Correspondence.

BULLIONVILLE, Sept. 24th, 1872.

Editor Deseret News:

Dear Sir.—Bullionville, as you are aware, is situated about a mile from Panacea, Lincoln county, Nevada, and is intimately connected therewith by the mutual trade carried on. Our citizens patronize Zion's Co-operative Store very liberally, and find Bishop Jones and the other gentlemen in charge thereof polite and urbane in manner, fair in dealing, and desirous of cultivating and perpetuating that spirit of neighborly kindness and Christian charity which the Apostle says "is doubly blessed, not only to him who giveth, but to him who receiveth."

Our people are dependent on the gardeners of Panacea and the farmers of Southern Utah for their fruit and vegetables, for which they pay a fair and remunerative price.

Some of the latter who come hitherward with farm produce often go from here up to Pioche with their load and sell it for several cents per pound less than they could have had here, merely through a mercenary and grasping spirit, thus traveling twenty miles unnecessarily and adding greatly to their expense. To all such I merely say, You will always find, in the town of Bullionville, a class of purchasers who will give you a fair equivalent for your goods, and who expect from you to represent them just as they are.

Our mills are turning out large quantities of bullion daily, as will be seen from the shipments to your city by Wells, Fargo & Co. Business is good and people seem more contented and less excitable after new discoveries than heretofore. The diamond excitement, for instance, has found no abiding place in our midst. We had one lesson too many by the Colorado gold fizzle, where to a large number of our people flocked, with rockers, pans and all other mining paraphernalia, to return after a season wiser but sadder men. Steady employment and good wages are infinitely preferable to the uncertainty of reputed mine discoveries, and the sooner our people realize the fact the better it will be for them.

Our District Court is now in session, with a prospect of exhausting the roll of jurors of the county in the several criminal cases now on the calendar. Fuller, who killed his mistress, has his case set for to-day. Yours truly,
 WM. BELL.

At Pioche.—Hon. Thos. Fitch, says the Pioche Record, addressed an audience of 1,000 to 1,200 from the new stand on Main St. in that city, Sep. 24, delivering an eloquent address, in which he freely criticised the conduct of the administration and gave his reasons why Grant should not be re-elected. The best order and decorum prevailed.
