

CLIPPINGS.

—An Ohio stumper, while making a speech recently, paused in the midst of it, and exclaimed: "Now, gentlemen, what do you think?" Instantly, a man rose in the assembly, and with one eye partially closed, modestly, with Scotch brogue, replied; "I think, sir, I do indeed, sir—I think if you and I would sump the county together, we would tell more lies than any two men in the county, and I'd not say a word myself during the whole time!"

—A Western paper, announcing the death of a gentleman in Iowa, says: He was a great admirer of Horace Greeley, but otherwise a very respectable man.

—Mrs. Caroline M. King, of New York, recently killed herself by taking corrosive sublimate, because she found a pair of lady's gloves in her husband's pocket.

—At a lawsuit in New York, involving payment for $150 worth of American champagne, a witness swore that the wine was made of what is called "turnip juice." This was made to sparkle by gas made from vitriol and marble dust, and then labeled "champagne."

—Shootings have become so universal at Nashville, Tenn., and are so scientifically done, that a professor has advertised that he has opened a gallery so that with a few instructions the untutored pupil can "wing" his man every time.

—An English lady gambler, who had lost her all, at Hamburg, recently, went to a neighboring village, ascended the tower, 100 feet high, and killed herself by jumping off.

—The Louisville Journal says: We guess the Confederate States had better not impose a duty on Kentucky wheat, corn, rye, barley, and oats. If they do they'll find it will "go very much against the grain."

—A young lawyer lately concluded his argument in a case of trespass, with the following sublime burst: "If, gentlemen of the jury, the defendant's hogs are permitted to roam at large over the fair fields of my client with impunity and without yokes—then—yes, then indeed, have our forefathers fought and bled in vain."

—Cotton cloths may now be imported into France free of duty, provided they are re-imported after having been printed.

—The Empress of the French, it is said, is about taking a pilgrimage to Jerusalem. She will replace the diamond stars stolen from the cave of the Nativity, and make costly additions to the decorations of the Holy Sepulchre.

—The British Navy has a total of 688 fighting ships; of these 302 are screws, and 113 are paddle steamers.

—When Buchanan came into power four years ago, he found a surplus in the United States Treasury of eighteen millions of dollars. When he went out he left an empty treasury, and a national debt of a hundred millions.

—The city of Messina, in Sicily, with a population of 100,000 does not contain a single newspaper, but it has several theaters.

—An advocate having lately gained a suit for a poor lady who was very ugly, she remarked: "I have nothing to pay you with, sir, but my heart." "Hand it over to the clerk, if you please; I wish no fee for myself," he replied.

—A large tree supposed to be over seven centuries old, near the city of Mexico, is said to have been struck by lightning more than 200 times.

—Lord Campbell said he himself heard a Judge at Stafford thus sentence a prisoner to death for forgery: "And I trust, through the merits and mediation of our blessed Redeemer, you may experience that mercy in another world which a due regard to the credit of the paper currency of the country forbids you to hope for here."

—A list of knavish Buyers and Sellers has been prepared in Newark, N. J., by the clerk of the market, containing the names of all parties who are known to cheat in the weight and quality of farming produce; also of all those who fail to pay, or take undue advantage of the seller. It is of course a lengthy list.

—A New York Merchant lately retired with a fortune of $150,000, which he spent 30 years in amassing. During that time he lost $850,000 in bad debts.

—They've caught a white elephant in Africa. An exchange says this country caught a black elephant there long ago, and now don't know what to do with it.

—Augustus Craven proposes to use the waters of the Volturno, to irrigate the thousands of acres of hitherto profitless land near Naples.

—The new Patent Law, provides that all patents hereafter granted shall remain in force seventeen years from the date of the issue and all extension of such patent, is prohibited.

—The Rev. James Thurston, of Belmont, Mass., is engaged part of the time in lecturing on flax-cotton. By this new discovery, it is stated that New York can compete successfully in the growth of cotton with all the Slave States combined.

—Two sportsmen firing simultaneously, killed sixty-seven wild geese at one shot recently, at M ntauk.

—The sources of the four great African rivers, the Nile, Niger, Zambesi, and the Congo, have been discovered on the line of the Equator, in a densely wooded, mountainous region, by Mr. Chaylion, who traversed the whole continent. One peak of the lofty range was 12,000 feet high.

—Connecticut has nearly 1,000 public schools, and about one hundred thousand children, between the ages of four and sixteen. The State has school accommodations for about 80,000 children, at an annual expense of $400,000, or $5 to each child. The average attendance, however, is but little over fifty thousand.

—A missionary in Madras relates the account of a beggar in India, who had given a crown of gold valued at 15,000, to the god Vutharajaloo. He obtained the money by begging, and made it a rule never on any day to eat food till he had obtained five dollars.

—William English, in a fit of despondency about money matters, recently, cut the throats of his three little children, and then severed his own jugular, in the presence of his wife, in Baldwin county, Ala.

—At Foo-Chow, China, there is a bridge a mile and a half long, spanning the river between the foreign and native settlements. It is built entirely of granite, rests on 180 arches, and is 800 years old.

—It is said that doctors can mitigate the pain of sickness; certainly, a good many of them make dying a very easy thing.

—It has been announced that a perfectly successful attempt has been made to illuminate the Courts of the Tulleries and the Place du Carrousel by the electric light. The generating apparatus is placed in a cellar under Marshal Vaillant's apartments in the Tulleries, and the illuminating power is so great that the ordinary gas-jets seem absolutely lightless. The appearance of those localities every evening is that of an animated fair. The cost of the electric light is stated to be considerably less than that of gas.

Save your Paper Rags.

The inhabitants of Utah are requested to gather up and save their worn out wagon covers, and every description of cotton and linen rags for paper making, and deliver them, from time to time, to the Bishops of the several Wards, or the "News" and "Mountaineer" Offices or their agents, for which, when clean, they will be allowed five cents a pound. The rags can be sufficiently cleansed in pure water, without soap.

It is expected that, in a few months, all who wish can receive paper in exchange for rags.
