LOCAL MINING NOTES.

Lower Mammoth Strike.

Every day adds to the magnificence of the strike in the Lower Mammoth, says the Mammoth Record. Up to the time of going to press this week the extent of the ore body still remains unknown. The winze is down 25 feet in ore which averages over 200 to the ton. A crosscut in the quality of the ore was discovered last week and this assays about the same. Depth gives from $60 to $200 to the ton. That as depth is being attained the mine changes into a gold and copper proposition, and already 18 feet of this class of ore has been discovered. It is now been demonstrated that there is an abundance of mineral in the property and the new hoist, mention of which was made in these columns last week, has been ordered and will be in position within thirty days. It has been decided to place the machinery in the tunnel, as it will save a great amount of time and money in making the connection with the surface. The hoist will be operated by compressed air. Sufficient ore has been taken out for shipment but it will probably be two weeks before one will be made, the ore being taken out in the meantime is being sacked and left in the tunnel.

MORE, NOT LESS.

So Says the State Board of Equalization Regarding Railroad Valuations.

The State board of equalization denies the correctness of the statement published this morning to the effect that the railroad valuations are less this year than last.

On the contrary the board claims that there is an increase to the figures of 1897 over those of 1896 to an aggregate of about $170,000. The apparent decrease is thus explained: The last Legislature took from the board of equalization the authority to assess railroad land grants, not used for railroad purposes and conferred the power upon county assessors. The assessment of railroad lands made by the latter this year amounts to $380,000, which, added to the assessment of 1897, increases the general valuation about $170,000.

The grant lands of the Union Pacific assessed in Summit county by the board at $1 per acre last year were this year assessed by the assessor of the same county at 75 cents per acre.

GREAT RUSH NOW ON.

Fifteen Hundred Prospectors Nearing the Klondike.

ALASKANS FEARFUL OF A FAMINE.

Humanity Rushing Headlong to the Gold Fields Without Provisions —Freight Charges High.

Dyea, Alaska, Aug. 4, via Seattle, Wash., Aug. 11.—The British steamer Islander and Gene have arrived with about 500 prospectors which increases the number of the Dyea and Chaguay trails to only 1,500. Late reports have come in to the effect that the Chaguay route is open to the lakes, and that it is about forty-five miles long. It is a pretty route over the mountains, and the road is very soft. There are some two or three hundred head of horses in the trail and they will soon tramp its road which is in a deplorable condition. The probability of one man in ten reaching the Klondike is remote.

Col. Alaskan prospectors some of whom have wintered in the Yukon and know what to expect, are becoming frightened and turning back. Not that they fear the hardships, but that they are apprehensive of famine on account of so many men rushing headlong to the mines without enough provisions to last them two months.

The best evidence that those upon the ground regard the situation with more or less alarm is the fact that many are paying 20 cents per pound more freight packing across Dyea pass. This is an increase of 2 cents per pound, since the sailing of the Alki, at which time 18 and 17 cents was charged. Twenty cents is the regular rate over the Dyea or Caliente Pass route.

This increase and exorbitant charge is due to a scarcity of horses. Without pack animals of some description it appears to be next to impossible at this season of the year to get freight and on the scene the divide.

AMERICANS AND THE LAWS.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 11.—A good deal of interest is being taken in Canada in the manner in which the American press and people receive the new mining laws passed by the government for the Klondike district.

"It is hardly necessary," says the Toronto World, "to reply to the threats of Americans in the matter. The government of Canada has already made its reply and that reply is based on action, not on words. A large force of mounted police and two gatling guns are now on the way to the Klondike country, and if the miners whom the United States journals are inviting to revolt only make the attempt they will probably meet with a reception warmer than they anticipated.

"Surely it is time that the people of this country and especially the party in power began to consider the relations of Canada with the United States from an entirely new standpoint. Hitherto the liberal party has regarded this people as a friendly neighbor from whom Canadians might expect fair treatment at the least while our rabid cousins seem to yield to them overmuch admiration to supplicate such treatment from them than demand it as of right."

Spanish Mines Discovered.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., August 11.—It is reported that the famous Spanish mines which have existed for years largely in tradition, have been discovered. For the last two years the Pearl Silver Mining company has been engaged in searching for the hidden mines. At the end of a drift between feet from the main shaft an opening was made into another shaft, which is said to be that operated by the Spanish pioneers in the latter part of the 17th century.

O. G. WORKMAN.

O. G. Workman, one of the Mormon Battalion, was born in Overton county, Tennessee, Jan. 7, 1827. About the year 1835 he, with his parents and many of his near relatives, joined the Mormon Church in that state. This step brought upon the family such bitter persecution that they were compelled to leave their home and property, which included 5,000 acres of land. They went to Nauvoo where they remained until the beginning of the exodus which, in February, 1846, they crossed the Mississippi river on the ice with the fleeing Saints.

In the following spring, when the call came for the Mormons to furnish 500 men for the Mexican war, O. G. Workman and his brother, A. J. Workman, enlisted. On entering the service they took with them nothing but the clothes they were, and at first they parted back from provisions which to mix their bread. They rolled the dough around sticks and baked it over a camp fire.

O. G. Workman and his brother shared the hardships and experiences of the wonderful march across the continent made by the Mormon battalion. After the arrival of the troops at San Diego, the Workman brothers were glad with the detachment that went to San Luis Rey, where they remained until the period of their enlistment expired, which was July 16th, 1847. The soldiers of the regiment promised that if they would re-enlist for eight months they should then be honorably discharged at San Diego, and were stationed at San Diego. When the second term of service expired they marched to Pueblo, where they were discharged, and from this point they made their way to this city, about July 1st, 1848, meeting with a variety of hardships, adventures and experiences en route.

In August following O. G. Workman accompanied Parley P. Pratt on an exploring trip to what is now northwestern Utah. On Aug. 30, 1850, he started with the first mail coach that went east from Salt Lake City, with two other men and nine horses. He reached Kanesville, Iowa, in safety, making the trip in 25 days. He returned home in the fall.

He has resided to this city most of the time since its first settlement, and has shared in the privations and experiences that its old inhabitants have passed through.

ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIMSELF.

Rash Act of Thornton Lambert at Coalville, summit County.

A telephone message from Coalville to the NEWS last evening brought the particulars of an attempted suicide near that place yesterday morning by Thornton Lambert, who cut his throat from ear to ear, almost severing the head from the body. The windpipe was cut entirely in two, and had it not been that the knife was very sharp, the jugular vein would also have been severed.

It appears that about 8:30 a. m. yesterday, he went to Chalk Creek, a distance of about seven miles from Coalville, and with a small table knife cut a gash nine inches in length across his throat; then he inflicted a deep wound in his wrist with an old chisel, but failed to sever the main artery. He then wandered away from the place and was found about 10:30 a.m. nearly a mile and one-half distant, bleeding profusely from the wounds. Mr. Lambert is a native Welshman, about 60 years of age. He has lived for the past twenty years in Coalville, and was a respected citizen with no lack of means. The act is supposed to have been brought on by the loss of his wife about two years ago and the condition of his financial affairs.

From a Pioneer Printer.

HEBER, Aug. 9, 1897.

To the Editor:

I noticed in the NEWS of July 30th an article giving an account of the first edition of the DESERET NEWS of June 15, 1850, and stated that some type and a larger press are used in 1852. It was in 1851 that the enlarged NEWS was issued, and not in 1852. I remember running off the first edition. But Dr. Willard B. Clark was worth taking the first impression, and I ran off the balance of the 5,000, which we struck off weekly.

I can say that I struck all the first copy of the NEWS of Neighbor, in 1841. It [illegible] to say me is you, you sir, welcome to it.

I also notice a mistake in regard to the [illegible] I played in the Nauvoo [illegible], since I did I played the [illegible], I played the Flower Girl, and my brother Clarence a Hunchback.

GONE TO CHICAGO.

J. W. Kyle Wanted Down South, to Answer Charges of Passing Forged Checks.

Sheriff J. W. Crockett of Beaver county arrived in Salt Lake last night with a warrant for the arrest of J. W. Kyle, a former employee of the Herald, who is wanted to answer a charge of forgery. The sheriff came for him, but today it was learned that Kyle had left the city for Chicago several days ago. His offense, it is said, consists in his having passed off several worthless checks, aggregating several hundred dollars, upon merchants at Manti and other towns in Sanpete and Sevier counties. Kyle has a wife in this city who is ignorant of both his doings and his whereabouts.
