A PROTECTIVE POLICY.

SOMETHING over a week ago an article appeared in the NEWS over the caption—Land and Liberty. It treated upon the tremendous effort that was being made in most of the leading localities of the Territory to work up a real estate boom. The object for which the pioneers endured untold hardships in the arduous journey to this intermountain region and rendering it fit for human habitation was pointed out. The purpose was to found a community in which the principles of truth and freedom would prevail and through whom they would be perpetuated to posterity. The danger of frustrating this noble design by the solid settlers selling out their homes to those whose sentiments and aims are antagonistic to the genius which inspired the founders of the commonwealth existing here, was commented upon, as the movement in relation to active and numerous transfers of real estate has a deep and broad significance in that connection. But it is unnecessary here to repeat what has already been enunciated.

In connection with the real estate furore, the city of Ogden was named as an instance. The allusion was doubtless unfortunate, although it was based on the evidences of the "boom" excitement, which were exceedingly conspicuous, together with statements from persons who claimed to be familiar with the facts, to the effect that transfers of real estate were more or less numerous among some who are presumed to be in sympathy with the genius of this intermountain community in the preservation of political integrity and the maintenance of those principles of liberty of which a mighty effort is being made to deprive us. We are more than pleased to learn, from a source that is undoubtedly correct, that our information in relation to the position of Ogden in respect to this subject was not correct. This is all the more gratifying on account of the interest we have always felt in the enterprising citizens of that town, which has at various times been shown through the medium of these columns, and which is by them doubtless duly appreciated. With our brethren there we are working in a noble cause—the maintenance of truth and freedom—and with them we expect to go on in the good work shoulder to shoulder.

With regard to the principle permeating the article on Land and Liberty we have not one jot nor title to recede from, because we conceive it to be correct. If we make mistakes in anything we would prefer it to be in matters of fact rather than principle, because the former class of errors is much less injurious than the latter, and much easier of correction. In this instance the reference to Ogden was simply made by way of illustration. The principle had no local, but a general application.

Exceptions are, as a matter of course, taken by interested parties to the policy we have advocated in relation to real estate transfers. We have advised the people to hold on to their homes. We have no apology to offer for this advocacy of a sound economic and political policy. This advice has reference only to Latter-day Saints. It is for them to take it or do otherwise but when it involves their welfare it shall be tendered without reference to who may object. There is not a sensible, straightforward non-"Mormon" but would, in taking an unprejudiced view of the subject, admit that the position is practically sound. That a ruthless clique of political tricksters are resorting to every possible device to rob the Latter-day Saints of their political rights and reduce them to abject bondage is a notorious fact. If the proposed victims of this unscrupulous gang sell out their realties to those who are not in sympathy with the preservation of their liberty they are giving direct aid to the movement operated for their own enslavement.

It is asserted on the other hand, and with a large degree of truth, that there are many non-"Mormons" who are opposed to the nefarious designs and doings of the self-seekers who are keeping the community in a continuous state of turbulence. This is true. From information we possess it may not be denied. But how few among them have the manhood to act in accordance with their convictions. So soon as they exhibit the slightest disapproval of the operations of the black conspirators, and sympathetic interest in the abused and maltreated "Mormons," the anathemas, denunciation and abuse of the anti-"Mormon" press, whose villainy is bounded by no code of morals known to man are hurled at them. They are dubbed with that most feared of all appellations—"Jack Mormon." The result, nineteen times out of twenty, is that the hapless individual loses his backbone, surrenders to the enemy, and having thus lost his own self respect, joins in with the howling horde, who remind one of a pack of hungry wolves pursuing their prey. This being the case the wise man among those who belongs to the community of supposed prospective victims will be careful to give no aid to a movement seeking his own injury and that of the commonwealth with which his interests are associated.

In this community, however, are non-"Mormons" who have resided for years in this city and other parts of Utah whose course has been noble and consistent. They have taken a deep interest in the material affairs of the Territory, and attended strictly to their own business without interfering with that of others. They have had no sympathy with the religious views of the Latter-day Saints, but their hearts have been moved by a species of sympathy that animates the heart of every true man for his kind. They have supported most of the good, unsectarian and unpartisan movements that have been instituted, and disregarded the snarls and snaps of the bigoted anti-"Mormon" fanatics, who have finally left them to pursue the even tenor of their way. Such men are worthy of respect, because of their kindly instincts and honorable course. Would there were more of them. They are exceedingly scarce. But men who tower, head and shoulders above their fellows by the possession of the higher constituents of manhood never were very numerous. When matters assume another shape to that which now obtains, many such honorable men of the earth will mingle among the Saints.

—Butte will soon have a system of street railways completed which will be of great advantage to its suburban towns, as well as to itself.

THE EARTHQUAKES.

THE recent seismic disturbances in southern Arizona and northern Mexico were greater in extent and consequences than most people are aware of. In places the earth's surface slid from the face of the mountains into the valleys, exposing the subterranean geology to such an extent that valuable veins of gold and silver were readily found which, but for the earthquakes, would perhaps never have been reached or even thought of. In one place an entire hill was scattered over the surrounding country, leaving the place where its base rested tolerabl flat; and throughout the whole of the perturned area damage to property was more or less severe every where, while the loss of life in one or two instance was appalling, 150 having been sacrificed to the destroyer in one place. Add to all this the insecurity of feeling that must prevail, the fear that without a moment's warning the earth may open and swallow them up, or overturn mountains and bury them alive, and we have a faint idea of what the situation really is.

The government at Washington is at work trying to ascertain by means of the rules and appliances of science the cause as well as the extent of these latest perturbations. We question very much, however, whether their researches will go further or accomplish more than mere statistics; all scientists and geologists have an idea as to the cause of the ruptures, but they do not agree in every instance, one class claiming that they are geological subsidings, another that they are geological upheavals, and others more visionary will have it that thy earth really rocks, the point on its surface at the antipodes of where it is entirely at rest only feeling the vibrations. One thing, however, is thoroughly digested—the earth quakes and quivers and rocks and goes through various convulsions within a certain area, sometimes slightly, sometimes so severely as to open unfathomable fissures and, as in the cases cited herein, to upset and demolish mountains.

Those who have ever experienced an earthquake will never forget the sensation it imparts no matter whether the shock was a hard or a light one. I the former, the impression created will of course be more profound and lasting in proportion to its severity. The thought that this solid earth from which we sprang, to which we return, and which we have learned to look upon as the very creation and fulfillment of solidity and firmness, is slipping beneath our feet or tossing us about like skittles, is a feeling that cannot be described nor even imagined by those who have never passed through a shock. It is that profound and stirring up character of feeling which causes men to take an introspective view of themselves and to cause the whole of their lives from the dawn of memory to pass before their mind's eye like a panorama and within the space of an instant. It is then that they feel their own insignificance and how utterly dependent they are upon the all powerful arm of Infinity. Earthquakes are the greatest demolishers of infidelity in existence; those at Charleston some time ago brought many sinners to sudden though perhaps transitory repentance. How much better is it to always recognize the Creator and Ruler, and thus be measurably prepared for His judgments when they come!

Speaking of a new steamer now in course of construction on the Clyde for the Inman and International line, a writer on naval architecture in Scribner's Magazine points out the advantage of twin screws in the case of the breaking of a shaft There is also an advantage in the steering through each set of machinery working separately and independently of the other. The vessel referred to is to be of 8,500 tons burden, with a speed guaranteed to equal that of any other vessel afloat, and it is claimed for it, owing to the many watertight compartments and their peculiar construction, that it will be impossible to sink it by an ordinary collision. It is expected that it will have abundant business on account of its two important features, safety and celerity, and it will probably prove the entering wedge for a radical revolution in ship building.

CITY COUNCIL.

The City Council met in regular session on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, Mayor Armstrong presiding.

A petition signed by John A. Groesbeck and fifty seven others, was presented, asking the City Council to institute a system of sewerage along Main Street from a point near the Temple Block to the foot of the street. In case the present finances of the city would not allow the work to be done, they asked the Council to create a bonded indebtedness to liquidate the cost. On motion the petition was referred to the committee on improvements with the committee on finance associated.

Elias A. Smith and twenty others, owners of property on block 86, plat A, (17th Ward) represented that this block was laid within the fire limits, which placed petitioners under many inconveniences in complying with the ordinance relating to building, etc. They asked that this block, or at least the east, north and west sides of it be exempted from the regulations placed on the fire limits. Referred to the committee on fire department.

Fred. Heath asked permission to lay a pipe from the spill on West Temple Street to his residence. Referred to the committee on water works.

John Hare stated that he was no longer able to provide himself a livelihood, and asked for a free license to peddle notions. Granted.

One liquor license was granted.

Fred. Culmer, Sr., was present, and made an appeal for the dry benchers, who, he said, were still without water, notwithstanding that so many thousands of dollars had been expended to extend the mains along that district. They saw the hydrants standing there as silent sentinels, he said, but what they wanted was lateral pipes; some way for them to get water in their houses. He asked the Council, in behalf of the inhabitants of that section whether it would not point out some way for them to obtain relief. On motion of Councilor Patrick, the petition was referred to the committee on water works.

Mr. Wells asked whether the people would take the water if the later pipes were laid. Mr. Culmer replied that he felt sure they would. He had heard of many who desired it. Mr. Davis asked how many who lived on the street where the main was now laid, had taken the water to their houses. The answer was not more than eight or ten. Some of the members thought this a rather discouraging showing, and it was advocated that some means be taken to ascertain how many of the people would guarantee to take the water, in case the lateral pipes were laid. Mr. Culmer said he would see to this himself. The matter was finally referred to the committee on water-works.

The Marshal's report of expenses for April, amounting to $857.04, was presented and referred.

The report of the police justice for April was also presented; the total of fines assessed was $965.55.

The committee on finance reported that they had examined and found correct the report of the auditor for the quarter ending February 28th. They recommended that it be published in accordence with law. Adopted.

The committee on license reported favorably on the petition of Mrs. Franks asking a six months free license.

Mr. Patrick moved that hereafter no petition for free license be received in the Council, unless it were endorsed by at least three reputable citizens; after some discussion the motion was withdrawn.

The Council then adjourned.

RICHFIELD NOTES.

A Loyal League Lecture—Vulgar—Registration.

RICHFIELD, May 5th, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

Last evening a most agreeable entertainment in the nature of a farewell party was given by the Saints of Richfield in token of respect and esteem of Brother Gus. Westman, who is about to depart on a mission to Sweden. In the afternoon he was serenaded at his residence with cheering, music by the brass band (lately organized, but wonderfully advanced), and in the evening there was a large gathering in the Social Hall where dancing was indulged in till after 12 o'clock. The dancing was pleasantly interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, appropriate songs, speeches and recitations, well rendered, and a well written essay especially suited to the occasion, by one of the young ladies. This was substantially supplemented with excellent picnic of delicious pies and cakes furnished by the sisters. The whole was a very enjoyable affair, and our young brother goes on his mission assured of the good will and kindly feelings of his brethren and sisters towards him.

Some few days ago, Richfield (as well as some of our neighboring towns) was honored (?) with a visit from Major Bynon, lecturer of the "Loyal League" and general subscription agent for the fifty cent corruption fund. He was eulogized on his speech here (a medley of more than three hours' duration) in an article by "Loyal Leaguer" in the Tribune; which article was as false as it was glowing. It is the general opinion here that the Major wrote it himself. He is, in my opinion, without exception, the most vulgar and insulting public speaker we have ever listened to. Some of the yarns he told can be read in old almanacks, and others cannot be read anywhere, because of their exceeding gross vulgarity. He did not accomplish much here, save that he has thoroughly shocked and disgusted the populace in general—many of our Gentiles as well as "Mormons." He came into Salina drunk, and was not in a condition to speak for some time. This can, if necessary, be proven by eye witnesses to the fact. The registration officer of this precinct became rather over-zealous in the discharge of his official duties, and in registering, propounded a number of impertinent and unreasonable questions to his subjects in addition to the regularly prescribed oath, and when citizens declined answering them, for the very potent reasons stated, he refused to register, adding, that he did not propose to be dictated by the Utah Commission, having received his instructions from others.

Some communication between a citizen here and the central committee, resulted in a short but pointed message from the Utah Commission to the officer relieving him of the authority and luxury reposed in him.

CACHE VALLEY NOTES.

BRIGHT LOOKING—CROP PROSPECTS—LAND MATTERS, ETC.

LOGAN, May 10, 1887.

Cache Valley never looked more beautiful than at the present. Viewing the valley from the divide as the train enters, one beholds a beautiful panorama spread out before him the equal of which for quiet beauty it would be hard to find. The well cultivated fields covering its broad acres are dressed in all the varied tints of green, with here and there a fresh plowed field looking dark and bare by way of contrast and only tending to make the surroundings looks more fresh. In most places more land than usual is being cultivated, and the refreshing rains that have visited the valley lately are inspiring the faithful granger with hopes of a bountiful harvest.

The grasshopper pest has not yet shown itself to any marked extent, though fears were entertained that it would play sad havoc with the crops in some places, as eggs were deposited last fall, yet it is to be hoped that the favorable weather will help on the crops to such perfection that the pests will not be able to injure them materially.

No business "booms" have yet reached us, but the mountain streams are beginning to "boom" from the effects of the warm weather we are now having.

In many of our towns improvements are going on which will tend to beautify and improve the places. The Wellsville Co-op is fitting up a large addition to its store in which the owners expect to carry a stock of millinery and fancy notions.

A great many men have gone from the settlements to work on the railroads and all who are at home have plenty to do.

On the south end of the valley the people are somewhat agitated over land matters, as the railroad lands adjoining the settlements are being offered for sale; the sale of these lands will greatly affect the settlements and if purchased by those who are not interested in these towns will greatly tend to retard their growth and prosperity. These matters should be taken hold of by the citizens unitedly and be handled with wisdom and proper caution, so that they can be made to bless the greatest number. For it would, in our opinion, be a calamity if the summer range adjoining a settlement went to individuals not interested in the development of the town and district. We would advise unity of action coupled with discretion in the matter, for if a united effort was made the task would be light to all concerned, and the benefits universal.

Considerable sickness has prevailed in some of the settlements, but health is generally improving.

The Sunday schools in Hyrum, which had been stopped on account of diphtheria, resumed last Sunday as all cases of contagious disease were convalescent and the quarantine has been raised.

TRAVELER.

PACIFIC COAST NOTES.

CULLED FROM LATEST WESTERN EXCHANGES.

Near Sonoma, Cal., May 4th, a man named Morris Wason was killed by being kicked by a horse, breaking his neck.

At Salem, Or., May 5th, James Mead, a dravman, while unloading bags of coal at the Agricultural Works was caught under the elevator and so bruised about the head and shoulders that it is thought he will die.

Near Sacramento, Cal., Barney Norton and his nephew, Tommy Norton, a lad aged twelve years, were out boat-riding on the river May 5th. The boat was upset near Pioneer Mills and both thrown into the river. Barney managed to cling to the boat until rescued, but the boy was drowned.

The track of the Colorado Midland is now in running condition to Hartsel post office, in Park County, South Park, a distance of seventy-five miles frsm Colorado Springs, and advancing towards Leadville at the rate of three miles a day.

At Pasadena, Cal., plans have been perfected for the inauguration of the most important series of improvements yet undertaken in Pasadena. Yesterday the Pasadena Grand Opera House Company incorporated, with a capital of $100,000.

On May 5th, Jacob Hamel, a young German living in Monterey, Cal., was found dead in his bed with a pistol wound in the right temple. The wound was slightly powder burned and the pistol was lying on the flour. Hamel was a hard-working young man, but addicted to drink. No one was in the house except his mother, a person of feeble intellect.

A negro named Dave Riley was found hanging to a tree on Mill Creek, about 25 miles from Traver, Cal., on the 6th inst., in the foothills. The body was discovered by some Indians and buried without an inquest being held. It is reported that the negro had ravished the twelve-year-old daughter of Vince Moore, a respectable rancher, and was hanged by the indignant ranchers.

The Boise (Idaho) Democrat says: A man is now here just from Alaska, where he was engaged sealing. He says seals before being killed, are driven inland quite a distance. Should one be killed on the beach the others would desert the grounds and never return. They travel, when driven, at about the pace of a sheep. At birth a young seal does not know how to swim, and its mother has to teach it, which she does with almost human intelligence. The Yukon river, the travelers say, is navigable three thousand miles. He ascended the great stream two thousand miles in a steamer, at which point it was as wide as at its mouth. The interior of Alaska is still a mystery. No man has ever yet penetrated its depths. Alaska furnishes the greatest sealing and fishing grounds in the world. Where one salmon enters the mouth of the Columbia thousands go up the Yukon.

Army of the Cumberland.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The eighteenth reunion of the society of the Army of the Cumberland was inaugurated this morning by a business meeting. Elaborate preparations have been made by the committee in charge of the entertainment, members and guests of the society. The principal feature of the meeting will be the unveiling of the statue of Gen. Jas. A. Garfield, Thursday.

Hyatt the Man.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The President to-day appointed James W. Hyatt, of Connecticut, to be treasurer of the United States, to succeed Conrad N. Jordan, resigned.

A New Departure.

BERLIN, May 11.—The Russian government has decreed that all the merchants in Posen having commercial intercourse beyond the Russian frontier must pay the taxes of the Russian merchants' guild and obtain a license from the Russian minister of trade.

The semi-official Press, commenting on this and the new Russian duties on metals, displays great indignation.

The Cologne Gazette says: "This course constitutes a crushing blow to German industry, and is also a blow in the face to the previous Russian policy and the policy of its present official leaders. It shows that the Katkoff, not the DeGlers party, commands the real power. Such measures can only have the object of affecting the political attitude of the country against which they are directed.

Derby Day.

LOUISVILLE, May 10.—Derby Day opens cloudy with a prediction of local rains. The crowds about the pool rooms and hotels are immense. There have not been so many strangers in the city since the great Ten Broeck-Mollie McCarthy contest.

Nick Fotten and Pritchard's St. Valentine are scratched this morning, bringing the starters down to seven, as follows: Banburg, Jim Gore, Pendennis, Carlton, Montrose, Banyan and Jacobin. The favorite way of betting to-day is buying the field and selling two choices. The field brings $50, Banburg, $35, Jim Gore, $20. In the straight-out pools, Banburg sells at $50, Jim Gore $20, Pendennis $20, etc. All carry 118 pounds except Banburg, who, being a gelding, is allowed 115. Among McCampbell and Fitzpatrick are confident Jim Gore will win; the former is the owner. It is reported and generally believed he stands to win $50,000 if his horse passes under the ring first. Jim Gore is the Louisville tip, Banburg, Lexington, and Banyan, Nashville. There was never so much doubt at a race, and the knowing ones are puzzled the more they think about it.

Fatal Accident.

PITTSBURG, May 11.—An accident at Edgar Thompson's steel works last night fatally burned five men, three of whom are already dead. Many others were seriously burned but will recover.

Sharp's Trial.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The trial of Jacob Sharp, which was to have come up to-day, has been postponed until Friday.

Parnell Failing.

LONDON, May 11.—Alarming rumors are in circulation in the lobby of the House of Commons this afternoon in regard to Parnell's health. One of these rumors is to the effect that Parnell is dead. Justin McCarthy asserts, however, that he has seen a telegram dated to-day from Parnell, stating that he would be in London to-morrow.

Captain Murdered.

NEW YORK, May 11.—It is reported that Captain Williams, master of the American ship Occidental, bound from Penarth for Acapulco, was murdered by a sailor on March 20th. The ship has been in command of the mate and crew.

Ought to be Investigated.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The Bulletin's Murphy, Cal., special says: News has just reached here that J. J. Fruchier, the American citizen who left here last October to visit France, was seized on his arrival there, imprisoned, denied counsel and forced in the seventh regiment of line at the garrison of Cailors.

The Condemned Mexicans.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The department of state has not been officially informed of the intention of the Mexican authorities in regard to the execution of three Mexican army officers for illegally crossing the border at Nogales, and the publications to that effect have caused considerable surprise, as the penalty is regarded as entirely disproportionate to the offense. Still, in the absence of official information, the department can take no action for intervention in favor of the condemned officers.

Terrible Disaster.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The steamer City of Rio Janeiro, which arrived to-day from China and Japan, brings news of a terrible marine disaster in the Straits settlements. The steamer Benton, plying between Singapore, Penang and Malacca, was run into about midnight on March 29th by the steamer Fair Penang, shortly after leaving Malacca, and sank within half an hour. Of two hundred persons aboard only fifty thus far are known to have been saved. Most of those lost are natives. After the collision the Fair Penang continued on her way. Loss on the vessel and cargo, $60,000.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

PIMA, Graham Co., A. T.,
March 3d, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

I write to inform you that about 3 p. m. to-day this section of country was visited with a severe shock of earthquake which lasted for three and a half or four minutes, doing some little damage in the way of wrecking chimneys, breaking glass and chinaware, etc. As near as I can learn it followed along the Gila Valley. Immediately after the shock Mount Graham looked as though it was considerably shaken up, as the dust was rising from the mountain like a heavy fog or smoke.

We have had a very dry spring, but have plenty of water for irrigation and crops look very well at present.

Your valuable paper finds its way here among the people and I can truly say is a very welcome visitor.

GILA.

The sudden death of Jennie Woodworth in Virginia, Nevada, on May 4th, and the hurried burial of her remains on the same date, aroused the suspicions of chief of police Henderson. Inquiry led to the disclosure that when Miss Woodworth's remains were laid out at the undertaker's there was unmistakeable evidence that she had been the victim of a cruel beating. Her person and scalp were covered with bruises, those in the region of the stomach appearing to have been produced by kicks from a heavy boot. Deceased was the wife or mistress of W. H. Pritchard, the murderer of Humphrey Symonds, a police officer, in 1880. Prichard is now serving a term in the state prison. The remains of the woman will be exhumed and an autopsy made by physicians to determine if death resulted from violent or natural causes.
