

VISITING VANDALS AT TABERNACLE.

Break Down the Doors to Get Out During Rendition of Musical Program.

ABRUPT ENDING OF RECITALS.

Transient Travelers Who Apparently Have Neither Manners Nor Ears For Music.

What was one of the most flagrant breaches of courtesy, if not of decency, occurred in the Tabernacle yesterday, as the organist was working up to a presentation of the overture to the program, the last number on the program, from 50 to 100 tourists from their gallery seats and tried out, without waiting for the recital to end. The audience had been a by-customer Thomas that the back train for Salt Lake would be held for their accommodation, but this did not seem to make any difference for the transient travelers who swarmed down the back stairs and tried to get out. There was no doorkeeper at the north entrance and taking advantage of this, the crowd at that point deliberately broke the double doors outward, thus making the locks and bolts, and so breaking out. The man in charge of the south entrance, hearing the noise, hurried over there, and in his absence the crowd inside the south doors burst out in the same way.

This created so much confusion in the hall that the organist stopped in the middle of the overture, and quit. If there was an indignation man on the face of the earth, it was Organist McCallin, who declared that there would be a policeman on duty hereafter, in the Tabernacle, and thus prevent any more such outrages. After the crowd had dispersed, Prof. ApMaddoe, Miss Elin Hamey, and a number of other well known musicians who had been in the body of the house, came into the hall, and Prof. McCallin finished the overture. The program consisted of the Algonquin selection, the Adagio of Gullmair's Fourth organ sonata, and by special request of the Kentucky Light Troupe, "My Old Kentucky Home." Miss Hamey sang a dramatic selection for Prof. ApMaddoe after the recital. She was in excellent voice, and her effort was a very fine one. Prof. ApMaddoe was delighted.

LOCAL COLORED FOLKS.

Estimate is That Population Has Increased Ten Per Cent in Two Years.

Edward W. Taylor of the Platteau estimates that the colored population of Salt Lake City has increased ten per cent in the past two years. Mr. Taylor remarks:

"In this city the colored men make a cleaner and neater appearance than they do in any city west of Chicago, and their deportment as good citizens is not surpassed anywhere in the United States. This is a valuable factor in securing them steady and good employment, and partly for this reason the colored race here is in good circumstances. The employment generally sought by the race is that of table waiter, railway porters and sleeping car porters, and this city has become quite a headquarters for this class of employment. The Knutsford and the Wilson hotels, the Commercial club and this supporting over 100 colored people, besides this Salt Lake was recently made a division point for the Pullman company, which employs quite a large number of colored men, and this attracts the race to this city. Based on the low estimate the money earned by the colored people of this community is about $2,500 per month, or $27,000 a year."

NONE AMONG THE ROSIES.

Wife-Hunting Man from Oregon Calls For Help from Salt Lake.

Presumably having failed to find a suitable wife among the members of the Rose club of Portland, Harry West of that city, has written to Mayor Morris to assist him in finding a wife in this city. The touching appeal is certainly a wonder in the matter of husband and general composition and should be the means of attracting the attention of some woman who is especially desirous of becoming a full-fledged Oregonian and also of becoming a member of that elite organization mentioned in the letter. The money earned by the colored people of this community is about $2,500 per month, or $27,000 a year.

WIFE BROUGHT BACK.

She Was Found With Tells Another Story.

Eugene Gates and Mrs. William Turpin, who were brought back from Oregon yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Smith to answer to the charge of adultery, have an entirely different story to relate from that told by Turpin to the officers when he discovered that his wife had been with Gates. Both of the prisoners say that Mrs. Turpin was treated shamefully by Turpin and that he threatened to trade his wife to Gates for about a dollar. When Gates did not accept that generous offer it is said that Turpin offered Gates $2.50 to take her away. They both say that they did not leave town together and did not meet until about a week after they left. When they did meet Gates took the woman to Idaho with him and they happened to drop back into Utah a few days when they were arrested. The little seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Turpin is occupying the cell with her at the county jail where she says she would much rather stay than go back to her step-father.

Abscess.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1903: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. P. Lord's drug store who is now in Denver, Colo. He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment. I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world."

VICTIM OF MORPHINE.

Deadly Drug Found in Shocking State—Almost Starved to Death.

Martin Connell, an opium fiend, was brought to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Cowan in a deplorable condition, physically and mentally. The man was found lying by a smoldering fire near the Rio Grande tracks at Thirteenth South street, where he had been for three days. He was almost starved to death and the mosquitoes had bitten him horribly. When landed in the jail and given a good bath and a meal he told the officers that his downfall had been caused by morphine and that he had tried to quit the use of the drug, but could not do so. On one occasion, while trying to quit the habit he said that he nearly murdered his father, because he tried to keep the drug from him.

Amusements

The season of 1903-4 opened in brilliant fashion at the theater last night. A handsome audience was in attendance to arrest Mr. Kyrie Bellwe and his company—identical in every respect with that of last season in New York—and the hearty applause bestowed upon the exciting developments of the play and upon its two main figures, told that the success of "Raffles" elsewhere had been duplicated in Salt Lake.

The play, built up from the clever character sketches by Mr. Hornung, but widely different from them in many particulars, is a drawing room melodrama, breathless in its suspended interest, full of excitement every moment of its prolonged mortal duel between the crackman and the detective, and with a startling and unexpected finish (when the hunted crackman, brought to bay, fires his pistol in an inner apartment, and cleverly escapes through the big clock case when the detective rushes off the stage fully expecting to find him a suicide), that set all parts of the house in an uproar of enthusiasm. Though suggestive alike of "Jim the Penman" and "Captain Swift," "Raffles" has in it enough originality and cleverness of its own to be assured of a long career of success. Mr. Bellwe played the polished, nonchalant, handsome crackman, who was a thief partly because his father was one, partly because he could not resist the excitement of the "sport." In his well known faultless fashion; always the pink of perfection as a dresser, a portly and your best ideal gentleman roles—one could help wondering whether Mr. Bellwe is capable of being roused into a mood of blood and fire by any happening whatever. Standing abreast of the star was our old friend E. M. Holland, who resurrects Captain Redwood, the detective in "Jim the Penman," and brings him down to date in "Raffles," with not a hair of his delightful mannerisms forgotten. He was thoroughly admirable from first to last. It is a pity that the roar of applause as the final curtain descends, drowned his last speech, delivered as he sees his prey escaping. "Well I'm d— glad of it!"

The ladies, charmingly gowned, were not heavily taxed by their roles, though both the heroine, Miss Blandick, and the adventuress, Miss Stiggraves, might have infused more life and strength into their parts. It might be said of nearly all the players—including the star—that their tone was too confidential, suggesting that their voices were pitched for a much smaller auditorium. Mr. McCormack's Crawshaw was a capital character sketch.

The same bill closes the remainder of the week, with a Saturday matinee. The advance sale for the Henry Miller engagement is now going on at the theater box office.

PREST. W. A. CLARK VISITS SALT LAKE.

Executive Official of San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake. Arrived Today.

NOTHING NEW IN SITUATION.

Leaves This Evening for New York on Railroad Business—Utah Peaches Shipped East.

President W. A. Clark of the Salt Lake Route arrived in Salt Lake this morning over the Short Line from Butte on his way through to New York, where he goes on business connected with the San Pedro road.

When seen upon his arrival Senator Clark stated that there was nothing new to give out in connection with railroad affairs. "I am stopping off in Salt Lake for a few hours on my way through to New York," he said, "where I go on affairs connected with the railroad. Everything is moving along in a satisfactory manner and there is practically nothing new." Senator Clark gave out practically the same information as appeared in the "News" on the occasion of his last visit to Salt Lake.

Regarding the rumor that has been going the rounds during the past few days to the effect that Hon. George Sutherland and a number of prominent republicans would purchase the Herald Senator Clark in answer to a question said: "This is the first I have heard of it, it is nothing but a rumor, and I am regarding any change in ownership of the Herald, in fact a realty company in which I am interested is now working on plans for the erection of a new home for the Herald on Main street."

Changing the subject Senator Clark said, "My, but you are having some warm politics down here just now."

UTAH PEACHES.

Eight Carloads from Brigham City Go East to the Market.

Today the Oregon Short Line will haul eight cars of peaches out of Brigham City and transfer them to the Union Pacific for consignment east to market. The peaches were grown by Alfonso Snow of Brigham City and are valued at $450 a car, or $3,600 for the consignment. This shipment is one of the largest to date out of Utah and represents a growing industry among the ranchers of Boxelder county who are beginning to realize that there is good money in raising fruit for the market.

Traveling Passenger Agent Ridd has been assigned to escort the fish into Utah and see that the consignment of fifty cars for the Rio Grande is placed in Provo river.

PORTLAND WANTS IT.

Plan on Foot to Secure Alaska Short Line Terminus.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 2.—There is a plan on foot, in which capitalists of Portland are interested, to make Portland the water terminus of the Alaska Short Line railway, which was incorporated in Washington last fall with a capitalization of $15,000,000. J. T. Comfort of Alaska, branches the plan during his recent visit here when he was attending the convention of the American Mining congress. It is said this road, when constructed, will open the interior of Alaska and will make it possible to ship large amounts of supplies used in that country easily and cheaply, thus doing away with the present show and arduous methods employed. It is proposed to organize a steamship company in connection with the road and to make the southern terminus of this line at Portland. At the present time four-fifths of the supplies sent to Alaska are shipped from San Francisco.

THE BIGGEST SEARCHLIGHT IN THE WORLD.

The most powerful searchlight ever made has recently been put together in Nuremberg, Germany. Some idea of its great illuminating power may be gained from the fact that it is of 215,000,000 candle power. If it could be set on a hill 500 feet in height it would send its rays seventy or eighty miles away. The same builders recently furnished a 30,000,000 candle power searchlight for the Heligoland lighthouse. The instruments are provided with iris shutters and the whole device is electrically controlled by two levers.

METROPOLITAN REPORT.

According to Balance Sheet New York Company Has Big Deficit.

New York, Sept. 2.—President H. H. Vreeland of the New York City railway, which leases the Metropolitan Street Railway company, and operates practically all the surface transportation lines in Manhattan and The Bronx has issued the annual report of the entire system for the year ended June 30 last.

According to the balance sheet the New York railway company sustained a deficit of $1,745,994 for the year. The income account of all the controlled systems shows a deficit of $1,396,770. Maintenance and legal damages were larger.

Gross earnings were $21,485,006 compared with $21,549,545 in 1903. President Vreeland explains that this decrease was due to the unfavorable weather conditions of last winter. Statistics embodied in the report show that 423,451 passengers paid fares as compared with 423,893,524 in the previous year, a decrease of 1,133,554.

Notwithstanding the decrease in fares there was an increase of 9,000,000 in the number of transfers issued. The income account for the year contains the statements of earnings of the 14 different controlled lines. The decreased earnings were spread among 10 of these lines, the remaining four showing a surplus.

Blair, minister of railways in the Dominion cabinet, and Dr. Mills, the railway commissioner, who have been sitting at Vancouver inquiring into the whole question of freight rates, arrived from the mainland tonight, but will not sit here. The commissioners are accompanied by their wives and a large party of friends. From here they will go to the Crow's Nest pass and all through the Kootenai, taking evidence, and will then proceed to Edmonton, Alberta, to take evidence.
