SAVE YOUR HAIR!

TO LEARN HOW TO DO IT READ AND HEED WHAT FOLLOWS.

SAVE YOUR HAIR.—The laws of Health and Longevity demand it, the customs of social life require it. The matter is of great importance in every way.

BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR.—It is the surpassing crown of glory, and for the loss of it there is no compensation.

CULTIVATE YOUR HAIR.—For by no other means can it be saved and beautified.

LYON'S

KATHAIRON,

Discovered thirty-five years ago by Prof. Lyon, of Yale, is the most perfect preparation in the world for preserving and beautifying the hair.

Besides being the best hair dressing ever produced, Lyon's Kathairon will positively prevent grayness, and will restore new hair to bald heads, if the roots and follicles are not destroyed.

It actually performs these seeming miracles, of which the following is

A FAIR SPECIMEN

I had been entirely bald for several years, constitutional, I suppose. I used a few bottles of Kathairon, and, to my great surprise, I have a thick growth of young hair.

COL. JOHN L. DORRANCE, U. S. A.

In every important respect, the Kathairon is absolutely incomparable. It is unequaled.

1. To Cure Baldness.
2. To Restore Gray Hair.
3. To Remove Dandruff.
4. To Dress and Beautify the Hair.

BEAR IN MIND.—The Kathairon is no sticky paste of sulphur and sugar-of-lead, to paint and daub the hair and paralyze the brain. It is a pure and limpid vegetable lotion, intended to restore the hair by natural growth and reinvigoration. It is splendidly perfumed, and the most delightful toilet dressing known. No lady's or gentleman's toilet outfit is complete without Lyon's Kathairon.

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 15.—Voorhees submitted a resolution instructing the committee on Indian affairs to inquire into the circumstances which led to the recent escape of the Cheyenne Indians from Fort Robinson, Neb., and their slaughter by United States forces. Agreed to.

Allison, from the conference committee on the military academy appropriation bill, submitted a report which was agreed to. The House having agreed to the report yesterday, the bill now goes to the President.

Bills on the calendar not objected to were considered under the five minute rule.

The House bill for the payment to officers and soldiers of the Mexican war of three months' extra pay provided for by the act of July 19, 1848, led to a long discussion.

Edmunds submitted an amendment to make the act apply to those who served in the late war for the preservation of the Union. The bill was laid aside without action.

The bill to amend the patent laws was taken up.

A communication from Secretary Sherman was laid before the Senate. It recommended the appointment of the persons nominated for the positions now filled by Collector Arthur and Naval Officer Cornell and recommends the removal of these persons on the ground that they have failed to perform the duties of their respective offices.

At the conclusion of the reading of the communication, Senator Conkling made an earnest speech defending Arthur and Cornell from the charges of inefficiency, and denouncing the charges as pretences and the afterthoughts, put forth by the administration, in an effort to justify an action which was wholly unwarranted on civil service grounds.

Senator Thurman made some semi-jocular remarks evidently calculated to widen the breach between the President and a majority of the republican members of the Senate.

Edmunds also spoke briefly without, however, definitely indicating his position on the subject of controversy.

The communications and accompanying papers were then, on motion of Conkling, referred to the committee on commerce, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 15.—Wood, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported back the bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue, in exchange for lawful money of the United States, certificates of deposit of the denomination of $10, bearing interest at the rate of 3 per cent., and convertible at any time, with accrued interest, into 4 per cent. bonds authorized to be issued, and directs that money so received shall be applied only to the payment of 5-20 bonds.

Kelly submitted an amendment so as to make the certificates convertible with the accrued interest, after six months, into lawful money and at any time into 4 per cent. bonds.

Wood called attention to the bill as introducing a novel feature into the affairs of government so far as the producing classes were concerned. It would afford the poorer classes an opportunity of investing their small earnings where they would be safe and secure and not subject to the instability of private corporations.

Kelly said the only provision in the bill which was characteristic of saving banks was that government would take deposits as low as $10. The United States government proposed to engage the laboring people in a game of chance, of which the law was, heads I win, tails you lose. It would turn that class into game for the Shylocks that concentrated about the stock exchanges of the country. Suppose a poor man had deposited $10 and found himself unable to deposit more. He would have to wait 123 years and four months before he would be entitled to interest.

Banks said he favored the general provisions of the bill, but if it went into operation its first effect would be to induce depositors in savings banks to go to their securities.

Burchard said that, though the bill was not very objectionable so far as it went, he should prefer the measure that had been reported last session for the establishment of post-office savings banks.

Butler opposed the bill as a delusion and snare. It had no safety and when the poor man wanted money for his bond he would have to go to a broker and submit to a shave greater than the interest.

Hewitt, New York, spoke against the bill.

Garfield said that the less legislation there was on finance the better. The Secretary of the Treasury believed that he could make the work of refunding proceed yet more rapidly by going beyond the banks and dealing with the people directly. This bill would do so. One of the elements of strength in France arose from the fact that 5,000,000 Frenchmen had the bonds of France, and the day on which 3,000,000 American laborers were holders of United States bonds would be a day when the occupation of those gentlemen who tried to raise a row between bondholders and the poor people would be gone.

Phillips opposed the bill. He desired to offer an amendment providing for the deposit, in any post office which is a money order office of any amount not less than 25c., to be forwarded to the United States treasury, and an account kept with the depositor, who shall receive interest at the rate of 4 per cent., and that when this sum amounts to $10 it shall be converted into the certificates provided for by the bill.

Wood declined to yield for the amendment.

Townsend, Ohio, favored the bill.

The debate having closed, Burchard offered an amendment.

The previous question was seconded and the main question ordered—yeas 132, nays 99. The first vote was taken on Kelly's amendment, which was rejected—yeas 81, nays 152. The next vote was taken on Burchard's substitute, which was defeated—yeas 67, nays 150.

Springer moved to lay the bill on the table.

Bundy moved to adjourn, and the ayes and nays were ordered.

During roll call the hour of 4.30 arrived, at which time the House had agreed to take recess until 7.30, but the Speaker ruled that the call should be completed, and it resulted—yeas 77, nays 128, and the House, at 4.40, took a recess until 7.30.

During the day Hunton offered a resolution, which was adopted, for the payment to the children of the late B. B. Douglas of the remainder of his salary as a member of the Forty-fifth Congress.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening session the House resumed consideration of the bill authorizing the issue of certificates of deposit, the first vote being on the motion of Springer to lay the bill on the table. This was defeated—yeas 78, nays 105—and the bill then passed—yeas 117, nays 72.

Wood reported a bill making United States notes receivable for duties on imports.

Garfield stated that he desired to offer an amendment providing that such notes should be receivable so long as they were equivalent to coin. (Cries of "No! No!") He did not propose, for one, to shut off the supply of coin to meet the interest on the public debt in case any calamity should happen to the country.

Wood, acting as chairman of the committee on ways and means, yielded to the introduction of the amendment, and the previous question was ordered.

Harrison, Ills. (to Garfield)—Has the gentleman any doubt about the success of resumption?

Garfield—I have no doubt of the success of resumption, unless by such a bill as this or some other hostile legislation, resumption is destroyed.

The amendment was then defeated—ayes 73, nays 105.

Garfield—Believing this bill to be a serious attack upon resumption, I move to lay it upon the table.

The House refused to lay the bill on the table—yeas 41, nays 155.

The bill then passed—yeas 154, nays 43. It simply provides that after the passage of the act United States notes shall be received in payment of duties on imports.

Wood also reported a bill to facilitate the funding of the national debt, after which the House adjourned.

EASTERN.

The Indians Indignant.

YANKTON, D. T., 15.—A Cheyenne agency special says: That last night the runners from the hostile camp held a council with the agent, at which council they talked very independently, saying it makes their hearts bad to see their friends here deprived of guns and horses. On Saturday they held a council with the commander of the post, Col. Wood at which council they were very meek, and said all they wanted was to come in and they would give up their guns and ponies. They must do something soon, as the buffalo are moving and they have to follow them, and ere this the entire hostile camp of not less than 25,000 is on American soil and working south. The runners will wait here at Red Shirt's camp, twelve days, to hear from Washington.

Delegate Cannon at Work.

CHICAGO, 15.—Tribune's Washington special says: Cannon, the Mormon delegate, is creating considerable feeling in favor of congressional action saving those now in polygamy from the enforcement of the act of 1862, just declared constitutional by the Supreme Court. He argues that the government, by allowing this act to remain a dead letter, has justly barred itself from sudden action under it. He also urges the great hardships that will ensue if families are to be broken up and the children born since 1862 declared illegitimate. He thinks that by lenient action the government can now easily assert its power in future in Utah and enforce this particular law, but for the past, from 1862 to this time, he wants Congress to pass an amnesty act declaring that the act of 1862 shall not take effect till so declared by the act of amnesty. After that the Mormons would not make complaint, and he thinks the law would be generally regarded. He argues that under the difficult circumstances surrounding the case it would be a wise step for Congress to take advantage of the situation to show the Mormons that it is disposed to deal as leniently as possible, and at the same time give such notice as none could misunderstand for the future that the law of 1862 will hereafter be vigorously enforced.

Fatal Street Fight.

Duncan W. Buell Farr, of California, formerly a railroader, but latterly a gambler, was shot and killed here, by George Stratton, in a street fight. Farr was shot through the head and died within an hour. Stratton was arrested.

Advantages of the South.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., 15.—In response to a call issued some weeks since, northern men who have settled in the south since the war, assembled here, to-day, from five States, and held a convention in the Opera House. A series of resolutions were introduced setting forth the advantages of the south to persons seeking homes, declaring that in this section the laws are equally enforced, that northern settlers are not ostracized but welcomed, and that in no section of the country do all classes enjoy a larger measure of liberty. The resolutions were adopted unanimously and amid applause.

Purchase of Silver.

WASHINGTON, 15.—The Treasury Department, to-day, made the usual weekly purchase of 400,000 ounces of silver.

The Trial of Major Reno.

It is claimed by the friends of Major Reno that yesterday's evidence, before the court of inquiry, was important, in that it shows that the Major could not have heard the noise of the skirmishing from the position which he occupied when, as it will be attempted to prove by subsequent witnesses, he should have taken a hand in the fight. The allegations of Whittaker, six in number, and summed up as being gross cowardice and neglect of duty, are before the court in the form of a letter.

Lieut. George D. Wallace, of the Seventh Cavalry, was the first witness to-day, and was introduced by Recorder Lee. He detailed the methods of dividing General Custer's forces. He said General Reno's forces, when they came upon the scene, were exhausted through swift marching, and when they met the Indians, were overmatched for the time and compelled to retreat. He testified that Custer's command, on the 25th of June, at the Little Big Horn, consisted of 12 companies of the Seventh Regiment, and were so disposed as to march down the right bank of the river. At about noon, Colonel Benteen had four companies, Major Reno three and Gen. Custer the rest. After the division of the forces, Major Reno crossed to the left bank, and the two columns, Reno's and Custer's, moved down a tributary to the Little Big Horn, about 12 miles on the opposite bank; then Reno crossed, and they proceeded together. The orders given Reno were that the Indians were about two miles and a half ahead; that he should ride forward briskly and charge them as soon as he met them. Again crossing at a deep ford, they galloped forward with this command of about 140 men, who had been marching three days and all the night preceding. They were too exhausted and breakfastless. Witness gave an account of the Indian village, as being about three miles long, and of a width varying from 100 yards to half a mile. He recounted the manœuvres of the savages as the troops approached. They did not mass but skulked about in all directions. Reno halted 150 yards from the stream, near a quickbend in the river. The Indian village was beyond the bend but on the same side of the river. They dismounted and advanced, when the skirmishing immediately began. This was between 2 and 3 o'clock, and some 300 Indians were in sight. They seemed perfectly informed as to the movements of the troops for days preceding this. The engagement began, and Reno after dismounting, went back to see to the horses. After that witness did not hear of him again until they began the retreat from the village. All the ammunition was gone from their saddles before the retreat commenced. The retreat was ordered because they were in danger of being surrounded on all sides by Indians without natural defences. He did not see Reno until after he crossed the creek on the retreat. He last saw Custer after he gave the order to move. The court decided to take all the testimony relative to the engagement. Adjourned.

The New York Custom House Appointments.

A communication was laid before the Senate, in executive session, from Secretary Sherman, on the subject of the New York custom house appointments, designed to show that the removal of Collector Arthur and Naval Officer Cornell were made for sufficient cause, and that therefore the confirmation of the present nominees should not be resisted on the ground. That injustice was done their predecessor. The communication embodied sundry reports made to the Secretary, and other extracts from confidential records of the Treasury Department, asserting or indicating that Arthur and Cornell had failed to administer their offices with the degree of efficiency considered requisite by the Department. Their failure to take action in regard to the extensive smuggling of silk goods, and the under valuation of kid gloves, etc., is commented upon and placed in contrast with the measures inaugurated and pushed to an issue satisfactorily to the government, by their successors in office.
