How the Public at Times is Robbed by Gratters for Small Amounts.

SOME TRICKS OF CIRCUS MEN.

Are Considered Artists at This Line of Thievery—Pedlers and Waiters Also Well Up.

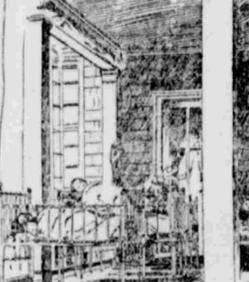

The art of short changing is studied by waiters, bartenders, street fakers and various other servants of the public. The man to whom all other short changers defer their headgear is the ticket seller in the circus box office.

There are two ideal methods of returning change in an apparently honest manner and at the same time retaining part of it. One of these is used when the change is in silver and one is employed when bills are handled.

The illustration shows a ticket seller in the act of dumping a handful of silver into the hand of his owner. This looks so fair that few persons take the trouble to recount the money.

LEHI BASEBALL WINS AT LAGOON

Great Rivalry Shown at Game During Excursion of Utah County Bands.

FINAL SCORE WAS 13 TO 6.

Provo and Spanish Fork Nine Was Ahead at First But Went to Pieces in the Sixth.

Lehi and American Fork met Provo and Spanish Fork at baseball yesterday at Lagoon, and the battle was a royal one from the first moment Lehi went to bat.

The pieces are counted rapidly and there is nothing suspicious in the operation; but the reader will notice that the manner of counting changes when the third dollar is reached.

There was an unique feature of the game, and that was the amount of music. It was both teams were backed by a full assortment of brass and drums.

A minor method of holding out change when selling ten-cent tickets to the "grand concert after the show" is frequently used.

Then he dumps the handful of silver into the hand of his owner. This looks so fair that few persons take the trouble to recount the money.

FEEL IMPENDING DOOM.
