

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY, OCTOBER 20.

Moab Times: Search for the remains of C. J. Boren, drowned in the flood of Mill creek last week, has been kept up constantly but without success. Drifts along the creek have been opened; a heavy bar of drift was formed in the river at the mouth of the creek and the body may have lodged there. The river has remained quite high and has interfered with the search there.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 19, 1897.

I understand the saloon element of our city has served notice that "no Mormon" need apply for the office of police judge, and that no such notice has been served on any other church. Does this indicate the opinion of the saloon element of the Christianity and moral element of the churches of this city? Most respectfully, OBSERVER.

Moab Times: The floods of last week caused considerable damage to settlers in Mill creek canyon. Geo. Webb was compelled to leave his house and carry his mother, aged 80 years, to a point of safety. He tried to reach his brother's some distance below, but failed, and building a fire, he went on to his brother's for assistance, and returning with blankets camped under the rocks all night. Two feet of sand was washed into the house. The Webb brothers, William and John Jackson and A. Delamater had a part of their crops washed away.

Park Patriot: Albert Evans, 9 years old, met with a painful accident early Sunday evening. When leading a span of horses to water one of the animals suddenly whirled and at the same moment let both hind feet drive at the boy's face, one foot striking the impending victim's right jaw. The boy was immediately picked up and found to be unconscious. He soon recovered and a careful examination disclosed a broken jaw and other physical injuries. The accident occurred at the home of James Wolstenhulme, near Kamas. The little sufferer was conveyed to Dr. Le Compté's surgical rooms, where the wounds were skillfully treated.

Morgan Mirror: On last Monday morning as T. W. Steed of Farmington, W. M. Bostaph and John Pignon of Ogden, and T. U. Butters of Morgan, were going up East Canyon creek to the reservoir now under construction. When near the mouth of Sheep canyon they saw a black object in a large pine tree, which, on investigation, proved to be a black bear. They being without guns, Messrs. Butters and Steed went in search of a gun, while Bostaph and Pignon watched Bruin, who, strange to say, never moved from his lofty perch during the two hours' hunt for a gun sufficiently large enough in caliber to bring him down. On the return of Butters and Steed with a forty-five caliber rifle they brought him down with three well directed shots, after which it took two more to finish him. This magnificent specimen weighed 500 pounds. Mr. Butters took his prize to Ogden, where he received a good price for it.

At a meeting held last evening in the Forest Dale meeting house the Y. M. M. I. A. of Forest Dale ward was organized with the following officers: Geo. M. Cannon, president; Jos. W. Musser, first counselor, and Jas. T. Dunbar, second counselor.

The filling of the other offices of the association was left until the next meeting. Brother Joseph Merrill of the Y. M. M. I. A. Stake presidency and B. B. Brown, one of the aides, were present and gave valuable instruction as to organization and the subject matter to be taken up during the winter. The association finally decided to assemble conjointly with the Y. L. M. I. A. for the opening exercises and then separate for the study of the Life of Christ as outlined in the manual. Following this they will again assemble with the Young Ladies' organization and join in the closing exercises. By this method it is thought that the two associations retain their good attendance and keep awake the interest which characterized their efforts during last season.

Garden City, Oct. 18, 1897.

The wedding bells are ringing here just now. The interesting event is the marriage this week of George Calder, aged 23, to Miss Teenie Hildt, aged 19, both of this city. They departed for Logan on Sunday morning via Logan canyon. They will return on Thursday, and Friday night George will give a free dance to the people in honor of the occasion. We extend hearty congratulations to the happy couple and wish them a smooth voyage over life's sea of matrimony. Next?

Two births are recorded recently here. Mrs. Alice Pope presented her husband with a fine daughter a few days since. Mrs. George Pope presented her husband with a bouncing son the other day. The child was not to remain here long, however, and passed peacefully away last Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. Funeral services were held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

School is now in running order with Mr. Emmett Howell of Fish Haven as its principal.

Sunday afternoon George Whittington lost four head of cattle valued at over $100 by being bloated on lucern. This is a heavy loss as Brother Whittington is a poor man.

The weather is quite cold and stormy of late.
E. VATERLAUS.

FROM THURSDAY'S DAILY, OCTOBER 21.

Elder Henry Koldewyn, of Ogden, who returned on Oct. 8th, from a mission to Holland, made a call at the "News" today. He left home on March 31, 1895, and was assigned to labor as a missionary in Holland. The four principal districts in which he travelled were Aondelm, Dordrecht, Amsterdam and Rotterdam. In each place he found the people kind and hospitable. Three are many willing to listen to and investigate the message the Elders bear, and as a consequence there are constant additions to the Church and the prospect for continued success is bright. The Saints in Holland generally seek to perform their duties, and are making an excellent record. Elder Koldewyn had good health and enjoyed his missionary labors.

Lehi Banner: Beets are still dancing down the flume at the sugar factory and the sweet, white crystals are being whirled away as fast as steam can carry them to sweeten life for the people of these valleys. Up to the present 13,000 tons of beets have been made into sugar, the most of which has been placed on the market. There are now about 2,000 tons of beets in the sheds and the farmers are rushing them in as fast as they can. From present indications the run will last about three weeks or a month longer. The rain has been detrimental though Lehi has suffered more than other districts. They are trying to secure as many mother beets as possible but this is such a poor year they will be unable to secure as many as last year so will raise less seed.

The "News" has received a pleasant call from Elder E. A. Bushman of Lehi, Utah county, who returned home on Saturday, October 17th, from a mission to California, on which he left April 7, 1895. Most of his missionary labors were in southern California, in and about San Diego, and he reports excellent progress. The prospects for the future are very encouraging. The Elders receive good attention from the people in presenting the Gospel message, and the meetings are well attended. The people treat the missionaries with marked kindness and courtesy. Quite a number of members have been added to the Church recently in that part of the Golden State. Elder Bushman enjoyed excellent health while on his mission.

[Millennial Star, Oct. 7.]

The following named Elders from Zion arrived in Liverpool, per American Line steamer Waesland, October 6, 1897:

For the British Mission—Daniel Clark of Pocatello, Idaho.

For the Swiss and German Mission—Joseph Jacobs Jr. of Charleston.

For the Scandinavian Mission—Hans C. Hansen of Lakeview; Gideon B. Olsen Jr. of Paradise; Erastus L. Ottesen of Spanish Fork; Andrew B. Jensen of Eden; Carl C. Garff of Ogden.

Mrs. Jennie Mitchell of Ogden came with the company to visit England.

Daniel Clark has been appointed to labor as traveling Elder in the Birmingham conference.

Hial G. Bradford, ex-principal of the Uintah school, died suddenly at his residence on Capital Avenue, in Farmers ward, at 7:10 last evening. The immediate cause of death was heart disease superinduced by a severe and protracted attack of typhoid fever a little over a year ago.

Mr. Bradford was a popular and successful school worker and his death will be the source of profound sorrow to many friends, teachers, parents and pupils, who learned to honor and respect him for his frank, open nature and real worth. Up to a week or ten days ago he seemed to be improving in health and stated he was of the opinion that he was on the way to permanent recovery, a wish in which his family and friends earnestly joined. One week ago pesterday his father, a Pioneer of '47, dropped dead at his door at Cottonwood and the sad event preyed heavily upon the son's mind and probably hastened his demise.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY, OCTOBER 22.

The officials at the head of the national public-land bureau do not advise women to take up government land with the idea of living and establishing homes thereon, both of which
