SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

Flood Damage Claims Denied—City Will Not Turn River Back To Old Channel.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM WARD.

Many Friends Pay Tribute To His Worth—County Board Considers Improvement of Roads and Bridges.

Ogden, April 2.—The Ogden city council held a short session last evening. The city has just decided not to turn the Ogden river back to its old channel, or, at least, to construct the dam that was washed out a few weeks ago by the first heavy flood in February. On this matter a communication was received from City Attorney Bagley, in which he informed the council that he had sent a letter to all the canal companies that took water from the river for irrigation purposes, that if they desire the water turned back into its former channel so that they can get the water into their canals this summer they will have to reconstruct the dam themselves. This communication was filed.

On recommendation of the city attorney, the council ordered the judgment rendered against the city in favor of Elsie Hingham of $375 for personal injuries, paid.

City Attorney Bagley, County Attorney Harris and Commissioner McKay appeared before the council and recommended that the waters running from Taylor's canyon, which now crosses Washington avenue at Thirty-fifth street, be diverted further south so as to prevent any further overflow of the stream on to Washington avenue.

CITY COUNCIL SESSION.

Will Purchase Site for Power Plant—Quarterly Reports Filed.

Provo, April 2.—A communication was received by the city council at its meeting last evening from City Marshal Henry advising the council that he had, with the approval of the mayor, appointed James Snow and Hugh McKenny special policemen at a salary of $65 a month.

Mayor Frisby reported the employment of Joseph W. Lovelace, the former chief, to take charge of the fire department at $65 a month.

Juvenile Judge Kellogg presented a report in which he called attention to the new law and gave it as his opinion that the law did not make any change in the juvenile court of Provo City.

It, however, the juvenile commission should decide otherwise, and the council at any time desired Judge Kellogg's resignation it would be forthcoming. Judge Kellogg thanked the council and officers for the support he had been given in the juvenile court work. Referred to the juvenile court committee.

County Auditor Gee presented a statement of Provo City taxes for 1906 which showed the following:

Taxes charged to county	$32,655.84
Paid city by county treasurer	30,382.01
Erroneous assessment	212.16
Remitted	565.65
Uncollectable	223.65
Charges for collection	283.45
Tax sales	467.11
Total	$32,655.84

Mayor Frisby reported the appointment of Dean Strong as poundkeeper to take the place of Joseph W. Lovelace, resigned. Appointment confirmed.

Ball Commissioner Henry presented his quarterly report showing $32 for the City Justice Noon reported $119 collected in fines, and imprisonment for 1906, in fact imposed for the quarter ending March 31.

The committee on electric light was authorized to enter into a contract with M. F. Pack for the purchase of an electric power site in the north fork of Provo canyon for $2,500, provided the committee found the capacity as represented by Mr. Pack—2,000 horse power—and that his title is good. The city marshal was instructed to enforce the ordinance compelling owners of city property to trim their shade trees. And it was given as the sense of the council that city prisoners shall be worked on the streets.

MRS. FERRIS FUNERAL.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Daniel Ferris, held yesterday in the Sixth ward meetinghouse. The speakers were Elder Evan Dried, Bishop L. L. Nelson and Elder Brigham Johnson. Beautiful vocal selections were rendered by the ward choir.

A FINLANDER STRANDED.

A young Finn, who arrived in Springville Friday, from Pennsylvania on his way to Eureka, where he has friends, was brought to Provo today by Deputy Sheriff Hales, upon the sheriff's office being notified that there was an insane man in Springville who should be looked after. The young man, who is a good looking man of about 25 years of age, was without money when he came to Springville, for which point he had a ticket, and he did not know where Eureka was, and could not or did not make his way of something to eat known, but wandered around the

as it did on the recent flood occasions. To further investigate the advisability of carrying out the recommendation, the president appointed Councilmen Mervin Brown and Weatherly. The law committee reported on the claims of Mrs. Ruth Bassett and J. P. Moran for damages caused to their horses through the floods, disapproving of the allowance of the claims. The report was adopted.

A partial estimate on the sewer work being done by J. P. O'Neill, amounting to $2,383.24, was received from the city engineer and ordered paid.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM WARD.

Concourse of Sympathizing Friends Fill North Ogden Meetinghouse.

Ogden, April 2.—The North Ogden meetinghouse was inadequate to hold the large gathering of relatives and friends yesterday afternoon at the funeral services over the remains of William Ward, and the funeral cortege which followed his remains to their last resting place was over a half mile in length, indicating the high esteem in which he was held in Weber county, where he has lived all his life. The funeral services were presided over by Bishop's Counselor James Storey. The choir furnished music and Mrs. A. R. C. Smith sang sweetly "O Love Divine."

The speakers were Elders Samuel Shaw, Willard Burton, Nathaniel Montgomery, Joseph Stanford, David O. McKay, President C. F. Middleton and Elder Newman Barker. Each one spoke of the exemplary life of the deceased, his deep devotion to his family and of the universal sorrow that his death had caused in the community. They comforted the family in the knowledge that God is just and knoweth all things and rewards His children for their faithfulness.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A careful record of meteors or shooting stars is kept by W. F. S. Deming, the great English authority on these bodies, and the reports furnished have enabled him to give interesting determinations for 102 large meteors seen in 1906. The heights at commencement of visibility varied from 50 to 59 miles, while those at disappearance ranged from 22 to 56 miles. The longest path noted and the velocities determined were between 15 and 30 miles per second. The reality of the blazing or explosive sound reported by some observers of bursting meteors seems to be a matter of doubt. Mr. Deming has never heard the sound himself, and some of those reporting it have been 100 or 150 miles away from the objects while persons much nearer have heard nothing. Lieut. Col. Tupper is the only trained observer who has reported a genuine hissing from the direction of a falling star.

A simple blood test has been perfected by Florowski, a European chemist. A little diluted serum from a given animal is placed in a very small test tube, into which is then introduced one drop of the fresh or dried sample of blood in a solution of salt. The tube is then allowed to stand 15 minutes. If the blood and serum are from the same species—as the blood of a faint red precipitate of congealed blood appears under clear liquid, but if blood and serum are from unlike animals, the blood will be dissolved in the serum, which will turn red. Old stains placed in fresh human serum were conclusively shown to be human blood.

Count von Zeppelin's airship, which holds the distance and speed record of 63.55 miles in two hours, 17 minutes, is 120 feet long, 38 feet in diameter, and has a rigid aluminum frame containing 10 hydrogen balloons. Two 2-horse power gasoline motors drive four propellers.

The ground is usually germ free at a depth of two yards, but the living bacteria brought to the surface of the French academy by Dr. M. Boudon were derived from a depth of more than 10 yards in earth that had been undisturbed for nearly 1,800 years. An old Gallic-Roman grave near Tournepo, in Normandy, contained several charred corpses, and skeletons of goats, dogs and cows. Cultures of the enveloping slime, a mixture of sand and water with remains of skins, bristles, gave the coli bacillus and various species of spheero-bacteria, and these organisms must have lived in isolation since the grave was made.

Luminous vapor marking the location of a mine ore deposits in a night was recorded 160 years ago in Germany, and has been noted since in North America, but the observations have been generally attributed to superstition and error. Recent investigation has proven the reality of such an emanation from the earth's surface. It is especially frequent just before and during thunderstorms, and has been repeatedly photographed by a German physicist, K. Zenger, using plates coated with fluorescent substances. The electric radiation should be most intense over spots that are good conductors of electricity—such as beds of ore and even of coal. The photographs seem to show the variations in intensity of radioactivity, and this may give a very simple and valuable means of locating ore deposits.

The automatic signalling lead of Sjostrand, a Swedish engineer, is a so-called "water kite" that is kept at a depth regulated by the line given it and that is manipulated thus registering a signal on the vessel's deck when its forward end touches bottom. The roof-like planes—pointing forward and downward—cause the kite to "dig" directly downward as it is pulled through the water. On becoming uncoupled, the apparatus rises, when it is pulled in, and after a slight adjustment, it is ready to be thrown again. Without slackening speed, dangerous shoals can be guarded against in foggy weather or in unfamiliar waters, or depth observations can be made for any purpose.
