Able Argument of Hon. James O. Broadbead BEFORE A HOUSE COMMITTEE

mental Bill.

Injustice of the Editorale

Following is the full text of the augment made by Hon. James O. Broadhead against the Edmunis supplemental bill and in favor of leaving the supposition of the personal property of the Church, now in the initide of the receiver, to the Supreme Court of the United States:

States:

The committee met, pairsuant to call of chairman, at 10:30 a.m.

The committee having under consideration Seamte till 40%, estitled "An act supplemental to the set of Congrees passed in March, 1851, estitled "An act to amend an act, estitled "An act to amend section 5322 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in reference to bigmay, and for other jurposes," approved March 22, 1852," this day learnd argument of Judge James 9. Recodlement of the Chairman and gentlemen of the committee, by your leave and courtery I upper before you this immining to give some reasons why the bill which I had in my hand, which passed the Scients, ought set be bill which is had in my hand, which passed the Scients, ought set be bill set in the fill as it has only one section and as I do into tolinee the committee has directed its attention to it.
