BOOK BINDING AND PAPER RULING

GEORGE Q. CANNON,

EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

A Poet's desperation is finely illustrated in these lines:

I stood upon the ocean's briny shore,
And with a fragile reed I wro'e
Upon the sand—
"Agnes, I love thee!"
The mad waves rolled by and blotted out
The fair impression.
Frail reed! Cruel wave! Treacherous sand,
I'll trust you no more;
But with giant hand I'll pluck
From Norway's frozen shore
Her tallest pine, and dip its top
Into the crater of Vesuvius,
And upon the high and burnished heavens
I'll write—
"Agnes, I love thee!"
And I would like to see any
Dog-goned wave wash that out!

BREVITIES.

Olive Logan says she has unbounded confidence in the young men of this age and country. The young men should reciprocate.

An English clergyman recently said "it is difficult to overestimate the value of a really good hymn." A great many old maids are precisely of the same opinion.

Elder Knapp says that "a politician can no more get into heaven than a shad can get up a greased pole, tail upwards." Heaven won't be reinforced much from Sacramento this winter, if Elder Knapp's information is correct.—S. F. Chronicle.

"Professor," said a student, in pursuit of knowledge concerning the habits of animals, "Why does a cat, while eating, turn her head first one way and then the other?" "For the reason," replied the Professor, "that she cannot turn it both ways at once!"

England claims to have solved the great problem of road steamers, having run one attached to an omnibus containing sixty-five people, from Ipswich to Edinburg, 450 miles, in 77 hours. The trip was made without any accident or stoppages, and is the most successful on record.

The battle between the advocates of education with religion and education without religion is now raging fiercely in London and other English cities; and a London correspondent of the New York World says it daily increases in bitterness, and will soon extend all over England, Scotland and Ireland.

A friend told his neighbor that he had been to hear a Universalist sermon. "Well, what was the text?" "It was this: How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation!" "And what did he do with that?" "Well, first he told us something about how great it was, and then he told us how we are all going to escape, even if we do neglect it."

A writer in the British Journal of Photography predicts that, owing to the perfection of micro-photography, brought about by the necessities of the Parisian siege, we will soon have our daily paper handed to us the size of a postage stamp, and carry our favorite poets in our vest buttons. We will see "a new edition of Macauley complete in three shirt studs," or "the tiny edition of Dickens," complete in two sleeve buttons. Every one will then carry a microscope as we now do a penknife.

At the last meeting of the French Academy an important paper was read on the results of M. Pasteur's researches upon the silk-worm disease. He has been eminently successful in checking the epidemic by the simple means of destroying the eggs from all moths which by any possibility can have become tainted. In a few years, thanks to M. Pasteur's long and laborious services, the disease will be all but exterminated. It is a disease that has wrought immense loss upon the silk crop of France for several years past.—Ex.

Mr. Walter Morris recently detected sulphate of copper (blue vitriol) in sixteen out of twenty loaves of bread tested. Eighteen out of forty-seven samples of coffee were pure; the rest were half or wholly composed of chicory. About half the samples of chicory itself were adulterated with wheat, acorns, beans, carrots or sawdust. Flour forms one-half or three-fourths of what is usually sold for mustard, turmeric being added to give color, and cayenne to give strength. Pepper is mixed with meal, starch, gypsum, and dirt of various kinds. Most of these mixtures are readily detected by the microscope.—Alta California.

There is no class of people who do half so much good, or work so hard as newspaper men. They publish good papers, and they strain every nerve to do this, but the populace do not consider this, or the fact that newspapers are a fair index of their own intelligence and enterprise. Some papers put up with all sorts of expedients to get along, when there are scores of influential men who are greatly benefited by the papers who do nothing to sustain them. They might speak a good word for them, get their friends to subscribe for them, sustain them with their advertising patronage, and thus remunerate the hard-working newspaper men. Every citizen ought to be animated by sufficient pride, if by no other motive, to sustain good papers, and thus see them worthy representatives of the people.—Ex.

Boston has a number of rich men in disguise. One of the most poverty-stricken looking men, who searches the city for old paper, owns half a dozen brick buildings at the South End; an old apple-woman, of Kilby street, pays taxes on a $10,000 house; the foundation of the great fruit house of Draper & Co., was laid by selling domestic fruit on a street corner thirty years ago. The head waiter of the Parker House, Barrett, understands his business, or he would not be able to erect a handsome granite building, which he is doing. The same person has real estate in Cambrige, but continues to be hotel waiter, and is happy. There is also another character rich in disguise. He is a porter in one of the State street banks. At the close of business hours he is disguised in overhauls, and an old hat, and sweeps out and dusts down. During business hours he acts as messenger, thus drawing two salaries. He owns eight houses, and although worth $35,000, he is not above the menial service of an Irishman armed with a broom.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

Decrease of Public Debt—Excitement and Bloodshed at Rochester—Alexis at Chicago.

WASHINGTON, 2.—The public debt decrease, in round numbers, is four and a half million dollars. The coin balance in the treasury is 111,432,826; currency 15,864,494.

ALBANY.—The House and Senate met at eleven. The Governor's message is long and is devoted to matters of the State and city of New York. The State debt is reduced to twenty-nine millions. The tolls on canals have increased nearly half a million over the previous year. He recommends a new charter for the city of New York.

NEW YORK, 2.—Some of the old Board of Aldermen attempted to take possession of their chambers to-day, but were driven off by the police.

ROCHESTER, 2.—A mob attempted to break the jail where the negro ravisher of the little girl is confined, but were prevented by the police; there is great excitement.

Later.—The excitement over the rape on the little girl by the negro Howard, has finally culminated in bloodshed. An immense crowd surrounded the jail this evening, frantic over the report that the child was dead from her injuries. The evening papers published the evidence against Howard, which was conclusive of his guilt. A mob surrounded the jail, and the military assembled at the armory, the police finally dispersed them, and quiet being apparently restored they were finally relieved.

Later. The crowd again surrounded the jail, yelling and shouting; the police were again sent for, and in the meantime the military arrived, and at about 10 p.m., while the crowd were yelling at the corner of Court and Exchange streets, the military fired a volley into them, killing two men and a boy, names not learned, and wounding one. It is reported that a woman was also shot, but this is unfounded. The excitement was redoubled by this, and the people rushed from all parts of the city to the scene.

CHICAGO.—The Grand Duke yesterday visited the stock yards, large packing establishments and the observatory and rode round the city. To-day he visited the board of trade, and in response to a speech of welcome by the President, expressed his gratification at the cordiality of his reception in Chicago, and hoped that the once beautiful city would soon regain its former magnificence. He goes to Milwaukee to-night and returns here on Thursday.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

Squirrels Drowned by the Flood—Good for Judge Lauderback—Killed by a Landslide—Six Inches of rain in sixty Minutes!

SAN FRANCISCO, 2.—The brokers complain that their business is ruined by the snow blockade on the railroad, as no goods are arriving, there is no demand for greenbacks for freights, and they are therefore inactive and weak.

Farmers from the section of country around the bay of San Francisco, say that in a great many localities the floods have completely rid them of the pest of ground squirrels, which have been drowned.

A meeting of the San Francisco bar was held this p.m., and passed resolutions eulogizing the memory of the late Elisha Cook; the district and municipal courts, adjourned out of respect to him.

The weather is cold and cloudy.

Capt. Wm C. Walker, of the tide land reclamation company, has returned from the Sacramento river; he reports that the levees on Twitchell and Sherman Islands, and the unfinished levee on Grand Island are unharmed and able to stand three feet more rise without damage.

Judge Lauderback made several new rules and important decisions in the police court to-day. A young Hoodlum was arrested for an assault on a Chinawoman, and robbing her of a gold hair pin worth fifteen dollars and using vulgar language. When arrested he was put on trial, and Judge Lauderback ruled that the testimony of the woman should be taken, contrary to the practice of his predecessors. He said the supreme court of the United States had declared the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments constitutional, and that was sufficient authority for him. Col. M. Dudley made some remarks on this point, endorsing the views of the court. The Hoodlum being convicted, the court said he would ascertain his exact age before passing sentence; if he was under seventeen he would send him to the industrial school until he was twenty-five, but if over seventeen he would send him to the county jail for the full time allowed. The decision appeared to give general satisfaction.

A police, named Sam Welden, was hit in the cheek at midnight on Sunday by a revolver ball fired in honor of New Year's.

The bodies of two men were seen in the bay last night, supposed to be those of two negroes who started for Goat Island.

Twenty-five hundred tons of salt were washed away by the storm in Alameda County, and great damage was done to the works.

Elisha Cook, a prominent lawyer, died Dec. 31.

The rain has ceased,

The last day of the old year, yesterday, was one of the finest days ever seen in the city, and was improved to to the utmost by callers. Business of all kinds was suspended.

The rainfall was twenty inches up to the 1st of January. This morning it is cloudy and damp, but not raining. The wind is south-east; the barometer is high, and no signs of more rain.

C. Newman, a stock broker, died last night, after a long illness.

LOS ANGELES, 2.—Kruger and Miss Shepard, the survivors of the Wickenburg stage robbery, arrived yesterday.

IOWA HILL, 2.—Wm. H. Clark was killed by a land slide at 3 p.m.; his body is not yet found.

SALINAS, 2.—Monterey was visited by one of the most terrific storms known to the oldest inhabitant. About sundown it began to rain and in one and a half hours the streets were three feet under water. Stores and dwelling-houses were flooded, stock drowned and buildings carried away. For a time great excitement prevailed, many families fled to the high ground at the back of the town, and in some cases reached the high ground with great difficulty. The water was two feet higher than in the flood of 1861 and 1862. It is estimated that in one hour six inches of rain fell.

EUROPEAN DISPATCHES.

Success of the French in Algiers.

DUBLIN, 2.—At the installation of a conservative mayor at Limerick yesterday, a tumultuous mob alternately hissed at the mention of the Prince of Wales and cheered at the mention of home rule.

PARIS, 2.—Algiers dispatches report a brilliant success over the rebels; two chiefs and a hundred and fifty horsemen were killed.

LONDON, 2.—There is considerable talk here about transfering the property on and control of the land and Atlantic lines to the joint governments of Great Britain and the United States; the proposition is received with favor, anticipating as a result a reduction of the present exhorbitant tariff.

ROME.—King Victor Emanuel, yesterday sent a special ambassador to the Vatican to tender his congratulations to the Pope; the ambassador was received by Cardinal Antonelli, who informed him that his holiness was indisposed and unable to receive a visit.

THE KRUPP STEEL WORKS.

An interesting account has lately been published in Europe of the celebrated Krupp Steel Works, which, perhaps quite as much as the genius of Moltke, contributed to the overthrow of Louis Napoleon in the recent campaign. Here were forged that terrible artillery and those weapons under which the previously indomitable spirit of the French recoiled, and they sustained a defeat unprecedented in their annals. The works, it seems, contain no less than 514 heating and smelting furnaces. They have 250 puddling, welding and warming furnaces; 170 forges, 245 coke furnaces and 125 of other sorts. The turning lathes are 120 in number, the planing machines 119, the drilling machines 114, the grinding stools 90, and other machines to the number of 120 in all. Two hundred and fifty-six steam engines, of 8,377 horse power, propel this vast force, and they are set in motion by steam from 150 boilers. There are 56 Nasmyth or power hammers on the premises, weighing upwards of 3,000 cwt., and striking with a force almost incalculable.

The number of men employed exceeds 7,000, and the quantity of cast-steel produced amounts to 130,000,000 pounds. Among the steam engines are one of 4,000 horse-power, three of 800, one of 500, one of 200, one of 160, three of 150, one of 120, three of 100, and 242 of inferior power. One of the power-hammers weighs 600 cwt., another 400, a third 200, a fourth 150, a fifth 140, two of 110, three of 100, and 46 of inferior weight.

In addition to implements of war, Krupp manufactures axles, wheels and bands for railways, as well as rails and springs. He likewise constructs railways for mines, and axles for steamboats; with cylinders and many other parts of machinery, including steel for the fabrication of tools and cannon. The whole of these works have been the creation of one man, and they are at present entirely unequalled in the world. The owner was lately on a tour in England, and at Torquay he encountered Louis Napoleon. It would be curious to know what were their sentiments as they passed in the streets.—New York Star.

PIG BREEDING AND FEEDING.

Mr. Mechi, the prince of experimental farmers, says the same rule applies to pigs as well as to other animals; choose the best male parent of a thrifty breed. Let the breeding sow work for her living, for if you feed her bountifully she will get fat and have few pigs. But he says to have good pigs, she must have the right sort of food to make bone, muscle and fat; but avoid the fatal mistake of giving the sow a large quantity of roots before parturition. Let her run in pasture and have a moderate supply of bran, a little meal and boiled potatoes, a few turnips, but very few mangolds; a moderate supply of peas, beans and barley, or soaked Indian corn may be added, also clover and green beans in the pods.

Nothing comes amis to the sow. The great point is to give a variety, and not too much of one sort, especially roots. But after parturition roots may be more liberally given, especially cabbage in conjunction with other food, but immediately after parturition the diet should be sparing and cooling. In cold weather warmth and shelter are indispensable. Never allow a pig to bury itself in stable manure or catch cold by sleeping on the cold ground. For fattening pigs nothing beats one-third pea meal and two-thirds barley meal; if mixed with skimmed milk, steamed roots and potatoes they grow and fatten very fast. He fattened 200 pigs one season without losing any by disease. To promote ventilation they were all placed on sparred floors, and in hot weather they were treated daily with a shower-bath, which kept them very clean. He put straw on the floors in cold weather, and he says that pigs pay in manure better than most other animals. They should have salt and plenty of pure water.

GIRLS AT THE MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY.

Mrs. Livermore gives the testimony of President Tyler, of the Michigan State University, at Ann Arbor, where both sexes are instructed, as to the scholarly attainments of the girls. He says the best Greek scholar in the college is a young lady. He further tells the following of a Kentucky girl whose name is White, and who, being very tall, is called by her fellow students "Longa Alba:"

For the past fifteen years the professor of mathematics has at each annual examination given his class the same problem to solve. The classes have averaged 100 members. At the last examination, when the professor asked the usual question, "Has any one solved the problem," and expected the usual answer, to his surprise "Long Aba" rose in her seat and handed him a paper, saying she had solved it. The professor opened the paper expecting, of course, to find the work inaccurate, but to his amazement he saw that the solution was correct save one trifling error. He handed the paper back to the young lady and said: "As you have succeeded where 1,500 have failed, I give this back to you, feeling sure you will see the trifling mistake made and correct it for yourself." In a few minutes "Longa Alba" returned the paper with the error corrected."—Chicago Post.
