POLITICAL NEWS. New York, June 28 .- An enthusiastic and largely attended mass meeting was held tenight under the auspices of the Young Democracy in the Academy of Music and Wilson Hall to ratify the nemination of Cleveland and Thurman. The halls were beautifully decorated and fall the seats were filled. Most prominent among the decorations were the colors of Ireland and Germany. Shortly after eight o'clock the appearance of Speaker Carlisle and Governor Hill on the platform, escorted by D. Willis James, ex-Mayor Cooper and Senator McPhael C. Murphy was the signal for an outburst of applause, and the waving of bandanas. Three cheers were called for Governor Hill and were given with enthusiasm. Senator Murphy called the meeting to order and introduced D. Willis James as chairman of the evening. James advanced to the front of the platform. A large banner nemination of Cleveland and Thur-

A number of LETTERS OF REGRET

were read from gentlemen who had been invited to be present. The first was from Congressman Perry Belmont. In his letter he said: "The decline of our merchant marine and the less of our proper trade relations, outshipped in foreign market as we are by our great commercial rival, England, are in themselves sufficient reasons for Congress to make a change in our tariff law. The Mills bill is not a free trade measure, but is a step directly in accord with the growing needs of our fisheries and commercial system, namely, the reduction of the surplus and an increase in our foreign trade."

A letter was then read from Mayor Hewitt. The announcement of his name was received with mingled cheers and hisses, both continuing for some time. When the secretary was at last enabled to read the letter, Mayor Hewitt's declaration that his duties would not permit him to take part in politics was received with laughter. Later the mayor's declaration in regard to the tariff was greeted with appliance.

modestly waited until the applause subsided. Carlisle said:

Four years ago it was said the election of a democratic President would be immediately followed by the prostration of our manufacturing industries, derangement of our manufacturing industries, derangement of our currency, and the destruction of public credit, and that even the civil and political rights of the people would not be secare. According to these partisan prophets the Supreme Court of the United States was to be reorganized and the constitutional amendment annulled. The Confederate debt was to be paid and Confederate soldiers pensioned. The colored race was to be reinstated in the south; the doctrine of secession was to be reassorted. Union soldiers and sailors were to be deprived of their pensions and bounties heretofore granted to them, and all the terms and conditions of adjustment which succeeded the late war were to be entirely disregarded. These preposterous predictions were based upon the assumption that the democratic party possessed neither patrietism nor common sense. They were founded upon the absurd supposition that five million American citizens, with all their interests as individuals and members of the community, dependent upon the stability of our social and political institutions, would deliberately proceed as soon as they were entrusted with power to destroy the foundation of their own safety and prosperity. Incredible as it may appear, there were undoubtedly some people in the country who really believed these extravagant assertions and allowed their suffrages to be controlled by them. But they cannot be deceived again. The democratic party has not only demonstrated its capacity to manage the executive department of the government in strict accordance with the constitutions and laws, but it has set an example of fidelity to the interests of all people, and integrity in the discharge of official duties, which will be of influence to the country through all time to come.

Carlisle further reviewed the fallacy of the republican claims in its rela-tions to trusts, homesteads, naval and merchant marine, civil service reform and finances. As to THE MILLS BILL

"I think it is safe to; say that uine-tenths of the people who are daily denouncing it have never read it and perhaps would not understand it if they had."

He then proceeded to explain the salient points of the bill in question particularly the sections regarding wool, tobacco and whisky. He declared the democracy does not advocate free trade, but believes the interest of all of our manufacturing and other industries, would be advanced. terest of all of our manufacturing and other industries would be advanced, that the wages of all our laborers would be advanced and the general welfare of the whole country areatly premoted by repealing, so far as possible, taxes upon raw materials and reducing our taxes upon the actual necessities of life. And upon this simple proposition it propeses to stand or fall in the great contest now before it.

Carlisle eulogized

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES, "That grand old man, Thurman, the leader in many fierce contests for the principles of his party, has been called once more from his retirement to participate in his last great struggle and witness its final and permanent triumph over its old antagonist. Its final permanent triumph, because, unless all signs of the times are deceptive, the republican party cannot survive another defeat in a national contest. Its power will be destroyed, and it will full to pieces as all of its predecessors have done. Its diamembered part will be converted into warring factions, or form themselves into a new party under a new name. For fifteen years it has had no mission except to foment strife and discord among the people and control the expenditure of public moneys and yet during all that time it has estentialized and as the only political organization having the patriotism and wisgon to govern the country. We have as

In the history of the marvelous resources of such a county as this requires the investment of immense amounts of money and the employment of manual labor and mechanical appliances to an extent unknown in the history of the world heretofore, and we are therefore in favor of that policy which will most certainly and permanently encourage such investments and secure the highest rewards for labor necessary to make them profitable. The democracy makes no war upon capital, but it denounces monopolies and combinations as gross and danger on sylvalations of the law of trade and the rights of the millions who toil for their daily bread in every conflict with those who depress and degrade then?

Why should the republican party be restored to the position from which the people drove it by their votes four years ago?

Every abuse it new denounces or complains of was inaugurated by itself when it had absolute control in allithe departments of Government. Every reform it now promises was made necessary by its own legislative and executive action.

THEY NOTIFY THURMAN. Columbus, O., June 25.—Members of the democratic committee appointed to notify ex Senator Allen G. Thurman of his nomination to the office of vice-president arrived here this morning. Accompanying the committee were General P. A. Collins, of Massachusetts, and Hon. A. S. White, of California. At 1 o'clock the committee went to Judge Thurman's residence and it was announced that the meeting would be in the portion of the house occupied by his son. Judge Thurman made his appearance from the drawing room on the south. Judge Thurman was greeted with a burst of appliause as he came forward leaning on the arm of his son, A. W. Thurman. As soon as the Judge had taken his seat and bowed to the gentlemen standing ready te receive him, Gen. Collins advanced and after shaking him by the hand said: Columbus, O., June 28 .- Members ing him by the hand said:

Judge Thurman we bear a message from the great council of your party. It is but a formal notice of your nomination by that body for the high office of Vice-President of the United States. Rich as our language is in power and expression, it contains no words to adequately convey the sentiment of the convention as its heart went out to you. I present my friend, Hon. James D. Jacobs, of Louisville, Kentucky.

Mr. Jacobs stepped forward and, in an earnest voice, read the letter of no-tification. The letter says in part:

"In spontaneously and emphatically demanding a return to that political arena which you graced with so much wisdom, dignity and vigor, the democracy have honored themselves by relieving their party from the charge of ingratitude, and we believe in November next the people will efface such taint from the republic by electing you to preside over the most august deliberative body in the world—the Senate of the United States. (Applause.) Should so desirable a consummation be achieved, then indeed could every lover of his country, regardless of party or creed, rejoice that in you is embraced the highest type of the enlightened and refined American citizen, and that no matter what the crisis might be, this country, would be safe in your hands." (Applause.)

VIGOROUS AND EARNEST

Chicago, June 28.—Mr. De Young, of the San Francisco Chronicle, in speaking of the Blaine cablegrams, said: "The immediate cause of the presence of those cable dispatches was the knowledge possessed by Elkins, Boutelle and those fellows that had the power to nominate Blaine. They were paralyzed at the result of the con-power to nominate Blaine. They were paralyzed at the result of the conference on Sunday night. Elkins, Boutelle and Manley had no idea we had worked up such a combination and thought we were not organized. They made a move to capture the whole thing. Their friends said they supposed the gentlemen were invited to select an available candidate. I said that they had made a mistake. I noted accurately the number of Blaine men and when called upon scaled them down and then found more than enough to nominate. When Elkins asked me how many I had, I took off seventy and then replied four hundred. He said: 'I think you're making a great mistake in this attempt to nominate Blaine unless the other candidates will withdraw.' Then came Hayward's stunning speech. As soon as they discovered we were in a position to nominate Blaine the question was how to block us. We all laughed at that resolution to vote for Blaine on the fourth ballot. We wanted it on the first or second and did not intend to get tripped up on any delay. John S. Wise said he was opposed to any more delay and was ready to give 14 Virginia votes to Blaine on the first ballot in the morning. Gov. Parsons of Alabama said that he had been fooled long enough and would cast his votes for Blaine on the first ballot unless the second meant business. General Mancry of Tennessee wanted to vote for Blaine on the first ballot. Finally on Monday morning, just before the convention met, we decided to increase our Blaine forces on the first ballot and nominate him on the second. No power on earth could have prevented it, without

THOSE CABLE MESSAGES.

There was no friendship in that action at all.

We could not fly in the face of those telegrams. We said to each other he means it and we must submit. I think those telegrams were forced out of han by misrepresentations and that he will be disgusted with his friends. We voted for Blaine on that first ballot, because we had not time, after the tegrams were read, to decide what course to pursue. We came here determined upon two things—to nominate Blaine and beat Sherman. We wanted to put up a man that could wanted to put up a man that could carry the Pacific Coast, and we will carry it. When you see the returns next November, it will be evident that I know what I'm talking about. Oregon is not going back. It is evident what she will do. The Chinese ques-tion is settled by treaties and statutes satisfactorily to both parties. We have all we desire now in protection from the Chinese. Now we want protec-tion for our products and manufac-tures and the republican party will give us that."

Marion, John Stewart, Tip Osborne and Jeff Hall were playing cards when a dispute arose over some point in the game. All had been drinking and blows passed. WASHINGTON, June 28 .- Senator Dawes today submitted to the Senatethe report of the committee on pegsions on the vetoed pension bills, the merits of which were discussed in demerits of which were discussed in de-tail and the passage of which were recommended, notwithstanding the objection of the President. The more interesting and important features of the report are embodied in the dis-cussion of the power and dangers with which, in the opinion of the commit-tee, its too frequent exercise is fraught. It says:

It says:

These disapprovals were based in a great majority of cases on the expressed opinion of the President that Congress has erred in its judgment upon mere questions of fact. It is of course impossible for the President to examine the mass of documentary evidence on which a case depends and which is invariably signed by the committee and it follows when he disagrees with Congress on a matter of fact in these cases his judgment must be based, not upon the report of the committees in which the facts are always stated with sufficient fullness, but upon the report of some subordinate in the bureau of pensions.
