ITEMS OF INTEREST.

RELATED BY ELDER JAMES H. HART.

Elder Angus McKay, of Huntsville, who labored eleven months in the Southern States mission, sailed from New York on the S.S. Wisconsin, November 13th, in company with Elders Smoot and Boschard, intending to finish his mission in his native Scotland. in his native Scotland.
While in Elder Hart's office at New York, he related the following incident concerning Elder Chas.
E. Robison, who died at King's Mountain, S. C., on the 26th of last August.

About two months prior to his death, Brother Robison had a dream in which his uncle, Counselor D. H. Wells, appeared to him and said, addressing him familiarly by name, "Charlie, you must hurry up, you have only half an hour left." He afterwards related it to the Elders with whom he was associated, at a conference held in July, a little over a month before he died. Some of them supposed at the time that it indicated their being driven out of the State, but Brother Robison, himself, as soon as he was taken sick, accepted it as a premonition of his end. He never expressed any hope afterwards of living, except to remark that nothing but the power of God could save him.

Elder Hart also relates the follow ing: Mrs. Mary Gordon, a member of the Church living at King's Mountain, the place where Elder Robison died, a month afterwards had a dream in which her father (whose name was Harkness, and who died soon after the civil war, in which he took part,) came to her and said that Brother Robison (then dead) had been to see him and convinced him of the truth of assemble to pay them theil and The young people are mets. two of the best known and of the daughter (Mrs. Gordon) had the daughter of the son of T.V. ANOTHER UTAH ARTIST.

THE REAL "ROMANCE OF A POOR YOUNG MAN."

A young Utah boy, by the name of G. H. Jack, is in New York City, a member of the Art Students League, whose headquarters are at Benedict's Buildings. He left home several years since, poor and penni-less, with nothing but his talent and the ambition to become an artist, having up to that time studied but little in that or any other direction. His first effort with the brush was upon the picket fence of our fellow townsman, Mr. James Dwyer, by whom he was employed to white-wash the palings on his wash the palings on his premises, and was told, after the job was finished, that he never would make an artist, for he could not even whitewash a fence

Nothing daunted by this discouraging prophecy, the young aspirant, with the unquenchable fire of enterprice burning under his ragged waistcoat, made his way with extreme difficulty to the home of his uncle in Connecticut, where he studied at odd times, during inter-vals of labor, landscape and other kinds of drawing.

Two years ago he went up to New York, and was admitted on his merits as a promising student, into the drawing class at the Cooper Institute, the drawing which admitted him being a crayon sketch of the head or a cast, considered a very commendable piece of work. He occupied himself daytimes in painting telegraph poles and doing odd jobs of like character, and devoted his evenings to study. He now has a studio at Benedict's Buildings, asso-He now has a ciated with another member of his class, and, as before stated, is also connected with the Art Students League.

He was at first considered dull, but his indomitable perseverance, added to the latent force of his abiiity, was resolved and still seems determined to surmount every obstacle to success. He is at present engaged, with two others, on a choice piece of work in the form of an embossed decoration, of a late patent, for one of the halls of the new palace of Mr. Henry Vaillard, President of the Northern Pacific Railway. This building, which is said to be the most costly dwelling-house in America, covers an area of an entire block, and is considered to be the only structure of its kind in the country, worthy of the name of

Brother James H. Hart, our informant, has visited Mr. Jack several times at his studio and other places, and speaks in praise of the sketches in his portfolio. Hon. George Q. Cannon has also met him and given words of encouragement to him in the pro-secution of his labors. A few Sundays ago he was invited by Hon. John W. Young, to dine with him and Brother Caunon at the Everett

Mr. James Dwyer has also come across the young artist in the East, and never fails whenever the sub-ject is brought up, to express with characteristic gueto and good feeling, his pride and amazement at the young student's progress, and laugh-ingly allude to him as his "early pupil, don't you know?" Mr. Jack is a native of England, but his Utah home is in Sannete.

Utah and Northern Freight Matters.—A few weeks ago an item appeared in this paper, having the Utah Journal as its origin, so far as the subject was concerned, relating to the alleged discriminations in freight matters by the U. P. railway corporation against the people of Cache Valley. Mr. B. F. Cum, mings, editor of the Journal, during his last visit to the city stated in the hearing of a News reporter that he had had an interview with Mr-F. R. McConnell, General Freight Agent of the Union Pacific Railway (the latter road controlling the Utah and Northern), and that a satisfactory adjustment of the matters complained of by our northern neighbore, was probable.

The latest issue of the Journal announces a visit by Mr. McCon-nell to Logan, with the intention of ascertaining the nature and extent of the grievances of the people of Cache County and the North, and the probable design of using his influence to ameliorate the present un-satisfactory condition of things, so far as lies in his power. He taking pains to ascertain the feelings of business men in that region in regard to freight matters, and our con-temporary thinks it will tend to a better understanding between them and the Union Pacific Company, which will redound to the advantage

Knocked Down by a Horse.—A painful accident befel Mr. William James, son of David James, Esq., about 10 o'clock this morning. He had hitched to the light wagon longing to the business house which he represents, a wild horse, and after driving up to and calling at the store on Main street, had gone on with the wagon up into the Elevanth West. enth Ward.

While on the way, the head-stall of the horse's bridle became disar-ranged, and Mr. James got out to ranged, and Mr. James got out to fix it, leaving the lines with a small boy who was with him in the wagon. He had barely reached the horse's head when the latter, becoming frightened at something, reared up and struck him in the face with his hoofs, inflicting two poly cuts, one shove flicting two ugly cuts, one above and the other beneath his left eye.

He fell to the ground and lay there helpless for some minutes, while the horse ran on. Recovering himself as soon as he could, Mr. James pursued and finally the runaway was stopped. Ho was asked into a house near by, and had the blood washed from his face, after which he sent the boy back to the store with the wagon, and went in quest of a sur-geon, who stitched up his wounds. He is feeling rather weak this after-noon, and doubtless his eye will pre-sent a bad appearance for some days, but we are nleased to learn, that the but we are pleased to learn that the accident which might have been worse, proved otherwise.

Paralysis Again. — On Sunday November 11th, at Morgan City, Brother Daniel Bull, a well known citizen of that place and an old-time veteran of the Church, fell a victim to paralysis. He was in the 70th year of his age, and had had not only a long life, but an eventful one

He was born September 16th, 1814, at Birmingham, Warwickshire, England, and was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in September, 1844, by elder George Stiles. He emigrated to Nauvoo in the following year, where he worked at gunsmith He was among the number detailed to guard the city against the mob, and made a cannon from a steamboat shaft for its defence.

He afterwards moved to Quincy Illinois, and finally arrived in Salt Lake City, October 22d, 1849, where he resided in the Old Fort, and also moved into the first house built in the Fifteenth Ward. He was a member of the Nauvoo Brass Band, under Captain Pitt, likewise one of Captain Ballou's Brass Band, and for years was Captain of the Morgan City Band. He moved to that place

On the 2d of May, 1875, he was ordained a High Prices, and on August 30th, 1878, was chosen First Counselor to the President of the High Priest's Quorum. He was stricken with paralysis, which deprived him of the use his right side and speech, on the Sunday before his demise. He died in full faith of the Gospel, surrounded by his relatives

Dead Bodies Found .- The following special to the NEWS reached this office at 3 p. m.:

FRISCO, Utah, Nov. 24, 1883.

The body of an old man was found this afternoon near Frieco, in such a decomposed state as to be beyond recognition. The body was almost entirely consumed by hogs. It is supposed to be the remains of an old man who was subject to drink, and that he wandered off in an intoxicated condition and perished.

The body of an Indian squaw was found in a well this morning. She had been there for water and in some way missed her footing, fell in and was drowned.

A Dastard Wretch.-Yesterday afternoon a little six-year-old daughter of Mr. Spencer Clawson was returning home from her father's store on Main Street when she was ac-costed by a big burly ruffian who made improper advances to her telling her that her mother had given him leave to kiss her, and offering the child money to go away with him. The little one was badly: frightened and almost fainted away but just then there came by another girl, several years older, a relative of the younger one, who took her by the hand and led her home.

The villain who had insulted her, next met and spoke in a similar strain to a little girl named Florence Beatie, patting her under the chin and enunder the chin and en-deavoring to entice her. She also repelled his vile advances and fled. He then encountered two small girls near the Gardo House. These girls near the Gardo House. These he succeeded in tempting, they in their innocence agreeing to accompany the wretch, who was moving off with them when the police, who had got wind of the affair, appeared upon the scene and took him into oustody. In the meantime Mr. Clawson's little girl had reached home and related to her mother what had occurred. The latter immediately telephoned to her husband, who instantly left the store and happening to come upon the police having the offender in charge, in his anger he seized a cane and broke it over the ruffian's head.

A church in Melbourne was recently broken into, the walls were scrawled with obscenity and the pew of a member who had been buried a few days before was de-molished, and every means was taken to show disrespect for the dead and his iriends. NO CIUC obtained to the perpetrators of the outrage.
