be the tool of the party in it. There was a desire on their part to protect Elizabeth. Mrs. Tilton thought witness' retirement from the gaper was due, in some way, to Mrs. Beecher, and as witness was very indignant against Bowen, she thought that unless there was some reconciliation between Beecher and her husband her secret would be supposed. She begged witness to have an interview with Beecher, and wrote a note to that effect. The purpose of that interview was that Mrs. Tilton felt that Beecher and witness were in danger ef a colli-sion, and for her aske and at her ton, and for her aske and at her ton, and for her aske and at her ton, and for her aske and at her took to the the secret would be thought that interview was that thought that unless there was some reconciliation between Beecher and the function to the fact. the apology, down to the times the apology, down to the times the apology, down to the times the thread, were friendly; the were not in collision with each the friend to the species of that interview was that the apology, down to the times the apology, down to the times the other thread, were friendly; they were not in collision with each at the thread, and the beams that there the thread, were friendly; they thread thre

Mrs. Tilton felt that Beecher and witness were in danger of a colli-sion, and for her sake and at her request it took place. Tilton's dis-missal from the Union was two days after that interview; the inter-view had nothing to do with it." Being asked why the difficulty with Bowen would involve the ex-posure of his family secret, which he obtained from Mrs. Tilton six months before, witness said—"It was not through fear of exposing it. Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Beecher's were sometimes in collision, and was not through fear of exposing it. Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Beecher were sometimes in collision, and Mrs. Tilton always made me be-lieve that Mr. Beecher knew the secret until, in December, she told me.
