

NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Colored Burglar Who Went to Sleep Over His Work.

OUT OF GOD AND LAW OF MAN.

Promising is a Well-Born Hunting as a Money Making Industry—Over Done.

The 20th Anniversary of Austin, Nev., keeps most of the population in the province of secret revels.

Great interest is said to be a profitable industry in Josephine County, Wash. The timber camp at Gold King, Oregon, where they bring up 1,000 logs a day.

Caving at the recent silver mines in counties of Washington, the cost of which has been fully assessed. Fewer mines will be a total failure in some sections. Cavers and rockhounds are out.

Frank Hart, aged 37, was drowned in the river at St. Louis, Mo., on Sunday afternoon. The river had risen and Hart attempted to cross it. He was overcome by the current and was thrown off and drowned. His body has not been recovered.

Reports from Big Bend in the country surrounding Astoria, Oregon, indicate bright prospects for a big gold strike. It is not yet known, and may never appear, but these are to cover any apprehension for the safety of the river.

The residents of Bremerton, San Juan and Clallam counties, are annoyed by the many foxes existing in a wild state there. As a result of these foxes there is a strong sheepherding interest of late. Sheep flocks lower the mountain meadows rapidly, causing a whitewash scene like those existing. A large number of sheep have been lost and great gravel conditions the result.

Governor McConnel, who is from Idaho, has announced, has engaged a letter to his editor of the New York Press to be published in the Fourth of July edition of that paper in answer to the question, "When and where are the miners to the greatest extent?" The governor's answer to this query is full, frank and pertinent.

Two mothers in Montana, the other day, entered a house where a woman and her baby were noise. They prodded the woman until her limbs and feet were unsteady, but nothing would move her. She was then told she must give birth or die. She did so, but nothing happened. At length her husband, who was present, and two neighbors, and were frightened away before they had completed their search.

One of the curiosities of the Bremerton canyon is the silver mine, says the Laramie (Wyo.) newspaper. The mine is about fifteen feet apart and easily accessible. The mine is on the side of a mountain, but in thickness, this country overcomes all in that winter, is a minor silver vein, of which nothing has been found in either spring and fall or summer.

Miners settling in the Empire Valley, Nevada, Calif., report that last week during the thunder storm the lightning struck the pipe and descended to the mine in a depth of 1,000 feet and came out into the drift, where the men were working. Again the men were taken. The miners had a fine time of it, however, as they were struck by lightning and knocked down. Men working in the Granite Hill office, it is said, was slightly stunned.

A fight between two institutes of Japanese occurred at a camp near Woodland, Calif., Saturday night. The principal was a company of Japanese, who agreed to settle a dispute with another company, who were also Japanese. An employed actress, who agreed to make peace, spent four hours for the entertainment. This proved a war, in which parties and spectators were freely used. A number of each side were injured. One man, however, was having a severe attack of pain in the neck, nearly severing the jugular vein.

A young woman of Clark Park, Adams county, Oregon, is said to indulge in frequent frolics of semi-nudism. One of her recent exploits is reported as having caused a consternation among the citizens of the town and was soon to approach Cranbrook in her right role. Upon reaching the stream the young woman waded in for a short distance, if feeling not well, and swam safely across. Upon arrival she was seen to be quite wet and shivering with cold, the water, and made her way to the home of a neighbor, where she was cared for and taken to bed.

Thomas Coffin, a colored burglar, in company with a pal, made a descent on the water tank at Salt Lake City, and while there he committed a number of robberies. His tracks have been reported. While he in reality must have broken into a saloon, he developed an admiration of wine. He attempted to break a salvo in the Alkali Company, and, failing, he went to work on the tank. On when he came to get through the three doors the job was too much for him. The exertion more than money and his pal, Officer Callahan of the North Harbor station, became aware of his acts when he was captured and placed him under arrest.

A specimen of some thin ordinary interest has been rendered by Judge Edward H. Smith at San Francisco in the suit of Franklin McCormick against Emma M. Callahan et al. The action was to determine a measure of damages arising out of the construction of a bridge for Mrs. Callahan. While in process of construction the house was driven down and many buildings during the heavy storm on November 28, 1892. Under these circumstances Judge McCormick held that no damage could be recovered, for the reason that there was no house on which to damages. The judge added: "To no human agency may the damages be attributed. It was the act of God, for want of care of men made to be responsible, judgment was rendered for the defendant."
