion for safety.

The choir sang the anthem, "Unfold, Ye Portals Everlasting."

Resolution was pronounced by Bishop Wm. Thorne of the Seventh ward.

Came Near Dying.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus," revealed one of our citizens, says M. E. Lortcher, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely. I went to sleep and did not awake for eight hours. On awakening a few hours ago I felt so gratified that I wrote the manufacturers of this remedy and offered them my grateful thanks and say, 'God bless you and the splendid medicine you make!'"
