

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES

THEY COULD SEE IT.
It was so apparent to the Continental people when they came to compare Benson's Caprine Plaster with other plaster products on exhibition that they were greatly superior to any of them, and they purchased their own for their own use. It is the only plaster of its kind that gives to the manufacturer of it the highest award of merit only.

THEY COULD SEE IT.
That the word "CAPRINE" is the only word that is used in the name of the plaster is a fact that is known to all who have used it. It is the only plaster that gives to the manufacturer of it the highest award of merit only.

LAME-BACK!
Benson's Caprine Plaster is the best remedy for a lame or painful back, or weakness of the back ever invented or known. It soothes, it strengthens, it cures, where other plasters and all liniments fail.

Don't Wait.

The citizens of New York and vicinity have, no doubt, noticed our frequent advice, not to wait until a cough or cold had become thoroughly seated on their lungs, and they were in almost the last stages of consumption, but take care of themselves in time. "An ounce of prevention is as good as a pound of cure." All coughs, colds, influenza, difficult breathing, and all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, leading to consumption, can certainly be cured by using "Dr. Hale's Cough and Bronchus and Lung Remedy." An article which is now prepared according to the original recipe of the late Dr. Hale, a celebrated physician of Europe. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents a bottle, or six bottles for $2.50. Crittenton's Central Medicine Warehouse, 7 Sixth Avenue, New York City. The large or dollar size sells six bottles for $5, which is the best economical.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Preaching.—Elder Henry N. Smith will preach in the 12th Ward Assembly Rooms to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Voices from Babylon.—This book is published by Foster & Coates, of Philadelphia, is a companion to "A Miracle in Stone," and can be had in this city of James Dwyer. Price $1.50.

Accident.—The following special dispatch has just been received per Deseret Telegraph Co.:

FILLMORE, March 1.
A sad accident occurred here yesterday, about 6 o'clock. A little boy of Bishop Smith's was down on the ice, and he was playing near a well of water, when he stepped on a loose rock at the edge of the well and fell in. He had been in the water about 45 minutes, and when found life was extinct.

Mortality.—Sixteen reports for February. Males, 29; females, 14. Of three, adults, 13; children 30. Causes of death as reported: Diphtheria, 12; lung disease, 2; child birth, 3; brain disease, 3; paralysis, 2; croup, 2; heart disease, 2; old age, 2; convulsions (infantile), 2; premature birth, 2; killed accidentally, 2; scarlet fever, 1; bronchitis, 1; inflammation of bowels, 1; marasmus, 1; total interments, 43, showing a decrease as compared with January, 1879, of 55.

JOSEPH E. TAYLOR, Sexton.

Concert.—An entertainment is to be given next Tuesday evening, the 4th inst., in the 13th Ward Assembly Rooms for the benefit of the Sundry school. A program of the performance has been laid before us, and, knowing the ability of those taking part in it, we do not hesitate to say that a very excellent concert may be expected. There will be piano solo recitations, songs, glee, by the Azalea Glee Club, etc., surely as to variety and quantity no fault can be found. Admission 25 cents, children half-price.

"Early History."—The popular lecture on "Early History of the Church," will be delivered by Elder Joseph F. Smith, next Wednesday evening, March 5th, in the 21st Ward Meeting House, (commencing at 7:30 o'clock) under the auspices of the Mutual Improvement Association.

This is a good opportunity for those who have not yet heard the lecture, to listen to a truthful sketch of what must always be an interesting topic to our people. The president of the 21st Y. M. M. I. A. invites all such to be present, but will be especially pleased to see a full representation of our youth.

The Work in Georgia.—We have been permitted to read a letter from Elder Andrew S. Johnson, of this city, now laboring in the ministry in Georgia, to Brother N. J. Granger of the 14th Ward. The communication is interesting and gives a graphic description of the condition of the people in that part of the county. The winter, say the oldest inhabitants, is the most severe that has been experienced for upwards of 30 years, and as few are prepared for it, much suffering is the consequence. The people are very indifferent on religious matters, and preaching the gospel is not very successful at present, though the writer hopes that a brighter day is at hand.

Trial of Gen. E. T. Burton.

Proceedings this morning:

M. R. CHILDS.

Was first sworn; in 1852 lived in Riverdale about two miles and a half from Morris' fort; was a member of Burton's posse; was in the fort the evening of the third day; I heard the conversation between Gen. Burton and Morris; I stood at the southeast corner of the school-house; pointed out the relative positions of the horsemen and the Morris; Gen. Burton called for Jos. Morris; I did not see the latter until he was near Gen. Burton, who said he had a writ for Morris, Banks, Parsons and others; said he also wanted the surrender of all who had borne arms; some one followed for Jos. Morris to speak, permission being granted if he would be brief and not excite the people to further hostilities; he said "All who are willing to follow me, do so," he started north I think and a general rush of the Morris crowd followed; I then started in company with Mr. Brown to get on the school-house steps to see what took place; Brown was ahead of me; we met a man coming out of the school-house; Mr. Brown took gun away from him; and while I was stepping up to the highest step the shooting commenced; I saw Gen. Burton shoot, and Judson Stoddard shoot, and others, who I do not know; Gen. Burton shot at Jos. Morris; I saw them very distinctly; Gen. Burton shot I think twice, and Stoddard perhaps three; I think Gen. Burton shot Jos. Morris, who staggered in the act of falling, and I saw him no more I think until the trouble was over; there were others very close behind him; I do not remember whether they were men or women; the shooting was very rapid, or seven shots, or eight, I guess about four seconds; Burton was from 16 to 20 feet away from Morris; heard Burton tell him to stop, or halt; this was before I got on the doorsteps; Gen. Burton was within my view until the firing ceased; no woman approached near him; he remained on horseback during the time he was in the fort; I helped construct and move the rolling breastwork; I saw a party make a rush toward the log house near west lane; the battery was constructed of three wheels connected by a pole and the spokes filled in with willows; this battery became broken near the log house; I helped roll the battery and had no gun.

Cross-examination: I went in with the first party who followed Morris; I did not notice how many went in; there was no one guarding the arms when I went in; there was nothing to prevent the Morris from getting the arms; when this rush was made I think there were six men guarding the arms, though I do not recollect exactly; I thought the Morris were making a rush toward the log house; but I have no distinct recollection at that instant of seeing any men guarding the arms; there might have been 25 men there for all I know; Burton faced the Morris, and I think a little north of east, at the time of the shooting; Stoddard stood on Gen. Burton's left from where I stood; the horsemen were mostly headed in the same direction; I would not think they were exactly abreast; there were four or five men on horseback; I knew only General Burton and Stoddard; Stoddard rode a larger horse than Burton; the two who did the shooting had pistols; did not notice that all the horsemen had pistols; one, a young man, had a bullet; I should think there were as many as five men on horseback; am not positive about the direction they faced; when the first I heard Gen. Burton said he had a writ, and asked that he required the surrender of all who had taken arms against him; after permission was granted and he said for his people to follow him, he turned partly around and started toward the Morris; (placed spots on the chart about where the Morris and the arms stood) I am positive that Morris turned a little around to speak to his people, but whether he turned northeast or what direction I can't say; when the Morris started toward the arms, Morris did also to do this he must have turned his direction a little; in a direction about 25 feet northeast of where he stood talking to Burton, he fell; men, women and children made a general rush toward the arms; in response to Joseph Morris, they said "aye" or something like that and started forward; General Burton called "halt" about twice I think; he fired almost immediately; Morris I think was not close to any other Morris; they made a rush to ward him and toward the arms; my recollection is that there were some few close to Morris, but whether they were men, women or children I cannot say; I do not examine him or was hit or any of the other bodies; he was stooping a little I think when he was falling; the Morris crowd perceiving danger, fled; a rod and a half toward the arms.

By a juror—Morris was going northeast when Burton called him to stop; he did not stop; was going when he was shot.

THOS. MARSHALL.

Was next sworn; know Gen. Burton and have known him since 1858; I consider his character has been good.

Cross-examination.—Was not up at the Morris case.

E. D. ROSE.

Was sworn; am acquainted with Gen. Burton, have known him for upwards of 13 years; his general character has been good, and in an official and private capacity, good.

JUDGE Z. SNOW.

Was sworn; have been acquainted with him since 1852 and familiarly; his reputation as to being a law abiding citizen has been good.

A. MINER.

Was sworn; know Gen. Burton, have known him since 1854; his general reputation has been, both in an official and private capacity, good.

THEODORE MCKEAN.

Was sworn; Accompanied Gen. Burton's posse in 1858 as deputy marshal and adjutant; kept a memorandum of some of the events; was on the bluff when the cannon was fired; kept a memorandum of the events; the first gun was fired about 10 o'clock; 140 male prisoners were first taken, but some were afterwards released; some of the arms captured were found loaded.

Cross-examination: Found some powder and some balls; made no memorandum of the ammunition brought in; it was said I think, I kept no record of the arms turned over to anybody; did not count the guns, so do not know that my memorandum is correct.

N. GROESBECK.

Knew Gen. Burton; know him since the fall of 1856; my reputation to be good.

JUDGE SUTHERLAND.

stated that many other witnesses giving this same testimony could be produced, but that their testimony would merely be accumulative.

JUDGE VAN KILN.

stated that he desired to introduce rebutting testimony, and an adjournment was therefore taken.

until Monday morning at 9.30 o'clock.

The Wheelbarrow Man.—This morning's Journal states that K. L. Potter, who is making a nine thousand mile tramp, all the distance trundling a wheelbarrow, has again arrived in Ogden, on his way back to New York. Fredeymer, against whom Potter is walking, (the wages being $1,500) is far ahead of the latter, who has been sick and has lost considerable time.

Fredeymer, however, has frozen his feet, and is traveling slowly, so that it is possible Potter may yet win the race and the money.

This is a curious way of making a living, or getting money, but the endurance and pluck of the pedestrians are worthy of praise.

Deseret S. S. Union Meeting.—Officers and teachers of Sunday Schools will hold their regular monthly meeting at the 14th Ward Assembly Rooms, on Monday evening the 3d inst., at 7 o'clock.

A representation from all the Sunday Schools is desired, and all who feel interested are cordially invited to attend.

The 15th Ward choir will kindly furnish music for the evening.

L. W. RICHARDS, Secretary.

Debate.—We are requested to publish the following:

The Philomathian Debating Society will hold their regular meeting in the M. E. Church Parlor, on Monday evening (next) at 7.30.

Subject for debate.—Resolved that capital punishment should be abolished.

The public are cordially invited to attend.

W. R. GREEN, Sec.

WELLSVILLE, Cache County, Feb. 21, 1879.

Editors Deseret News—

Wellsville lies in the plain, beneath the plateau stretching along the base of the mountains, at the southwestern extreme of this valley. Its location is at once healthful and beautiful.

It is situated on the edge of the plateau, and the rich and fruitful farms distributed to the south and east, which complete the picture of the valley and the property of the landscape.

The settlement consists of about 150 families, with Bishop Wm. H. Maughan, a man well deserving of the love and confidence of his people, as presiding officer. The principal occupations of the inhabitants are farming and freighting, the latter a lucrative but rather demoralizing business carried on between the terminus of the railroad and the mountains. The rapid extension of that road, however, widening the distance between this place and the end of the track, presages the time when the freighting business will be gone, and the consequent thickening of the more steady going portion of the community.

Wellsville has a "co-op." well patronized, its business turning annually in the neighborhood of $20,000; and the people, especially those who, instead of going away freighting, stay at home and cultivate the parent earth, are prospering in their peaceful and comfortable homes.

Cache Valley throughout, its well-known for the natural beauty, the richness and fertility of its soil, and the industry and thrift of its inhabitants. In favorable weather, Wellsville presents a fine appearance, but when the softness of the atmosphere has impaired its spirit to the sidewalks, and nature is just emerging from her wintry slumber, soiled and dripping, the observer sees more to admire than to praise.

Of course the town has its Relief Society, as useful and active as those worthy institutions usually are, and its mutual improvement associations for both sexes. Of the Y. M. M. I. A., your correspondent is prepared to speak in terms of the highest commendation, having attended a recent meeting of that society. The exercises, in selection, arrangement and performance were fully equal to any of it one of Salt Lake's associations of a similar character, and the good attendance, willingness to take part, and the growing interest for such things in the minds of the youth, predict a future for this little place that is most refreshing to anticipate.

Of the Young Ladies' Association your informant can only speak from hearsay. It is said that at one time they were ahead of their young brethren in the cause of mutual improvement, but this winter, have been left a few leagues in the wake. The information comes from one of the gentler sex, so it may be deemed reliable. The ladies, however, hope to yet regain their former status, and in the mean time point with complacency to what they once were, adding the epigram,

"We were distinct, as you all ways do." To which the young men reply, "That's human nature."
