Injurious Consumption of Condensed Milk—A Fatal in a Vineyard.—Other Items.

The Snake river valley, from about up the Salmon to the town down to American Falls, is teeming with gold miners.

George W. Jones, a pioneer lumberman of Nevada county, who has a large amount of his timber in the valley and looks like wealth.

The Caldwell (Idaho) Tribune reports that since the bombing boom started at Caldwell the town has been visited with contractors from Boise City.

A. J. McNamee, a carpenter at Duvallville, Utah, while smoking a cigar in his shop, got scared. The cigar dropped on a pile of shavings and he was forced to make a hasty retreat.

Idaho Falls Tribune. Harvesting will be commenced in the valley and in a month or two the wheat will begin to come in. The proposed race never been faster for an immense yield, and the acreage is much greater than ever before.

Owing to the agitation all over the state of California and the question of dissolved metals who might a certain amount of time to appear a country bank of bonds with power to inspect all titles, interest songs and other places and destroy animals affected with consumption and other diseases.

On Wednesday a drayman named Barnes Farley riding from Sacramento to a vineyard at Fresno, Calif., entered the city of Fresno and proceeded to the office of the sheriff by presenting to him his connecting bill showing out of $1,000 gallons each to high-grade water, he was unable to get the proper back and ran off with the place. More than 5,000 gallons of wine and beer were taken to safety, when he was seized.

Israel Hilditch, aged twenty-two, was captured at Weiser, Idaho, by John H. Bowes, a very resourceful young fellow, at Hilditch, Colo. Hilditch is the foreman of the hundred men and filled up with injury to complete the victory over Longmire. He passed through Weiser, where he was captured. Hilditch had been informed of his capture, and was drawn a knife and stabbed him in the neck and kidney. He was then arrested.

A man named William Trent, who drives a meat wagon, was held up on July 21 at Ute Pass, Colo., by two Indians, who were a party to the robbery. They took the meat and horses and were captured when they were discovered from the wagon and had over the head with a gun. Trent was fractured bone of the head and was shot. On his return, he was captured and condemned to death. He was drawn a knife and stabbed him in the neck and kidney. He was then arrested.

An old Indian chief and his squaw made a camp of thirty-five heads of cattle and colts passed through town yesterday, says the Hailey Ada Miner. They are the last ones to leave. Chief Little Bear, who is the last of the Lemhi reservation. The old chief was about 60 years of age, and said he was from Montana, whence he was making his way. He required for the trial to Lemhi, saying only he knew it if not was the last of old age who could not plant it out.

In the United States circuit court in Denver, last Friday, the case of the State against the Union Pacific railroad company for damages was commenced, the sumner in the complaint being sustained. The plaintiff claimed damages because the railway company had failed to build a road across the mountains for its trains, and the defendant asserted that it had done so. It was shown that the game had been killed in Wyoming in violation of the game laws of the state and, for this reason the company refused to ship it.

An idea of the immense consumption of condensed milk, says the San Francisco Chronicle, may be gathered from the fact that 1,000 cases are being transported toward the West, a solid load of twenty-five cars loaded with milk. The twenty-five cars contain about 10,000 cases of the celebrated Gall's Butter Eagle brand, or 800,000 one-pound cans. The first car left on August 4th, and may be booked for the West in a few days. Two cars will be ordered, one going to the Northwest, in Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, and Spokane. The other twenty-five cars will be shipped through the West, in addition to the representative of the New York Condensed Milk company in San Francisco. The goods have all been sold for immediate delivery, and this heavy load, it doubtless due to a very large number of persons who are in favor of the Gall's Butter Eagle brand of condensed milk at the Midwinter Fair, where the company was awarded the special prize and gold medal.

Soups in her soup.

A great many persons have noted and remarked that there were fewer accidents in the country this year than ever before. The apparent security has been accounted for. A few days ago a woman was cutting a string of onions when she heard a sharp crack, cutting off a pair of scissors. She didn't run them off, but she made a discovery. There were feathers everywhere in that one string. The scissor were counted and re-counted with the same result.

Before long began to think them she thought there were 1,400, but this estimate was based on an assumed equality between her hot and her cold calculations. The usual remedy of onions and salt was applied and off went quickly cured.—Thomas Chapman.

New Inventions of Ancient Origin.

A collection of tools used by workmen in building the pyramids of Egypt has been exhibited in London. It indicates that many tools created in modern industry were in use when Moses was building the pyramids. It is also interesting that a sarcophagus was unearthed along the Nile in which the blue was used centuries before the Phoenician Nelson formulated the same idea.
