AND ITALY. GLADSTONE'S HEALTH FAILING.

Bismarck Still a Central Figure. LONDON, 5 .- Bismarck continues to that the one object of the German Chancellor is to procure the downfall of the French Prime Minister, and Biscarck's own countrymen are delighted with the results of his diplomacy, and rejoice over it in a manner that has thousands of cases. J. W. GUNN, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

OFFICE 107 MAIN STREET. a policy, and Bismarck accordingly letermined that his first pecessity was to isolate that country, and to render it powerless for mischief. German journals point to the hostility of France oward England, the growing distrust of Russia, the apathy of Italy, and, above all, the lame attempts to keep Germany out of Africa, as complete proofs of the immense success of Bismarck's policy. Englishmen and others marck's policy. Englishmen and others see clearly what Bismarck dislikes is the inability of the Gladstone ministry to adopt a resolute purpose in Egypt. There is exactly the same indecision respecting colonial and other questions. Wherever Germany is making herself disagreeable, England has practically evaded interference. The rumors that Hismarck means to proceed mors that Bismarck means to p;opose a conference of European powers are auconfirmed, but clearly he is feeling his way. Weeks have elapsed without any answer to the English proposals about Egypt. A slight so flagrant has aroused the English ministers at last to consider, yesterday in the cabinet, affairs which all England is discussing with profound concern. The St. James Gazette asserts to-day that Bismarck has suggested the ces-sion to Germany by England of the Island of Heligoland in return for the withdrawal of Germany's claim in New Guinea. This statement is considered exceedingly doubtful, however, but ru-mors of this kind at least tend to show the present tension of the public mind

News from the Afflicted District. MADRID, 5 .- Albama is terribly afflicted with earthquake. The upper portion of the town is built upon a hill and the lower portion in the valley. The bodies of over 300 victims have already been recovered. About 10,000 head of cattle were killed and all public buildings demolished. About 7,000 persons encamped in fields held religions services yesterday in the open angineers report that the remaining condition, and it will be necessary to insure public safety Despite the risk, hundreds of person remained among the ruins searching for property, and parents weeping over the places where their children are buried, imploring the soldiers to dig for and recover the bodies. A number of the injured are lying upon straw, and many are delirious. The governor has been on a tour of inspection throughout the ruined districts, and has distributed relief to the sufferers. The wealthy classes have fled and the poorer classes seem resigned to their fate and pay no attention to the recurring shocks. Unless generous and speedy relief is afforded, much sickness is sure to follow, owing to the inclem-ency of the weather.

Relief for Sufferers.

All the newspapers publish a maniesto summoning all classes to subscribe to the fund being raised for the relief of those who suffered from the recent earthquakes. The university students have issued an appeal to comrades in the provinces, urging contri-butions to the fund.

Gladstogie's Healtin.

Sir Andrew Chrk, whose bulleting are always cautious, admits that Glad stone is suffering from sleeplessness—always a grave sign with him. He considers his illness identical with that of two years ago; insists upon repose, and already talks of a trip to the south of Europe. Gladstone himself has been very miserable. His health again gives him trouble, and it is a peculiarity of Gladstone that whenever he has even the smallest attack of illness be is even the smallest attack of illness he is terribly alarmed, and suffers more from hypochondria than from actual sickness. The liberal papers, mean-time, get very unbappy when anything is the matter with him, feeling that Gladstone's commanding personality is the one thing which defends the government from overwhelming conlemnation on account of the mad olunders of its foreign policy. It is said the conservatives intend to make a vigorous attack on the whole adminis-tration shortly after the meeting of Parliament, but they are such utterly incompetent creatures that their assaults are more calculated to serve than to damage the ministry. The last political news of the week is the announcement, oy a subordinate member of the ministry, that they intend to re-new the Crimes Act in Ireland. In view of the complexity of the redistribution bill and of the certainty of fierce and frequently renewed attacks on the foreign policy of the government, the Parnelities look forward to being able to make this task particularly difficult, just a few of its leading provisions.

The latest so-called dynamite outrage is treated by the leading papers with a degree of apathy which is curi-ously in contrast with their editorial shricking over the explosions at Victoria Station, Scotland Yard and London Bridge. The occur-rence at Gower Station is discussed by only a few papers, and even in them is dismissed with a sub-leader or editorial note. Formerly every outrage, or supposed outrage, was honored by being made the subject of the principal leader in each paper. This latest explosion is treated contemptuously, but it is apparently admitted on all hands that it had a po-litical origin. The general drift of opinion, both in the newspapers and among the public, is to the effect that the Home Office should offer big, en-ticing rewards for evidence against the perpetrators of every outrage that may occur. This policy it is believed would speedily break up a conspiracy which apparently exists only for the purpose of making periodical explosions and of making periodical explosions and panies. It is certain that some of the criminals in the London Bridge explosion are still in London, and another outrage of a similar nature is more than probable. The police, however, have adopted no extra precautions beyond those which have been enforced for the past twelve months, and they seem to trust to luck to capture the miscreants unless an informer shall opportunely appear. The Strand to be Widened After long waiting it is now proba ble that the sum of a million and a half will be devoted this year to the improvement and widening of the Strand, a most celebrated but narrow thoroughtare of London, by tearing away all of Holywell street and making Wych street the new side of the Strand, with new and fine buildings. Two famous old churches in the Strand—St. Mary Le Strand and St. Clement Danes—which now stand at either end of the narrow part of the Strand, will probably be allowed to remain, with roadways encircling them. ble that the sum of a million and a half Significant Admiralty Orders.

London, 5.—The Times says: If the admiralty orders sent to Portsmouth after the recent Cabinet meeting are not charged with a weighty measure or inspired with a strengous purpose, they were singularly indisorest and interpreted abroad as a preparatory measure for some very important event. It is well to sustain a force if necessary, but it is doubtful, in spite of the apparent activity, that a new chapter will be opened in the foreign policy of the nation. The recent council has reproached the Cabinet for its indiscreet and evasive foreign policy. The article concludes by expressing the opinion that the ministers are only capable of drifting after the manner of those who involved England in the Crimean war. LONDON, 5 .- The Times says: If the

Refuses Consent

Earl Granville declines to give his consent to the proposal to hold a for-mal conference on the Egyptian ques-tion at Paris. He proposes, instead, that informal meetings be held at the British Embassy at Paris, to be pre-sided over by Lord Lyons, British Am-bassador, at which other foreign am-bassadors, accredited to France, shall have the privilege of taking part in the discussion, but not in voting. EMPHATIC GUARANTEES.

Working order no amount of public sanitation can prevent epidemics raging among the property the prudent man, in the win-ter and spring, will fortify the system against any such possibility. Dr. Koch, the celebrated German Scientist and Physician, says, for instance, that cholera will have but little effect among those who keep the digestive organs and the kidneys and liver in healthful operation. Warner's Safe Remedies are the best scientific curatives and preventives, and should be used now as a safeguard against any future scourge.
